CAILLAUX IN LONDON FOR DEBT PARLEY; BRITISH ARE WARY

WOULD BAN SENTIMENT

Regret Expressed France Does Not Have to Settle First With United States.

VISITOR IN CHEERFUL MOOD

Defines "Gentleman's Offer" He Plans to Make as One That Can Be Fulfilled.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—M. Caillaux, "the wizard," is here. France's "miracle man" of finance, snatched back from ignominious retirement in order that he might tackle the herculean task of regenerating France financially, arrived in London this evening to begin conversations with his British colleague, Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, regarding the tangled problem of France's war debt to Britain.

The French Finance Minister was in the best of spirits on his journey to London and when he arrived.

"Don't worry me by writing articles," he admonished the journalists who saw him off when leaving Paris. "Keep calm. No recriminations. Remember France and Great Britain are old friends of war days, and as such they must come to understand each other now."

When his train pulled into the Victoria Station at 7 o'clock M. Caillaux, who has announced his intention of speaking English throughout his conversations with Mr. Churchill, seemed anxious to display his knowledge of that language. To the photographers who crowded around him he said smilingly—in careful English—"Don't be long. You seem to be taking a long time."

At the station to receive M. Caillaux was the French Ambassador, M. de Fleuriau, accompanied by M. Pouyanne, Financial Attaché of the French Embassy. Winston Churchill was absent from London, but his private secretary, J. B. D. Ferguson, and Victor Wellesley of the British Foreign Office were on hand to tender an official welcome to the distinguished French guest. Others present on the platform were Counselor Cambon of the French Embassy, Assistant Financial Attaché Gauthier and several other members of the embassy staff.

From the station M. Caillaux drove directly to the French Embassy, where he will be a guest during his London stay. Contrary to earlier announcements, it is now expected that he will be here only until Wednesday. It was assumed originally that he would remain an entire week. The first conversation between M. Caillaux and Mr. Churchill will take place tomorrow at the Treasury.

Press Calls for Firm Stand.

Most London commentators on M. Caillaux's visit insist Britain must maintain a firm stand and turn a deaf ear to French proposals that France pay an amount far below what the British deem fair. In local business circles the hope is expressed that real progress now will be made.

One interesting point cropping out today was the regret in some quarters that the Anglo-French debt discussions should precede French discussions with the United States next month on France's debt to America. This regret is due to fear that the British Ministers may let sentimental considerations influence them instead of settling with the French on a strictly business basis. It is assumed that the Americans will not let sentiment influence in the slightest their debt discussions with the French. Therefore, it is argued here, if the discussions with America had come before those with England, and the French negotiators had been compelled to make a businesslike settlement, they could not come to London and plead that England should forget business and settle on the basis of sentiment.

In a leading article headed "Britain the Vampire," The Daily News says, apropos of M. Caillaux's visit:

"It might almost be supposed from the outpourings in the French press that he is coming here, not to negotiate terms with an easy-going creditor for partial satisfaction of a long-standing debt, but in order to protect his poverty-stricken land from the rapacity of a relentless Shylock.

"The familiar French picture of Great Britain as the blood-sucking vampire of Europe is a joke that has lost its savor for Englishmen, whose taxation amounts to £15 7s. 2d. per head, compared with £7 6s. 11d. in France, and who are actually paying $30,000,000 a year in interest on loans effected here in order to provide France's unpaid war credit—a burden which of course ought to be borne by the French taxpayer.

"Lord Bradbury has pricked the bubble of French poverty. He speaks with knowledge and authority, and he has asserted uncompromisingly that France is in the position to make an annual contribution of between £40,000,000 and £50,000,000 for repayment of her British and American debts apart from any reparations she may receive from Germany.

Briton Sends Radio Program 14,000 Miles to U. S. S. Seattle

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—A radio concert program has been sent 14,000 miles from Caterham, a London suburb, to the American warship Seattle in Wellington Harbor, New Zealand, by Gerald Marcuse a radio amateur.

Mr. Marcuse was transmitting by telegraphy to the American wireless operator on the Seattle when the latter asked him to change to the voice. He did so, transmitting a program including several phonograph records by Caruso and violin solos by Heifetz and some jazz.

All were heard excellently aboard the American warship.

HINDENBURG BIDS FOR OUR CONFIDENCE

LEADERS ADD ASSURANCES

Say President May Be Trusted to Maintain Public Security Under the Constitution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—President von Hindenburg of Germany has given assurances in a message to American business that he stands for the preservation of peace and the stabilization of economic conditions. His message took the form of a signed statement given to Merle Thorpe, editor of The Nation's Business, official organ of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and was made public by that organization tonight.

"I am much gratified," says President von Hindenburg, "to hear that American business men are taking such a deep interest in the conditions of present-day Germany. The social confusion resulting from the outcome of the war and post-war conditions which have prevailed for several years, new seems definitely to have given way to a readjustment of social life along stable lines. I am firmly convinced that this stabilization of economic and social conditions will continue to improve in Germany as peaceful conditions are restored among the peoples of Europe. I, for my part, am determined to do my utmost toward such restoration and preservation of peace."

Mr. Thorpe went to Berlin to find out whether Hindenburg's election was a sign that the German people still held military and monarchical ambitions or if it was an earnest of a stable government. Mr. Thorpe found that von Hindenburg would say nothing himself, but from other sources—distinguished German public officials and business men—Mr. Thorpe found that von Hindenburg was generally trusted to uphold the Constitution. The Monarchists, said Mr. Thorpe, have broken with von Hindenburg and are now his bitterest critics.

"President von Hindenburg has a deep sense of duty," said Mr. Thorpe, summarizing the impressions obtained in interviews with many prominent men in Germany. "He prides himself on never having broken his word, but does not boast of it. Even his enemies admit he was a good soldier, who took orders unquestioningly, followed them to the letter, and who gave orders expecting them to be carried out in the same spirit. I am told that his executive ability lies in this: he does not interfere with his Cabinet officials.

"From those in authority I was assured that Hindenburg and Germany would see the Dawes plan through. That there are difficulties in transferring credits was pointed out, but it was said the great virtue of the plan is that it is flexible, that new means can be found for new circumstances."

Mr. Thorpe says it is clear to him, as a result of his interviews in Berlin, why the German people turned to von Hindenburg.

"They desired above all things an orderly life, a life not free from work and hard work, but security for their labors," says Mr. Thorpe. "The old Field Marshal pledged his word to give them this security.

"Officials around him with whom I talked say he will keep his word. They say the ideals of the new republic are dedicated to peace and a peaceful social evolution. The new Constitution emphasizes individual liberty and protection under the law instead of under God-appointed regencies. It provides for freedom of thought, of religion, of press and of speech. Like ours, it is a written Constitution; like the British, it empowers the President to dissolve the Congress when a deadlock ensues.

"President von Hindenburg has sworn to uphold the republic, and has here given his word that he is determined to do his utmost toward the preservation of peace."

ALL NEW DRY CHIEFS TO SERVE ON TRIAL; SOME CERTAIN TO GO

CLOSE WATCH ON NEW YORK

STILL AFTER $1-A-YEAR TYPE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—While "marching orders" have been issued by General Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, to the seventeen administrators and the seven "acting" administrators who on Sept. 1 will assume the task of compelling respect for the Federal "dry" laws, the job of completing the Andrews plan of reorganization is far from finished.

A good deal yet remains to be done, according to Treasury officials, in the way of obtaining a field personnel that will adjust itself to the standards of efficiency that General Andrews proposes to introduce as a means of drying up alcoholic sources of supply and bringing bootleggers to justice.

The Andrews Board of Strategy is not altogether satisfied with all of the administrators who were chosen on Friday, and eighteen of them, holdovers from the Haynes régime, are accepted for the time on probation. From the very start their work will be scrutinized with great care and the prediction is made that some of them either will be reduced to the ranks or dismissed from the service in the comparatively near future.

The fact that seven of the twenty-four administrators were designated as "acting" is accepted as notice that seven of the districts ultimately may be officered by non-residents. Five of these seven districts are regarded as important centres in the Government's endeavor to enforce the Volstead act.

The headquarters for these seven districts are at New York, Boston, Buffalo, St. Louis, Chicago, St. Paul and Honolulu. The New York districts, particularly, are the subject of concern by the Board of Strategy, and the same thing holds true of St. Louis and Chicago.

Big Business Men Still Sought.

Information just obtained that General Andrews has not given up hope of obtaining the services of a number of men of the "dollar-a-year" type is accepted as indicating a belief on his part that he has not yet obtained field assistants to his liking.

Explanation is made that General Andrews was forced by circumstances to choose a majority of the administrators from officials of the old service because he found it difficult to interest men of large affairs in this class of work.

Several executives of large corporations, drawing large salaries, refused to consider Government positions paying $6,000 a year, and General Andrews felt that it would be better to go ahead with the material on hand rather than to delay further the effective day of the new plan. He also believed it would be only fair to give some of the Haynes appointees a chance to show whether they were qualified.

Political leaders who have been keenly observant of the developing Andrews plan are of the opinion that one of the features which may lead to friction involves Roy A. Haynes, the Prohibition Commissioner. By order of General Andrews a new office, that of Chief Prohibition Investigator, has been created.

It also has been decided that in the future Commissioner Haynes shall spend most of his time in supervising the field personnel. The suggestion has been made that the Chief Investigator and the Prohibition Commissioner, both of whom will be engaged in field work, are bound sooner or later to clash.

Major Walton C. Green of Boston, a former army man, has been appointed Chief Investigator and Prohibition Unit officials close to Commissioner Haynes see in this new functionary a possible source of trouble and annoyance to their chief. Treasury officials, however, insist that General Andrews is not apprehensive of any trouble in that quarter.

Satisfaction with the administrators named by General Andrews was voiced

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 23.—Seven men condemned to death for the murder of Sirdar Sir Lee Stack, Governor General of the Sudan, were executed here this morning in the presence of the Acting Governor and the Commandant of Police. The death sentence of the eighth accused man, Abdel Fattah Enayata, was commuted to penal servitude for life.

The first of the seven was hanged at 7 o'clock, followed by the six others at forty-minute intervals. Excepting one, who struggled violently, all met death with stoical indifference.

One, when asked whether he maintained he had killed twenty-five Englishmen, answered, composedly, "No, thirty-five."

Another, annoyed because the executioners were too slow, said testily, "Come on, let's get on with it."

A third cried, "I did this for God, and He alone knows whether I am guilty or innocent."

The executions were carried out unexpectedly, so there was no crowd outside the prison and Cairo knew nothing about the hangings until they were all over.

Sir Lee Stack, Sirdar, or Commander-in-Chief, of the Egyptian army, and Governor General of the Sudan, was attacked in the streets of Cairo Nov. 19, 1924, by seven men who hurled a bomb at his automobile and then opened fire upon him at close range with automatic pistols. His assailants escaped. On Nov. 20 Sir Lee died of the three wounds he had received.

Egypt was shocked by the crime, and its press demanded that the murderers be apprehended. It was understood that labor troubles in the Sudan were responsible, but the murder of a British official evidently had never been considered a possible development. The British Cabinet acted quickly, being called into special session, and on Nov. 22 the British Government demanded of Egypt a proper apology, an indemnity of £500,000, prohibition of political demonstrations and withdrawal of Egyptian troops from the Sudan.

Several men were arrested as suspects and released from time to time, but finally nine men were arraigned for the murder of Sir Lee. They were tried and on June 2, 1925, all nine were convicted. It was revealed that the assassins had rehearsed the killing. On June 7, eight of the men were condemned to death, the man who drove the automobile in which they rode on the day of the murder being sent to prison for two years' hard labor. Later the death penalty of another member of the gang was commuted to penal labor for life.

DAMAGED SHIPS HERE AFTER CRASH AT SEA

ONE SAILOR WAS INJURED

Bunks of Others Who Were on Watch Smashed in Collision in Sound.

The Red Cross liner Rosalind, which left the foot of Java Street, Brooklyn, on Saturday morning with 116 passengers for Halifax and St. John's, N. F., returned yesterday at 1 P. M. with her bow stove in eight feet and a hole extending from the forecastle deck eighteen feet down toward the water line.

She was in collision with the Texas Oil Company's tanker Harvester off Point Judith at 9 P. M. Saturday. No one on the Rosalind was injured. Two of the bunks in the sailors' forecastle were smashed to splinters when the two ships came together, but fortunately the occupants were in the watch on deck, else they probably would have been killed instantly in their sleep. Some of the sailors and firemen were sleeping at the time and were tumbled out onto the deck by the impact, but they were not injured.

Two hours after the Rosalind had arrived here the Harvester stopped off Stapleton, S. I., to land an injured sailor, Agapito Vanlou, who had been hurled against a stanchion with great force at the time of the collision. He was taken to the Marine Hospital. The tanker then proceeded to Bayonne, with seven holes in her starboard side from amidships to the stern. Both vessels will go to the Robins Dry Dock, at Erie Basin, today.

Passengers Were on Deck.

When the Rosalind was made fast at her pier at Java Street, Greenpoint, the passengers were landed with their baggage and took taxicabs home. Some said they would leave on the night boat for Boston; others decided to make the journey to Halifax by train, and a few said they would wait for the sailing of the Silvia for St. John's next Saturday.

Nearly all the passengers were on deck when the collision occurred. Most of them were on the after part of the promenade deck watching the lights on shore two miles away. It was a clear night and the stars were shining. They could see the Harvester coming out from Providence toward their ship. The vessels approached closer to each other, they said, but they did not dream the ships were going to crash until they heard three blasts from the ship's whistle and felt the jar of the engines being suddenly stopped and put full speed astern.

Three minutes later the bow of the Rosalind struck the Harvester on the starboard quarter, throwing many of the passengers off their feet. A few who had retired early were tossed out of their berths by the collision. Startled and unaware what had happened, they dressed hurriedly and got on deck. There was a little excitement. The officers and the stewards went among the passengers and assured them there was no danger. The hole in the bow was fully three feet above the water line, they told them, and the ship was not leaking.

Many Spend Night on Deck.

Many of the passengers spent the remainder of the night on deck as the Rosalind steamed slowly along the Sound on her way back to New York.

The passengers spoke highly of Captain William J. James, the master of the ship, and his officers and crew, saying they had done all they could for the safety and comfort of those on board. The crew of the Rosalind numbered sixty-one.

Captain James said he was reluctant to discuss the accident until he had made his report today to Bowring Brothers, agents of the Red Cross Line, at 17 Battery place.

The Rosalind was steaming 15 knots on Saturday night, the Captain said, and the weather was clear with stars

PLAYS POLO BEFORE CROWD

There were no new arrests yesterday in the blackmail plot which Max Phillips, wealthy collar manufacturer, alleged he had uncovered on Saturday. Mr. Phillips, however, stuck to his assertion that a New York banker was back of such a conspiracy to ruin him and insisted that man would be named at the proper time.

Published statements said that a New York banker recognized in both himself and his son, the persons whom Phillips accuses. It was said that he attributed Phillips's charges to the fact that he, Phillips, had sold some stock in this man's bank at a profit that was less than he might have had had he held it longer and was resentful because the father and son had not advised him to keep it. Phillips is a distant relative by marriage of the banker.

It was reported that the banker ridiculed the conspiracy charge. He was at a hotel in Manhattan last night, but a nurse in attendance refused to let him be seen.

Mr. Phillips, in whose home near Red Bank, N. J., the four Jersey arrests were made in the case on Saturday under sensational circumstances, amplified his charges somewhat yesterday and insisted with much detail that an effort also had been made to involve him with the woman head of a Spiritualist Church.

While Mr. Phillips was making these assertions, Frank H. Berg Jr., head of a private detective agency, who was one of the four arrested, scoffed at the manufacturer's accusations, insisted that neither he nor his operatives had been guilty of wrongdoing and threatened reprisals in the courts.

Detective Ridicules Story.

Mr. Berg's statement said:

"I understand Max Phillips complains that a conspiracy was launched to ruin his reputation by enticing him aboard a yacht and then inducing him to violate the Mann act. First, you will observe that he had not gone aboard the yacht and, second, that the alleged conspiracy could not have succeeded without the commission of a crime by him. Therefore, no crime could have been committed unless the complainant himself committed a criminal act.

"It does not require a lawyer to perceive that any arrests on such a charge are necessarily false arrests. When you add to this fact Max Phillips's own statement of the manner in which the women were detained in his home by force it is apparent an extraordinary case of abduction with the aid of firearms.

"Then there is the statement issued by Phillips's press agents that two of the women confessed. What did they confess? A confession that one is a detective is not a confession of a crime. The allegation that one has confessed a crime is libel per se. When a person accused of a crime is alleged to have confessed the act despite the fact that no confession exists a libel has been committed, and even a subsequent conviction would not alter the fact of the libel meanwhile.

Warning by Detective.

"Thus we have abduction with the aid of firearms, false arrest and criminal libel as three elements in this fantastic all-night melodrama staged on Max Phillips's estate. I point this out as a warning to those who are unwittingly or otherwise assisting in the publicity enterprises of Max Phillips's press agents and private detectives.

"I do not know what they are trying to promote. I cannot see that this publicity will assist Max Phillips's collar business. It certainly won't alter the standing that he achieved through the newspaper accounts of his divorce case, in which he is quoted as having said he would rather have a good polo pony than a wife. It may facilitate his participation in spiritualist seances or it may help to show the availability of his

ENGINE EXPLODES IN AIR

HALE ARMY GOLF CHAMPION

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Aug. 23.—Captain Fraser Hale of the Army Air Service, who is a White House aide, and his mechanic, Private Earl C. Norris of Whitesville, Ky., were burned to death here today when an airplane in which they were returning to Washington crashed flaming on the Greenbriar golf links in full view of the players and several hundred visitors, who were sitting on the Casino veranda. Both bodies were burned beyond recognition.

Just after 2 P. M. Captain Hale said goodbye to his friends at the hotel and walked to his plane, which was ready to leave on one of the fairways of the course. The friends who accompanied him and the guests at the hotel saw the plane rise to a height of about 100 feet. It seemed scarcely above the tree tops when it suddenly turned, as if in a dive, and plunged to the earth.

The crash could be heard a long distance. In an instant the plane was enveloped in flames.

Dr. D. Stewart, a surgeon at Bellevue Hospital, Dr. Burdette P. Craig of New York, and Dr. Bankhead Banks of White Sulphur Springs, who were at the Casino, ran to the scene of the accident. The plane had fallen near the eighth hole and was completely consumed.

Captain Hale had come from Washington to spend the week-end as the cottage guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Paine of Atlanta. He attended the horse show yesterday and the horse show ball at the Greenbriar last night. Five minutes after he had gaily said adieu this afternoon he was dead.

The War Department has been notified and its representative is expected to arrive tomorrow.

Was Golf Champion of the Army.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Captain Fraser Hale and Private Norris were attached to Bolling Field here.

Captain Hale was golf champion of the Army. He and his mechanic left Bolling Field yesterday morning for White Sulphur Springs on a training flight which is understood to have been taken in that direction because of Captain Hale's interest in golf, an important tournament being in progress there.

Captain Hale was unmarried. His parents live in Winnetka, Ill.

Captain Hale was born in Canada on Feb. 4, 1893, but he entered the army from Illinois. In 1916 he enlisted in the Illinois National Guard as a private in Battery C of the First Field Artillery. Later he became a corporal in the headquarters company. The next year he was appointed a Second Lieutenant in the Field Artillery section of the Officers Reserve Corps of the Army.

He served in the World War and on Nov. 6, 1918, was promoted to Captain in the Air Service, holding this rank until July 1, 1920. Then, in the reorganization of the army, following the war, he was appointed a First Lieutenant of Aviation in the regular establishment. Soon thereafter he again became a Captain.

He participated in many flights and was regarded as one of the most experienced fliers at Bolling Field, where he had been serving about a year, first as post adjutant and later as supply officer, a position he held at the time of his death. He was a graduate of the Air Service Tactical School, at Langley Field, Va.

Private Norris had been stationed at Bolling Field about a year and was from Whitesville, Ky. He was attached to the Eighteenth Headquarters Squadron.

HYLAN CHARGES FOES SEEK AN 'OPEN TOWN'

McCOOEY'S CLUB IS DIVIDED

Walker Organization Forming Within It, and Another in Mayor's Home District.

Charging that the inner circle of Tammany had gone "money mad" with the expectation of regular returns from poolrooms and gambling houses, as well as from the traction interests, Mayor Hylan declared yesterday that he was "grieved to learn that any good woman would support a candidate for public office who was backed by those who want a wide-open town."

The Mayor's assertion referred to the action of two Brooklyn women Assembly district leaders, Mrs. Jennie McMahon of the Sixteenth and Mrs. Minnie J. Abel of the Seventeenth in coming out in support of Senator James J. Walker, the Tammany candidate.

Mayor Hylan again deplored the death of Charles F. Murphy, former leader of Tammany, and caused some bewilderment by asserting that the most powerful leader in Tammany, not excepting George W. Olvany, head of that organization, was "the poolroom king and czar of the gambling industry in New York in the Devery régime." Tammany men at Walker headquarters said they could think of no present leader whom the Mayor's description would fit.

The Mayor's Statement.

The Mayor's statement follows:

"I am grieved to learn that any good woman would support a candidate for any public office who is backed by those who want a wide-open town.

"I have no quarrel with the rank and file of Tammany Hall, and I believe that when primary day arrives they will not vote to sidetrack me to serve the selfish interests of a few men whom I shall describe as the 'inner circle.'

"My battle is with that small but powerful 'inner circle' in Fourteenth Street which is planning to clean up millions of dollars in traction deals and also to revive the old days of poolrooms and gambling houses, just as wide open as Saratoga is today.

"It is no secret that the chief counsel for the traction interests is the intimate friend and adviser of the boss of the 'inner circle,' and in fact just as much a member of the circle as though he were an elected leader of Tammany Hall. As to the power of the gambling fraternity in the 'inner circle,' I call attention to the fact that the most powerful leader in Tammany Hall today, not even excepting George Olvany, was the 'poolroom king' and czar of the gambling industry in New York in the Devery régime.

"These are the kind of men who control Tammany Hall today, and who prate to the rank and file about 'regularity' and the sin of 'irregularity.' Their only real idea of 'regularity' is regular returns from their deals with the traction interests, and regular returns from protected poolrooms and gambling houses. Their real idea of the rank and file is that they are a lot of sheep to be driven here and there and finally sold and delivered to the highest bidder.

"These men who were held in restraint during the lifetime of the late Charles F. Murphy have gone moneymad with dreams of untold millions to be cut up and divided in the next four years; and their only stumbling block is John F. Hylan. Don't forget that. If you give them their way you will be the sheep and you will be fleeced.

"I understand hundreds of thousands of dollars have been gathered and set aside to be used to induce district leaders and co-district leaders and others presumably of some influence in the community to desert me and to come

REPUBLICANS OPEN CAMPAIGN TONIGHT; NOTIFY WATERMAN

RIVALS ATTACK NOMINEE

VOTING RECORD CITED AGAIN

A Millionaire Candidate Picked by Six, Four of Them Millionaires, Says Lyons.

The primary campaign of Frank D. Waterman, organization choice for the Republican nomination for Mayor, will be formally launched tonight at a meeting at the National Republican Club, when he will receive official notification of his designation by the Republican organizations of the five counties of the city.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, who is the Chairman of a committee to prepare a Republican city platform, will make the speech notifying Mr. Waterman and his colleagues on the Republican-Citizens' ticket, James E. Finegan, the Brooklyn Democrat named for Controller, and George U. Harvey, the Republican Alderman from Queens, who has been named as the candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen. Each candidate will speak and the entire proceedings will be broadcast from station WJZ.

Mr. Finegan and Mr. Harvey are unopposed in the Republican primaries, but Mr. Waterman has against him William M. Bennett, who defeated the late John Purroy Mitchel for the Republican nomination for Mayor in 1917, and John J. Lyons, former Secretary of State.

Statements by Bennett and Lyons.

Both Mr. Bennett and Mr. Lyons issued statements yesterday in which they declared that the nomination of Mr. Waterman would result in a victory for the Democratic nominee, whether he was Mayor Hylan or Senator Walker.

Mr. Bennett added to his previous tabulation of Mr. Waterman's alleged voting record and characterized Mr. Waterman as "a carpetbagger Democrat masquerading on the Republican ticket."

Mr. Lyons also questioned Mr. Waterman's party regularity and asserted that a "millionaire," picked by a group of "millionaires" was not a candidate to defeat the Democratic Party in a New York City election.

"For quite a number of years the Republicans have been putting up local candidates to win the primary, but not to be elected," said Mr. Bennett. "A few years ago, Brooklyn had five Republican Senators and half the Brooklyn Assemblymen were Republicans. Manhattan a few years ago had three Republican Senators and half the Assemblymen were Republicans. Today New York City in all the five counties has only two Republican Senators, one in Queens and one in Manhattan, and of the sixty-three Assemblymen in the city only seven are Republicans.

Republican Leadership Attacked.

"The Republicans have also lost all borough and county offices, as well as the Governor and one United States Senator. The Republican organization locally has slid to the bottom of the hill. Its local leadership is worse than in the days of Jake Patterson, thirty-five years ago. It is time the party in New York City started to climb up the hill, and this year, of all years, offered the golden opportunity on account of the split in the Democratic ranks. Yet the leaders have presented to the voters as their choice for the Republican nomination for Mayor a man who cannot win—an estimable gentleman, who apparently is put up to be beaten.

"In considering Mr. Waterman's qualifications there are two questions—namely, his availability as a candidate who can win in November and his capabilities to make a good Mayor. In view of Mr. Hilles's statement that Mr. Waterman voted for every Republican Presidential candidate in his time, I have had his voting record looked up in the official records and find this statement to be incorrect.

"It shows that apparently he seldom voted at all. From 1906 to the seventeen years from 1906 to 1923 he was a resident of New Jersey. In other words, he is a carpet-bagger Democrat, masquerading on the Republican ticket. Can a carpet-bagger win the election?

"As to his capabilities to make a good Mayor, he seems to be simply a press agent candidate. He hasn't said a word on the issues of the campaign and apparently cannot say a word because he has no ideas on public questions.

"His so-called campaign at the head of the Committee of One Thousand was conducted entirely by a young Democratic press agent. This young Democrat even invented the 'Say It With Shovels' slogan.

Waterman "an Invisible Candidate."

"Mr. Waterman, according to his own managers, is to make no speeches. He is to be an 'invisible' candidate, which means an invisible Mayor and that means invisible government."

Mr. Bennett's tabulation of the earlier years, not previously published, follows:

	Residence.
1908—265 Macon Street, Brooklyn; McKinley-Bryan campaign; did not register.

Historic Chapel, Attended by Six Presidents, Saved From Sale to Pay Tax Assessments

ELBERON, N. J., Aug. 23.—St. James Episcopal Chapel here, attended by six Presidents of the United States in the fifty years since it was erected, was saved today by Henry Levy of New York City, a dealer in local real estate, from being sold for non-payment of assessments due the City of Long Branch.

At the annual Episcopal visitation held at the historic church this afternoon Levy donated the money necessary to meet the assessments, $950, with the remark: "Although we are not of the same faith we believe in the same God." The assessments were mostly for street paving and improvements.

For some time the chapel has been in an impoverished condition. In addition to falling behind in tax payments, it has deteriorated and has been without funds to maintain a minister. Due to the publicity given these facts and the historic associations of the edifice, a large crowd attended the visitation ceremony, and $3,000 was donated by individuals in small amounts to a fund to repair the building, meet future taxes, and possibly pay the salary of a pastor.

Today's ceremony marked the yearly visit of the Right Rev. Albion M. Knight of Trenton, Bishop Coadjutor of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey. Bishop Knight characterized the apparent neglect of the chapel as a disgrace.

"To allow any church to suffer from lack of funds is a reflection on the people of a community," he said, "and this is particularly so in the case of one which has been so honored in the past."

The Presidents who, while visiting adjacent resorts in this vicinity, attended services in St. James's Chapel were Grant, Garfield, Hayes, Arthur, McKinley and Wilson.

Soviet Exiles Moscow Jewelers to Siberia; New Outbreak of Terrorism Is Reported

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Leading jewelers doing business on the principal downtown streets of Moscow have been suddenly arrested and exiled to a bleak region of Siberia, according to reports from Riga received here. The reason for this, it appears, is that Soviet authorities considered that these tradesmen doing a private business were making altogether too much money to suit the communistic theory of business. All stocks at the jewelers' establishments were seized by the Moscow political police, it is understood, and their premises sealed up by order of the Soviet Government.

These high-handed acts are said to be part of a renewed campaign of extreme severity initiated by the Soviets. The campaign includes summary shootings without trial, confiscation of property and sudden banishments. Renewed terrorism, according to Riga reports, is being practiced not only in big Russian cities, but also in towns and villages. For instance, in certain small towns the housing crisis was met by banishing non-proletariat inhabitants and handing over their homes to "class conscious workers."

for Charles E. Hughes for Governor against William R. Hearst.

Mr. Lyons declared that there was every indication of a revolt in the ranks of the Republican organization, and professed confidence in his own nomination. He said that several hundred letters, each containing a one dollar bill, had been received in response to his appeal for one dollar contributions for his campaign. He added that his campaign committee was in process of formation and would be announced in a day or two.

Defending his own regularity in becoming a candidate against the choice of the organization leaders, Mr. Lyons said that the direct primaries were intended to give any Republican the right to enter them and that the party workers were learning that the organization had not spoken merely because the five borough leaders sat with Charles D. Hilles in a back room and picked a candidate.

Lyons Assails Waterman's Backers.

"Of the six men who foisted the name of Mr. Waterman upon the Republican party workers, Mr. Hilles, our National Committeeman, is a millionaire," Mr. Lyons said. "Mr. Koenig, chairman of New York County, is largely influenced by Mr. Ogden Mills, another millionaire. Mr. Richard Lawrence, chairman of the Bronx and president of the Bankers' Securities Company, is another millionaire. Mr. Jake Livingston, chairman of Kings, is influenced by former Senator William M. Calder, another millionaire. Here are four out of the six.

"I have nothing against millionaires and nothing against success, but I do think that these leaders were somewhat prejudiced in the choice of a candidate. They took one of their own kind, a business man, a millionaire, who has no conception of what is going on politically in the City of New York.

"It is unreasonable to suppose that the man who spent half of his life in Illinois, who consistently voted for years in New Jersey, who voted for Woodrow Wilson in 1916 and who enthusiastically supported him in his fight for the League of Nations can be sufficiently familiar with the little and big problems that vex a Mayor of New York to make a head of our City Government who would be sympathetic with the needs and aspirations of the common man in the street. After his inauguration he might present each Republican aspirant for a place on the city payroll with a nice fountain pen. Checks at that time would not be so plentiful. Heels would be cooled in the anteroom until all of the places had been given to the business experts.

Wants "A Real Republican."

"As a Republican, I am bold enough to think that a real Republican ought to head the ticket. None in the party ranks will question that I am a real Republican. None will accuse me of voting in New Jersey and supporting Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations and then asking Republican party workers to consider me the best man in their ranks to make their fight for Mayor of the greatest city in the world. I was born here, reared here, all of my life. Mayor Hylan was a street car conductor. Governor Smith was a fish-market boy. We overthrew them, all that Tammany stands for, the five Republican leaders pick one whom they consider a great big man who will be aloof from all politics and politicians and be above them both, a man who can write a great big check. I say that it is time we named a man who can meet John Hylan and Al Smith as an ordinary, everyday, honest New Yorker, and a Republican who has fought in the ranks. We do not have to apologize for the name of Republican. If we will quit picking high-brows with a barrel as our candidates we shall get much further along on election day."

Mr. Lyons replied to the attack upon his candidacy by David B. Costuma, who succeeded him as Republican leader of the Nineteenth Assembly District, by charging Mr. Costuma with ingratitude. "This man whom I placed in his present position knows his attack was uttered by him as an actor's lines which had their authorship elsewhere," Mr. Lyons said. "Et tu, Brute."

Republican leaders would not comment upon Mr. Bennett's and Mr. Lyons's assertions that Mr. Waterman was not a Republican, but said that a reply to them would be made at the proper time.

BRIDAL PARTY A RALLY.

Mrs. Harry Keller Offers to Aid Cokeley, Her Father, in Campaign.

A reception to celebrate the arrival in New York of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keller, who recently were married in Florida, assumed the semblance of a political rally yesterday when Mrs. Keller offered her services in the campaign to her father, William A. Cokeley, the Hylan candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen. The several hundred persons at the reception, held in Mr. Cokeley's home, 862 Edison Avenue, the Bronx, applauded the offer enthusiastically.

Mr. Cokeley had publicly welcomed the returning couple. Replying to his daughter's offer, he smilingly assured her that the real estate business, in which she had formerly been employed by Joseph P. Day, was more in her line of work.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keller will leave soon on a tour up-State. Mrs. Keller declared, however, that she would be here to vote for her father in the primaries. The couple will make their home in Palatka, Fla., where Mr. Keller is in business with his father in real estate. Seven years ago both of them were in the employ of Mr. Day.

ELLINGSON GIRL TAKES CONVICTION CALMLY

"Jazz Mania" Matricide, Facing 1 to 10 Years for Manslaughter, Smiles and Chews Gum.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23.—Dorothy Ellingson was found guilty of manslaughter just before 11 o'clock last night by a Superior Court jury which had deliberated ten hours.

The 21-year-old matricide, who faces a term of one to ten years in prison, with eligibility for parole in one year, greeted the verdict with a smile, appeared pleased, continued chewing gum and said: "I'm not saying anything."

In his instructions to the jury Judge Harold Louderback, commenting on the defense plea for an acquittal because of insanity, said that temporary insanity could exist, even if only for a few minutes. But he ruled out the "irresistible impulse" theory of the defense, saying there was no provision for it in the legal code.

Dorothy remained quiet in her cell throughout the day, being calmer than she had been in weeks. As the hours passed without action by the jury, she showed no signs of nervousness, but chatted serenely with Mrs. Augusta Kennedy, the jail matron.

15 BURNED AT CAMP GRANT.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Aug. 23 (AP).—Fifteen spectators were burned, one probably fatally, during a demonstration of the Chemical Warfare Service at Camp Grant today. The explosion of a phosphorus grenade during a gas attack put out by the Thirty-third Division troops caused the accident.

Leo Flanders, 20, of Rockford was critically burned. The other fourteen persons received first-aid treatment at the camp hospital and returned to their homes.

DENIES NICKEL FARE IS GUARDED BY LAW

Next Mayor and Aide May Let It Be Raised, Says Chief of Public Service Institute.

MAINTAINS IT IS AT ISSUE

Denials by Party Spokesmen Make for Suspicion, Allen Declares—Sees Need of Pledges.

Assertions by Republicans and Democratic opponents of Mayor Hylan that the five-cent fare could not be an issue in the Mayoralty election this year because it was guaranteed by statutes and the dual subway contracts were denied yesterday by William H. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service. Mr. Allen asserted that the next Board of Estimate had the power to increase fares by agreement with the Transit Commission and the transit companies, and that the only safeguard would be the election of candidates pledged to maintain the existing fare.

"If the five-cent fare is not an issue this year, as several partisan spokesmen are claiming, it will not be because of any existing contract, franchises or laws, but because all candidates for the Board of Estimate make the same equally specific and equally trustworthy promises to vote against an increase," Mr. Allen said. "Candidates who merely say before election that they are 'for a five-cent fare' will be entirely free after election to be for it in radically different ways.

"The newly elected Board of Estimate will have the same power to vote for an increased fare which that same board's predecessors refused to exercise in 1919 when urged to do so by nine newspapers and numerous civic agencies, including the Merchants' Association.

"The new Board of Estimate and Apportionment would be fully complying with existing laws and contracts if in January, 1926, it should agree with the private transit companies and the Transit Commission upon one of the three following methods of increasing fares:

"1. It might help increase fares up to 7 cents, or even 10 cents, by conditions where the public itself would not for several years get one cent of the increase, all of which would go to the stockholders of transit companies. This is what the Mayor claims other candidates really intend to do, what both subway companies have publicly declared they do not want, and what designee Walker has said he would rather lose his arm than sponsor.

"2. It might help increase the fare to 7 cents temporarily under conditions such as those proposed early this year in the Interborough's pocket pamphlet, 'The Way Out of the Subway Jam,' by which only 1 cent would go to private stockholders and the other cent to the city for the purpose of immediately releasing $250,000,000 of borrowing power, relieving taxpayers of over $10,000,000 a year for subway deficits, and building new subways, new schools, or other improvements.

"3. It might work for an agreement with the private companies and the Transit Commission to increase fares temporarily to 7 cents upon condition that the private stockholders of the transit companies would not receive one cent of additional dividends, but that all the increase would go toward improving service on existing subways, relieving taxpayers of about $10,000,000 taxes a year on account of subways, and immediately releasing $250,000,000 for the building of new subways, new school buildings, &c.

"A frank admission that the five-cent fare is a very live campaign issue and that there are various ways of helping increase fares within the power of the Board of Estimate agreeing with the private companies and the Transit Commission, would help the voting public to reason and feel what it wants done. To deny the Board of Estimate's power to help increase fares creates a bitter campaign issue of suspicion and confusion."

ATTACK TO BE LED BY PRIMO DE RIVERA

MADRID, Aug. 23 (AP).—General Primo de Rivera, head of the Military Directorate of Spain, has returned to Madrid from Algeciras, where he conferred with the French Marshal Pétain about the finishing touches of the long-heralded Franco-Spanish offensive against rebellious tribesmen in Morocco. After five days the General will proceed to Morocco to lead the Spanish forces against the Moors.

Severe punishment has been inflicted upon the rebels who recently bombarded the island of Alhucemas, off the northern coast of Morocco. Air craft and warships have virtually covered the Alhucemas coast with bombs and shells.

Repair crews are already at work on the island, repairing the damage done by the rebel fire. Spanish warships are cruising in Alhucemas Bay.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Aug. 23.—The Spanish infantry regiments stationed in Morocco have been dissolved into eighteen battalions, six being distributed into the Ceuta-Tetuan zone, six in the Larache zone and six in the Melilla zone.

The Spanish forces now in Morocco are: Infantry, 10,000 men, 1,200 officers; cavalry, 4,000; artillery, 11,000; other branches, including aviation, about 7,000, forming a total of about 70,000.

GEORGIA LEGISLATORS QUIT SUNDAY SESSION

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 23.—A walkout at midnight Saturday of a large number of legislators who believed in absolute observance of the Sunday laws, came near causing an extra session of the Georgia Legislature, with a mass of legislation still on hand and the Appropriation bill undecided.

As it was nearing 12 o'clock, the clock, as is the custom, had been turned back to 7:45 o'clock and stopped. Mrs. Viola Ross Napier of Bibb opposed this action.

"This Legislature has been a failure," she said. "It is not right for us to work on Sunday. Any law we should pass would be illegal. I can't force the Assembly to adjourn, but I can go home myself, and that's what I am going to do."

The final sessions of the House, which adjourned at 2:45 o'clock this morning, were marked by two clashes, and one fist fight as the result of the election of a confederate veteran from the floor of the House at the alleged request of two members, one of them a woman.

City Club President Urges Citizens to Vote in Primary

Nelson S. Spencer, President of the City Club, has sent letters to members of the club, urging them to participate in the primary election on Sept. 15. The constitution of the club prevents its participation in the nomination of candidates for office, but Mr. Spencer said yesterday he felt it would not be an infraction to ask members to vote in the primaries this year, because there will be contests in both major parties. He has written other civic organizations, suggesting similar action.

"Ordinarily primary elections are somewhat perfunctory," Mr. Spencer wrote in his letter to club members. "This year they are important. Upon the candidate successful in November will devolve the government of the city for the next four years, during which the city must face and solve many serious problems. It is highly important that the choice be that of the many and not of the few."

CALDWELL BACKED BY CITIZENS UNION

His Service in Congress Fits Him to Head Queens Borough, It Says in Statement.

CONNOLLY IS DENOUNCED

Called a Complacent Lieutenant of Hylanism, Chiefly Interested in Jobs and Contracts.

The Citizens Union announced yesterday the formal endorsement by its Executive Committee of former Representative Charles Pope Caldwell for the Democratic nomination of Queens against Borough President Maurice E. Connolly. The union's statement follows:

"The Citizens Union endorses the primary candidacy of Charles Pope Caldwell for Borough President of Queens and urges enrolled Democrats in Queens to take part in the September primaries and vote for him.

"His opponent, Maurice Connolly, has been Borough President since 1911. For eight years he has been a complacent lieutenant of Hylanism. Furthermore, his conduct of the affairs of Queens Borough has not been such as to inspire public confidence or respect. No borough in the city has suffered so much from misrule as has Queens under Connolly. His defeat in the primaries would be a genuine public service.

"In the candidacy of Charles Pope Caldwell, who has been an active force for civic decency in Queens ever since he led the movement to oust Borough President Gresser, the citizens of Queens have an unusual opportunity to terminate a sinister and boss-controlled political machine whose chief interests have been in providing patronage for its workers and contracts for its friends. Mr. Caldwell, with a public record for active leadership achieved in six years in Congress during the war period, is well fitted to undertake the work of rehabilitation that is necessary in Queens Borough. The Citizens Union heartily recommends his nomination."

OLD SCANDAL ANGERS KUNTZE

Hylan Candidate Denies He Was in 1907 Aldermanic Plot.

Charles Kuntze, candidate on the Hylan ticket for the Democratic nomination for Borough President of the Bronx, angrily denied yesterday that he was connected with an alleged plot in the Board of Aldermen in 1907 to sell out the bloc vote of Aldermanic members of the Municipal Ownership League for the election of a Supreme Court Judge.

Mr. Kuntze asserted that he had never been charged with possessing any knowledge of the scheme, much less indicted, although District Attorney Jerome, who belonged to an opposite political camp, was in charge of investigating the scandal. He said his testimony before the Grand Jury had never been doubted. Referring to an assertion that his memory was poor at the trial of William Clifford, one of the Aldermen who were convicted, he declared that statements he had never made had been added in pen and ink to the original affidavit which he had drawn up.

Mr. Kuntze said the criticism of his candidacy was occasioned by the Hylan inroads among the voters of the Bronx.

TUBE TRAINS BLOCKED BY A DERAILMENT

Traffic Delayed Hours as Cars Tear Up Roadbed and Third Rail in Jersey City Terminal.

The Hudson and Manhattan tube trains between Newark and Jersey City were tied up for several hours last night when three cars of a train which had just left the Park Place Station in Newark jumped the track. The cars tore up the roadbed and the third rail system so badly that traffic over that one line had to be abandoned for some time.

Shuttle service between Park Place and Manhattan transfer on the other track was finally started, and passengers were taken from Park Place to the transfer and then took a train for Jersey City and New York. Those going from New York or Jersey City had to change also at the transfer.

The cause of the accident had not yet been determined at 2 o'clock, but it was said that apparently all three cars left the track completely.

COOLIDGE'S SUCCESS TO FIX 1928 PLANS

FIND HIM POPULAR NOW

They Believe He Will Gain in Strength So That He Can Dictate to the Next Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug 23.—The possibility of President Coolidge seeking the nomination for President in 1928 depends, in the view of his intimate advisers, on the success of his policies in the next three years and on whether prosperity continues in the year preceding the National Convention. His political associates, it should be added, do not regard the one year and seven months he served on President Harding's term as a Presidential term, or upon a parity with the period Roosevelt served on McKinley's unexpired term.

Roosevelt served three years and a half, and he announced upon the night of his election that he regarded the unexpired McKinley term as a full term and would not seek another term in 1908. President Coolidge has never made a public utterance on the subject.

In the last month the advisers of the President have had time to analyze the sentiment in the country bearing on another term for the President. It has been entirely favorable, it is said, and pleasing to the political group around the President. The White House Clipping Bureau has supplied White Court with the editorial opinions. All of them are friendly, even though some say that many things might happen before 1928.

Political observers attach significance to the President's acknowledgment of the letter written to him by William A. Aiken of Vermont, published last Saturday. In his letter Mr. Aiken said that "he hopes it will be for Mr. Coolidge once more." President Coolidge graciously replied, but ignored the reference to another nomination. Both letters were made public by Everett Sanders, Secretary to the President, presumably after consultation with the President.

President Coolidge said recently that he never looked backward, that he studied problems of the future and turned to history only as a guidance. He may be following this custom now. He usually prepares long in advance for a political move. He never has injected himself into a fight hastily in the twenty-two times he has successfully sought public places from the voters. He has been defeated only once, and that was for school director in Northampton.

If he should become the predominant party leader in the next Congress and the 1928 elections, this might be further evidence of his intentions for 1928. He cannot hope to win the nomination, it is declared, unless his policies are enacted into law by the next Congress and his party succeeds in the elections next year.

Old time politicians are of the opinion that Mr. Coolidge will be in supreme control in the next Congress and the undisputed leader of his party in the next three years and capable, therefore, of dictating the nomination in 1928. But they also say that he cannot hope to hold the confidence of the masses and the esteem of the classes by his chief policy—reduction of taxes and expenditures—unless the party's platform planks and its President's promises are carried out. These include membership in the World Court, consolidation of the railroads, further reduction in armament and a satisfactory settlement of the foreign debts.

FOR COOLIDGE IN WISCONSIN

Daniel Woodward Announces Himself as Administration Candidate.

OSHKOSH, Wis., Aug. 23 (AP).—Daniel Woodward of this city yesterday formally announced himself a candidate to fill the unexpired term of Senator Robert M. La Follette. His platform is based on complete and unqualified endorsements of the Republican Party and the Administration of President Coolidge he says.

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 23 (AP).—Attorney General Ekern will be asked to rule on the legality of an independent candidacy in the coming special primary election for United States Senator. Arthur R. Barry, Milwaukee, announced Friday he would seek nomination to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator La Follette, under the party designation of "La Follette-Wheeler Progressivism." C. A. Erikson, Deputy Attorney General, expressed an unofficial opinion recently that the La Follette-Wheeler Progressives could not obtain a place on the primary ballot under a separate designation from other existing parties, because they did not have a formal party organization bearing a name different from the other parties.

PREDICTS BIG CRISIS IN ENGLAND NEXT MAY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—England will be faced by the worst crisis in her history next May, declared A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Federation, in a speech to workers.

Mr. Cook was the principal of the coal miners in their recent conflict with the mine owners and the Government which recently brought England to the brink of a catastrophe. His sensational utterances are rapidly putting him in the front rank as one of the most violent labor captains. Speaking slowly, as if wishing his words to sink into his hearers, minds, Mr. Cook said:

"Next May we shall be faced with the greatest crisis and the greatest struggle we have ever known and we are preparing for it.

"We shall prepare a Commissariat Department. I am going to get a fund if I can that will buy grub so that when the struggle comes we shall have that grub distributed in the homes of our people.

"I don't care a hang for any Government or army or navy. They can come along with their bayonets. Bayonets don't cut coal.

"We have already beaten not only the employers but the strongest Government in modern times." Mr. Cook predicted a general English election within twelve months and declared that the workers would capture the British Army and Navy by having them controlled by a Labor government.

He warned the Government not to tempt the Army and Navy too much, because "they are our own lads."

He praised the Communists to the skies, declaring he had rather associate with Communists than with royalty.

SHIPS LEAVE ENGLAND DESPITE CREW STRIKE

Get New Men Easily, but 2,000 Strikers Tie Up Ten Vessels at Sydney.

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP).—All was quiet at the London docks today. The unofficial strike of the shipping men has not only made no progress, but apparently is fizzling out. Several vessels which were temporarily delayed secured crews and sailed out of port.

The Royal Mail liner Orbita, whose firemen went on strike at Southampton, took on a new force and sailed last midnight.

The others are allowed to stay aboard their ships pending a settlement of the strike. It is not thought possible that the local Seamen's Union will be able to help the strikers financially.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Australian Prime Minister, S. M. Bruce, has telegraphed to the Premiers of all the States, urging them to afford protection to seamen desiring to perform their agreed contracts. He declared it unthinkable ever to admit the principle that the Australians have the right to dictate wages and conditions for any British industry.

No more fatal blow, he added, could be aimed at the legitimate trade union movement than this attempt by extremists like Tom Walsh and Johannsen, the Sydney seamen's Secretary, to undermine the authority of the properly appointed trade union leaders.

DAMAGED SHIP SHERE AFTER CRASH AT SEA

shining. Two miles off Point Judith, about 103 miles from New York, the Harvester came out of Providence and tried to cross the bow of the passenger steamship, Captain James said. When he saw there was going to be a collision, Captain James blew three blasts on his whistle to signal he was going full speed astern and reversed his engines. The Harvester did not reply, he said. There was too much way on the Rosalind to stop her directly and she was making three knots, according to the Captain, when she crashed into the starboard quarter of the tanker.

The Rosalind has a double hull with a thick band of steel for going through icefields in the Northern waters. The impact was so great that her stem was bent over to starboard and the two patent anchors with the hawse pipes were driven into the smashed steel plates of her hull. Had she been doing thirteen knots the heavy bow would have gone clean through the Harvester, officers of the ship asserted.

Among the seven holes in the tanker's side was one large one twenty feet from the stern, which extended from the quarter deck to the water line and was about ten feet wide.

When the water poured into the ship the ballast tanks were pumped out and the water pumped into tanks on the port side to keep the Harvester on an even keel. She was going light to Port Arthur, Texas, for oil.

Vanlou, the injured sailor on the tanker, said in the hospital last night that he was on deck aft at the time of the accident and did not realize that there was going to be a collision. The officer of the watch, who was standing near by, thought the vessels would clear each other. Just then the crash came, Vanlou said, and he was dashed heavily against the steel stanchion on the other side of the deck.

"I thought the Rosalind was going clean through our ship and that I was bound for Davy Jones's locker," the sailor said. "I lay on the deck for a few minutes and then the ships broke away from each other and I was picked up by two of my mates and carried to the hospital, where I stayed until we got to Stapleton this afternoon."

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lock of Twillingate, Newfoundland, an elderly couple who were in their berths at the time of the collision, were thrown out and had some difficulty in getting on deck. They remained up until the Rosalind reached her pier. Then Mrs. Lock told the agent of the Red Cross Line that they had nowhere to go, as they had been visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Canning, for a month and did not know their address. The difficulty was solved when they heard the steamship was going to the Robins Dry Dock early today, as Mr. Canning is an employe of the Todd Shipyards Corporation, which operates the dry dock, and they continued on board.

Longshoremen worked all day and night getting out the 2,800 tons of cargo in the hold of the Rosalind in order to lighten her.

STUDENT BEATEN TO DEATH

Attacked by Friends of a Girl He Addressed in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP).—John Klasinn, 26, pre-medical student of the University of Chicago and son of a wealthy Mankato (Kan.) ranch owner, was slugged and fatally beaten this morning by friends of a young woman he addressed on the street. He died in a hospital soon after the attack.

James R. Mitcham, 21, also a pre-medical student, who, like Klasinn, was to be a junior in September, was also beaten. Mitcham's home is in Fort Worth, Texas.

Archie Carlini, 21, a cloak room attendant and sweetheart of Ines Parise, of Chicago, who admitted he inspired the assault, and four youths, some of whom confessed participating in the attack, are under arrest.

Carlini and his companions are alleged to have attacked Klasinn after the latter spoke to the Parise girl, who with her two sisters, Dolores, 14, and Irema, 13, were standing in front of their home talking to Carlini.

When Klasinn saw the three girls talking to Carlini, he is alleged to have said: "Well, it's a shame that you have to be alone with three girls. Can't we make it a party?"

Carlini resented the remark.

"I'm sorry," Klasinn said. "We didn't mean any harm."

The two students then turned and walked away.

About five minutes later, Mitcham said, two or three blocks from the Parise home, six men suddenly surrounded Klasinn and Mitcham and attacked them.

McCOOEY'S CLUB DIVIDES.

Some of Its Members Forming a Walker Organization.

The Walker supporters continued to make progress in Brooklyn yesterday, according to reports received by John J. Curtin, the Tammany campaign manager there. Members of the Madison Democratic Club, the personal political organization of John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader, were reported to be organising a Walker Club which is expected to start with about 300 members. Another Walker Club is being organized in the Twenty-first Brooklyn Assembly District, in which Mayor Hylan has his home.

Mr. Curtin is making final arrangements for the big meeting Thursday night in Prospect Hall, Brooklyn, at which Governor Smith will make his first speech of the campaign. Senator Walker also will speak at this meeting. It is planned to give both the Governor and the candidate for Mayor a rousing reception. There will be 3,000 admission tickets issued, and more than 2,000 applications have been received.

In his own campaign for election and re-election, Governor Smith has made only one speech in Brooklyn, and that on the eve of election. He will make four speeches in Brooklyn in his campaign for the nomination of the Walker-Berry-McKee ticket, in the belief that the real battleground is in Brooklyn.

In his speech this week, it is said at the Brooklyn Walker headquarters, the Governor will tell in plain terms why he believes that Senator Walker should receive the Democratic nomination for Mayor and why Mayor Hylan should not. The speech is expected by the Walker supporters to have a great effect.

Mr. Curtin said yesterday he was greatly pleased with the Brooklyn situation. "Of course, I fully realize that we are up against a good hard fight in Kings County, but we are going to win on primary day," he said. "At first the support offered and accepted for the Walker-Berry-McKee ticket seemed rather appalling. On mere paper reflection, however, it can readily be seen that any candidate backed by Governor Smith is sure to be a winner. Then again Senator Walker's legislative record is most inspiring.

"We already have workers in every election district of the twenty-three Assembly districts in Kings County. The response of women has been most gratifying.

"There is a well founded opinion prevailing that eight years is about enough time for any one man to be Mayor of the greatest city in the world. The majority of the voters feel that a change is due on Jan. 1, and this opinion will be voiced on primary and election days."

Because of a slight cold, Senator Walker cancelled his engagement to attend the double-header between the Giants and the Pirates at the Polo Grounds yesterday and remained at home, working on his Thursday night speech and others.

To Speak at Luncheon.

With General Berry and Justice McKee, Senator Walker will speak today at the organization of the Brooklyn Walker Speakers' Bureau at a luncheon at the Hotel St. George. More than two hundred speakers in Brooklyn have volunteered to take the stump for the Tammany city ticket.

Senator Walker will speak tonight at the Tammany Club of the Thirteenth Assembly District, 600 West 125th Street, of which Andrew B. Keating and Mrs. Abbie Shay Hughes are the leaders.

The Executive Committee of the Municipal Civic League met at 32 Court Street, Brooklyn, and directed its Chairman, former Assemblyman Thomas E. Willmott, to erect "Win With Walker" banners in each of the twenty-three Assembly districts of that borough. The first of the league's banners will be strung across Manhattan Avenue in Greenpoint as a compliment to Mr. Willmott, who represented that district in the Assembly when Governor Smith was Speaker.

"It is the consensus of Brooklyn Democrats that Senator Walker will carry Kings County by a vote of two to one," said Mr. Willmott yesterday. "It is the duty of every enrolled Democrat, as well as of every citizen having the best interests of Brooklyn at heart, to see to it that our borough's plurality for Walker is up to the plurality that will be given by any other borough of the city.

"The zero hour for Hylanism has arrived. For years the political barometer of Hylanism has indicated fair weather promises and hopes for a future time. Next week, next month, next year, the people were told, there would be subway relief and the invisible enemies of the people exposed. Hylanism has been on trial and has been convicted by its own acts. The curtain on Hylanism is about to be rung down to make room for a show of decency at City Hall."

The opening of more clubs for Senator Walker in Queens was announced by Borough Manager Frank Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan said that the Walker Club at Ridgewood had a membership of 1,000 and that five clubs in the Rockaways, where Mayor Hylan is supposed to be strong, were working for Walker. The Arapahoe Democratic Club of Hillcrest added its name to the list of Walker club for the campaign.

More Walker Clubs.

Six Walker-Tiernan clubs were opened on Staten Island yesterday, at Rosebank, Stapleton, Tompkinsville, New Brighton, West Brighton and Port Richmond. It was announced that they would be open day and night until primary day.

County Judge J. Harry Tiernan, anti-Hylan candidate for Borough President, spoke at the opening of each of these clubs and declared that the real fight in the primary contest was whether Governor Smith or William Randolph Hearst should control the New York delegation to the next Democratic National Convention. Judge Tiernan said he would prove in future speeches that Mayor Hylan could have done much for Staten Island that he had not done, and had received undeserved credit for some of the things that had been done.

The anti-Hylanites will hold five open-air and two indoor meetings on Staten Island tonight. Arrangements will be made today for Saturday night's meeting, which will be addressed by Governor Smith and Senator Walker. Mrs. Katharine Cullom, anti-Hylan candidate for County Clerk, met 200 women at the Walker-Tiernan headquarters at St. George yesterday and received their promise to work for her and the rest of the anti-Hylan ticket.

The Night Workers' Jimmy Walker League, composed of newspaper employes in the editorial and mechanical departments, organized late Saturday night at a meeting in the Pulitzer Building by the election of James F. Nolan as President, Charles Monahan, J. F. Rooney and Anthony Andriano as Vice Presidents and John H. Peters as Secretary-Treasurer. Ned Brown, Michael Cohn, William Madigan and John J. Canavan were elected members of the executive committee; James J. Nolan, James E. Dwyer, Joseph Fiet and Anthony Andriano of the campaign committee and John H. Peters, Joseph Canavan, Ike Marks, Charles Monahan and Arthur Gobel of the committee on arrangements.

WOMEN ACTIVE FOR WALKER.

Director Says Interest in Primary Is Greater Than Ever.

Democratic women are taking more interest in this primary campaign than they ever have before in the preliminaries of an election, Mrs. J. Ramsey Reese, director of women's activities at the Walker-Berry-McKee headquarters, said yesterday. Mrs. Reese said the number of women promising active support of the Tammany city ticket had been remarkable.

"Three things are largely responsible for this unusual interest on the part of women," Mrs. Reese said. "We put them in this order:

"First, the overwhelming desire on the part of the women of the city for a change in the Mayor's office.

"Second, the declaration of principles set forth by Senator Walker.

"Third, the high character from every viewpoint of the men designated to head the regular Democratic ticket.

"Who could possibly be better satisfied than the women by Senator Walker's pledge to substitute action for words in solving the transit problem? They have been the principal sufferers from the disgraceful overcrowding in the subways."

Mrs. Reese said that women's bureaus had been established in the Walker headquarters in each of the other four boroughs. She predicted that women would do more than their share in giving Senator Walker and his associates a big majority at the primary vote.

COOLIDGE PREPARES FOR A COAL CRISIS

Still Believes Miners Won't Strike, but Will End His Vacation Soon.

THINKS PUBLIC WILL HELP

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 23.—President Coolidge was represented today as still inclined to believe that the miners and operators would find means to compose their dispute without a hard coal strike. This is his opinion despite surface indications that a strike on Sept. 1 is inevitable.

While President Coolidge, it is said, does not intend to act hastily in the event of a strike, present indications are that he will end his vacation early in September. Perhaps he may go to Washington the last of this month so as to be at the seat of government to confer with the Government officials who have been considering the course the Federal Government would take to influence a settlement.

President Coolidge is hopeful that the public will rapidly adjust itself to using substitutes if an anthracite strike comes. He believes that such a policy, coupled with refusal on the part of the consumers to pay exorbitant prices, would do more than anything else to make a strike of short duration. Threatened loss of the markets and consequent lessening of work for the miners, it is argued, will be the factors that will influence renewal of mining after the present surplus, which will last three or four months, is exhausted.

Hammond Expects No Strike.

John Hays Hammond, who was chairman of the United States Coal Commission two years ago and is active in New England with Governor Fuller in a movement to persuade consumers to use substitutes, expressed the view held by the Federal Government.

"I have no fear of an anthracite strike," declared Mr. Hammond. "The operators realize they are losing their markets to substitutes because of the increasing cost of their product, and because of the constant fear of a shortage of supply. The miners are in the same boat, absolutely, for a strike means the loss of the market, and when they return they will find that operations have been suspended.

"Two years ago I told John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, that I would defy him to call a strike. I said to him, 'Mr. Lewis, you are an intelligent man. You can call a strike, but if you win you will lose, because you will find there will be no anthracite market left.'

"The newspapers have been expressing a fear that there might also be a strike in the bituminous industry. I haven't the slightest apprehension with regard to a simultaneous bituminous strike. The competition between the unionized fields of the Central States, so called, and the non-union fields of West Virginia is such that operators and miners alike appreciate the seriousness of the situation.

Says Unions "Have Overdone It."

"In the Central States the unions have overdone it. They have asked for higher wages than the companies can afford to pay, and many of the mines have been closed as a result, so that today the non-union fields are producing about 60 per cent. of the bituminous output of the country.

"If Lewis calls a strike he will be going back on his agreement with the operators, and the union mines will go out of business. I don't think the miners would stay out. They would desert and go to the non-union mines to get work. If Mr. Lewis calls a strike he will be setting up a Frankenstein that will destroy him.

"It is a great source of gratification to me to see the changed opinion in New England, and especially in Massachusetts, with respect to anthracite, for until the last two years anthracite has always been a fetich. We have come to realize that anthracite is a luxury and not to be used at too great a cost. We have plenty of substitutes and will have no trouble in carrying on."

BUSINESS MEN ACT.

Wilkes-Barre Association Warns of Danger to the Coal Industry.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP).—Steps to be taken which it is hoped will aid in the prevention of a suspension in the anthracite region were discussed at a meeting of the Anthracite Business Men's Association here today. Following an adjournment late this evening the members of the conference were reticent as to the action to be taken. The following prepared statement was given to the reporters:

"In order that there may be full understanding of the opinions and purposes of this committee the following statement was unanimously approved by the committee this afternoon:

"We submit that the public has a very vital interest in the outcome of the negotiations between representatives of the anthracite mine workers and operators, which negotiations must sooner or later be renewed.

"The general public is entitled to an uninterrupted supply of anthracite for humanitarian reasons if for no other reasons.

"Every man, woman and child living in the anthracite-producing area depends largely upon continuous operation of the mines for material comforts and a decent living. The prosperity of the mine workers and mine operators is unalterably interwoven with the happiness and future of our communities.

"Periodical uncertainty regarding a steady supply of anthracite improving sufficient to encourage the use of substitutes. Unless some plan is devised to overcome this, the stability of the industry is the danger. Anthracite will not be mined if it cannot be sold. That would mean less work for the mine workers, fewer mines in operation and would seriously affect the lives of every one earning a living in the anthracite districts.

"It is our seasoned judgment that a suspension of operations will be contrary to the best interests of the public and we propose to confer with the respective parties and present in detail the reasoning upon which our conclusions are based.

"We feel confident that the representatives of both mine workers and operators have no desire to approve any action or agreement which will endanger the welfare of the industry as a whole or the welfare of the public dependent upon the industry, directly or indirectly, for a livelihood."

John H. Uhl, a local manufacturer, presided at the meeting. Others attending represented many kinds of business in the State.

Following the meeting Chairman Uhl was in telephone communication with Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Kennedy of the United Mine Workers of America. The nature of the proposals submitted later said in Philadelphia that he had not been in communication with Mr. Uhl.

MINE DEADLOCK STILL ON.

Workers and Operators Reported to Be Hopelessly Estranged.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23 (AP).—Both anthracite operators and miners were apparently proceeding today with their original plans for whatever situation is to develop in the coal fields after Sept. 1, while citizens' committees appealed in vain for pledges assuring peace.

The last week in the life of the present working contract opens tomorrow with both sides seemingly hopelessly estranged. Operators say flatly any renewal of the contract on its expiration Aug. 31 must provide against increase in "production cost" by so much as a cent, while as for granting the men's plea for the check-off, the owners call that impossible.

The miners call this a "blanket refusal," spelling wholesale rejection of all their terms, and they take the stand that till the owners show some yielding, even negotiation is useless. Neither group at the present time indicates the slightest sign of compromise.

The public outcry which developed at Wilkes-Barre, and the demonstration in New England as displayed in the conference of Governors called in Boston last week by Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, has clearly set both operators and miners thinking. All movements of this kind are being watched closely by the respective belligerents.

John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers of America, was reported to be in long-distance connection with district leaders in the hard-coal belt virtually all day.

COOLIDGES GO TO CHURCH.

Hear a Sermon on Charity and Spend Day Resting.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 23.—President and Mrs. Coolidge attended church today at Salem, where they worshipped in the Congregational Tabernacle. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Theodore M. Shiphard of Scarsdale on the Hudson, N. Y., whose topic was charity.

George Harvey, former Ambassador to Great Britain, who is a guest at White Court, did not accompany his hosts to church.

The day was spent by the Coolidges in absolute rest. In the afternoon they called on their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns.

TAILOR SWINDLED OF $1,100.

Police Hold Man as One of Gang Who Sold Fake Diamonds.

With the arrest last night of Isaac Shapiro of 206 East Sixth Street, the detectives of the East Fifty-first Street Station told that Louis Danziger, a tailor of 352 East Fifty-second Street, had been swindled out of $1,100 last week by three men, one of whom, according to Danziger, was Shapiro.

The tailor said that one member of the trio of swindlers had appeared at his shop on several occasions and formed a casual friendship. Last Tuesday, he said, Shapiro came into the shop asking if the tailor could direct him to a man he believed to live in the neighborhood. The tailor expressed ignorance of the man. Just then the first man entered and Shapiro, according to the tailor, said that he would like to find the man he was searching for, as he wanted to sell him some fine diamonds he had smuggled in from Mexico.

Shapiro, said the tailor, showed twelve stones, which appared genuine to his untutored eye. The tailor became interested in buying six of them at a low price because they had come into the country free of duty, and when the first man pretended a desire to call up an appraiser, the tailor told him to do so. When the appraiser, who, he said, was a third member of the trio came, he said the gems were orth at least $8,000 in the open market.

Danziger said he went to his bank on the strength of that valuation, withdrew his life savings and paid the money to Shapiro, for what he later found were six pieces of glass.

LOST BERRY PICKERS SAFE.

Two Brooklyn Men Returned After Disappearance Was Reported.

Thomas Carleton and William A. Kohler of Brooklyn, who were lost in swamps near New Egypt, N. J., last week while picking berries, were discovered safe in their homes last night but unwilling to give a detailed account of their experiences in the Jersey thickets.

Carleton, who lives at 65 Morgan Avenue, said, however, that Kohler and he had become separated last Monday and each had made his way back to New Egypt several hours later. Carleton went home the following day, but Kohler determined to stay in New Egypt a few days longer. He finally returned to his home, at 26 Grattan Street, last Friday.

The disappearance of the two men had been reported by their relatives to the Missing Persons Bureau. They evidently failed, however, to notify the authorities of the return of the berry pickers, because an investigation was under way when they were located last night.

Great Store of Gold and Diamonds Found In House Once Occupied by Czar's Tailor

LENINGRAD, Russia, Aug. 23 (AP).—In a house formerly occupied by the tailor to the Czar, whose name is Lidval and who now carries on a banking business in Paris, an immense quantity of gold and silver articles set with precious stones and diamonds was discovered yesterday.

One jewel box was found to contain forty-seven gold articles of elaborate workmanship and several of the finest blue diamonds, weighing 338 carats. There was a great number of gold enameled cigarette cases, snuff boxes, rings and tie pins.

Those who now occupy the house had not the slightest idea of the treasure, which had been deposited in a wall safe since the beginning of the revolution.

It was only when the tenants' committee of the house decided to use the safe for storing rent and books connected with the building that the treasure was discovered.

GOOD COKE SUPPLY IF MINERS STRIKE

GAINS POPULARITY AS FUEL

If anthracite miners strike on Sept. 1 the gas companies of New York State will be prepared to help alleviate the hardships incident to a suspension of production, according to the New York State Committee on ublic Utility Information, which publishes a weekly bulletin for the Empire State Gas and Electric Association.

Since the general strike of 1922, according to the committee's weekly bulletin, gas plant capacity amounting to a production of 60,000,000 cubic feet a day has been put into operation, so that at present the gas manufacturing establishments of the State have a daily capacity of 480,000,000 cubic feet.

"In addition," the bulletin sets forth, "gas plants are now producing coke suitable for domestic use at the rate of 1,000,000 tons a year, or about one-twelfth of the State's annual requirements of hard coal, where three years ago coke amounting only to 150,000 tons a year was being produced. Coke is steadily displacing hard coal for use in ranges and furnaces wherever it is available. Gas companies having it for sale as a by-product of their manufacturing processes report that once the customer has mastered the different methods necessary in firing a furnace or range with it, he gets much satisfaction from its use, as there is very little ash to handle and practically no smoke.

"By-product coke oven gas plants have been completed since the last coal strike in Buffalo, Syracuse, Watertown and Utica and a large one is nearing completion at Troy. Coke resulting from gas manufacture is now being used in Schenectady, Troy, Fulton, Watertown, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Syracuse, Utica, Rochester, Geneva, Oswego and Ogdensburg.

"During the coal shortage of 1922 and 1923 thousands of coal users all over the State turned to manufactured gas. The gas companies themselves have taken precautions against coal strikes. In addition to the maintenance of large reserve stocks of coal, there has been a considerable abandonment of the use of anthracite in gas manufacture. Coke or soft coal is being used now to make gas for Albany, Hudson, Cohoes, Troy, Saratoga, Glens Falls, Oneida, Syracuse and Utica. The aggregate use of hard coal by these plants three years ago was 100,000 tons a year. Gas plants at Binghamton, Poughkeepsie and Cortland are now using part bituminous in place of hard coal for making their product."

SEIZED AS HE QUITS PRISON.

Ex-Convict Faces Another Trial in $70,000 Silk Truck Hold-Up.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 23 (AP).—Nicholas Catino of Newark, who was indicted by the May, 1924, Grand Jury of Union County for alleged participation in a $70,000 silk truck hold-up in Springfield, N. J., in January 1924, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Carey today upon being released from Essex County penitentiary in Caldwell, where he served a term for assault in connection with the same robbery.

Catino, with two other men, is alleged to have held up the silk truck in Springfield and to have taken it to an Irvington garage. Police there later raided the garage and in the ensuing fight Patrolman Johnson of Irvington was wounded. Catino was subsequently tried and convicted on the assault charge. He will be arraigned in County Court here next month.

ACCUSED OF TAKING $24,000 FROM BANK

EMBEZZLEMENT IS CHARGED

Officers Meet and Agree to Deposit $38,000 Today to Allay Uneasiness.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT, L. I., Aug. 23.—Albert Sterner, cashier of the First National Bank of Roosevelt and his brother-in-law, Edward Bucham, a broker, were arrested at their homes in Rockville Centre late last night by the Federal authorities, charged with embezzling more than $24,000 of the funds of the bank.

In order to allay the fears of the depositors the officers and Board of Directors of the institution held a meeting in Freeport tonight and those present announced that they would personally deposit $38,000 as soon as the bank opened in the morning to avoid any uneasiness on the part of depositors.

Sterner is the son of a well-to-do property owner of Rockville Centre and is married. He has no children. He lives on South Village Avenue in that community in a two-family house, the other porton of which is occupied by Bucham and the latter's wife and child.

Details of the manner in which the embezzlement is alleged to have been accomplished were not obtained. The Board of Directors asserted, however, that investigation had shown that the thefts had commenced eight months ago.

Sterner was a paying teller in a bank in Rockville Centre for several years. Two years ago when the First National Bank of Roosevelt was formed he was appointed cashier. Both he and his brother-in-law are well known in church circles.

The bank officials made the announcement about the personal deposits when the arrests became public.

The President of the bank is Marinus Matheron, a florist of Centennial Avenue. He was present at the meeting, and so was Leo Fishel, counsel for the bank, in whose office it was held.

It was said at the home of Peter Stephen Bent, a Vice President of the bank, that Mr. Bent had suffered a nervous breakdown from worry.

DOCTOR HELD IN CRASH.

Accused of Driving Under Influence of Liquor When Man Is Killed.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP).—As the result of an automobile accident at Loganville, near here, early today, Daniel J. McCann, 33 years old, of Baltimore, is dead, and Dr. John G. Alexander, aged 36, also of Baltimore, driver of the car, is held in the county jail pending an investigation by District Attorney W. W. Van Baman.

A jury empanelled by Coroner L. U. Zech returned a verdict that McCann came to his death when Dr. Alexander, "being under the influence of liquor, lost control of his car." Three bottles of liquor were found near the scene of the accident, two containing "prescription whisky," the other being empty.

ADVISES DAILY BRAKE TESTS

Safety Council Suggests Trying Mechanism on Leaving Garage.

In the second of a series of articles on safe driving prepared by the National Safety Council and made public yesterday, it is suggested that brakes should be tested each day. Before going half a block from the garage, it was said, a service test should be made by throwing out the clutch and applying the brakes.

"If possible select a dry spot for making this test," it was suggested. "Under no circumstances should the car be taken further if the brakes are not operating properly. Drive back to the garage and see that the faults are corrected before driving out again."

SIX INJURED AS AUTO IS HURLED OFF ROAD

Crowded on Curve by Speeding Car, Sedan Plunges Down Hill Into Twelve Feet of Water.

ALL SAVED BUT ONE MAY DIE

One Dead, Five Hurt, Two Badly, in Crash at Dingman's Ferry, Pa.—Other Victims of a Day.

Six persons, three of them children, were injured shortly after 6 o'clock last night when the sedan in which they were driving from Katonah to White Plains was crowded off the road by another automobile which sped around a sharp turn. The Chevrolet plunged down a twenty-foot embankment, crashing through evergreen trees, to Kensico Lake, where it came to rest in 12 feet of water.

Frederick Fowler, 33 years old, of 45 North Avenue, New Rochelle; his daughter, Edith, 10; his son, Fred Jr., 7; Frank Strol Jr., 31; his wife, 27, and Alice Blair, 7, all of the same address, were in the sedan, which stopped about 10 feet from the shore of the lake. The road was crowded at the time by scores of passing motorists, who ran down the steep slope to aid them. By the time the first one arrived, the occupants of the sedan had succeeded in releasing themselves, and were making desperate efforts to keep afloat.

Several volunteers plunged in and helped them to the shore. They were rushed to White Plains Hospital, where pulmotors were used on all six for several hours. Fowler, who was driving the car, sustained lacerations of the head and shoulders and a fracture of the right leg. None of the others was seriously injured, but Fowler, his son, and Strol are in a serious condition from submersion, according to a statement at the hospital last night. Strol was not expected to live through the night, physicians said.

The woman and the two girls were not seriously hurt, and they will be discharged from the hospital in a few days. They were not able to release themselves from the sedan, according to witnesses, for several minutes, and probably would have had greater difficulty if the car had not landed right side up.

One Dead, Five Hurt in Crash.

Special to The New York Times.

DINGMAN'S FERRY, Pa., Aug. 23.—One man was instantly killed, two persons so badly hurt that they are expected to die, and three others injured, when two cars in avoiding each other on a curve near this town struck trees and were wrecked. The dead man is Henry Bach of 42 Mercer Street, Jersey City, who is believed to have been driving the car which caused the accident.

In the car, which was owned by David Rogovin of 7,110 Nineteenth Avenue, Brooklyn, also a member of the party, was Mrs. Eva Bach, 65 years old, wife of the dead man; her sister, Mrs. Fanny Fuch, 60 years old, of 118 North Massachusetts Avenue, Atlantic City, and Rogovin's two sons, Bernard, 8, and Merton, 11.

They were on their way to Stroudsburg, Pa., when in rounding a turn near here, about fifteen miles south of Port Jervis, Bach swung too far on the turn and struck the car of Joseph Shook of Newburg, who, with his wife and daughter and son, was going in the opposite direction. Bach's car skidded, crashed against a tree, and was completely wrecked.

Bach was thrown out on his head, and his skull crushed. Mrs. Bach was also thrown some distance and had her left leg and shoulder broken. Rogovin and his son, Bernard, were so badly hurt that they are not expected to live, while Mrs. Fuch and Merton Rogovin were also injured, but less seriously. Mrs. Shook had an arm broken. All the injured were taken to the St. Francis Hospital at Port Jervis.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug 23 (AP).—A police motor patrol was wrecked and three officers seriously injured today, when the patrol and a Main Street bus collided. Reserve Officers Thomas McGrath, William Bunce, and Walter Symonds were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. McGrath's leg and shoulder were broken. The legs of the others may be fractured. Motorcycle Officer Samuel Cochrane, chasing a speeder today ran into the curb and fractured a leg.

Other Automobile Accidents.

Albert Castaldo, 23 years old, of Lexington Avenue, Mount Kisco, was fatally injured when his motorcycle, on which he was riding on Maple Avenue, Bedford Hills, caught in a rut and threw him to the ground with such force that his skull was fractured. He was taken to the Northern Westchester Hospital, but had not regained consciousness last night.

Eugene P. Haveron, 44 years old, a painter, of 132 Ellis Avenue, Irvington, N. J., died last night in Overlook Hospital at Summit, N. J., of injuries he received when an automobile in which he was riding early yesterday morning struck a Morris County Traction trolley car on Milburn Avenue in Milburn Centre.

His wife, Edith, and his son, Clayton, who were with him at the time of the accident, were thrown from the machine. Mrs. Haveron received a fracture of the right leg and internal injuries, her condition is considered serious. The boy, who was riding in the back seat of the car, received minor injuries.

Mrs. Rachel Newman, 70 years old, and Mrs. Ida Newman, 40 years old, both of 81 Blake Avenue, Jersey City, were injured when the car in which they were riding, driven by David Newman, collided with a car driven by Peter Goser, 24 years old, of 32 West Twenty-sixth Street, Bayonne. Goser was arrested on a charge of assault and for failing to have either an owner's card or a driver's license. The women went to the home of a friend in Jersey City.

An automobile left in front of 636 West 136th Street last night rolled down the hill to Riverside Drive, crossed the Drive, tipped over a bench on which some people were sitting, and then jumped to the New York Central tracks below. The people who were hit were not injured.

Patrolman Lanker of the West 152d Street Station served a summons on the owner of the car, Richard H. Power, who lived in the house where the car was parked, for leaving it unattended.

Samuel Weisman, a jeweler, living at 180 Riverside Drive, received severe lacerations of the right arm and his wife was badly bruised about the arms and hands last night when the taxicab in which they were riding collided with a touring car at Thirty-fifth Street and Eighth Avenue. They proceeded home after a physician from the New York Hospital had dressed their wounds.

AUTOIST KILLS BOY, FLEES.

Two Others Hurt—Lad Holds Body in Arms Until Aid Comes.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 23 (AP).—Elwood Mellon, 11, was killed, his brother William, 12, was slightly injured, and Charles Gardner, 13, was seriously injured tonight when they were struck by an automobile at Lawnside, N. J., on the White Horse Pike, ten miles east of here. All three are from Camden. The motorist did not stop.

Gardner is in a Camden hospital tonight with a fractured ankle and a possible fracture of the skull. Elwood Mellon died in the arms of his brother, who held the body until aid arrived.

"I do know that his charge that a banker is my client is as absurd as the rest of the wild frame-up of Friday night. I do know that when I was employed in this matter it was for a purpose by no means hostile to Phillips or his interests. I have never held any conferences on this subject in any banker's home on West End Avenue or elsewhere, and I can add that when the identity, sex and purpose of my client are revealed Max Phillips will find it urgent to give earnest consideration to the matter of abduction, false arrest and libel that figured so melodramatically in Friday night's outrage.

"I am advised that drugs or knock-out drops were administered to two of the women held under duress at Phillips's home Friday night. Does this make it appear that the women were the conspirators?

"Isn't it also absurd to think that women crafty enough to engage in such conspiracy would pick Max Phillips for a violation of the Mann act? Wouldn't the statements publicly attributed to him in his divorce case have prompted the plotters to choose some other frame-up if they planned to victimize Max Phillips? If he preferred a good polo pony to a wife would he have been an easy victim for a Mann act conspiracy?"

Mr. Phillips stated last night, when told of Mr. Berg's statement that drugs, knockout drops or force had been used upon any of the women in his house last Friday night. He asserted that Berg's statement was an attempt to "drag a red herring across the trail."

Plot Charged by Phillips.

Mr. Phillips in a statement yesterday charged that the alleged conspiracy to ruin his business had taken two forms. The first, he said, was to hold him up to ridicule as a person who sought advice from spiritualist mediums, as a result of his having been in the apartment of Mrs. Margaret Campbell, 602 West 139th Street, when she was arrested on a charge of "predicting the future" on Aug. 1. The second he went on, was lips-Jones Company by destroying the stockholders' confidence in him.

The Phillips estate outside Red Bank was heavily guarded yesterday. Eight county detectives and as many more private detectives kept strangers off the place. The manufacturer himself carried an automatic pistol in his pocket all day long. He appeared extremely nervous while talking to reporters, and jumped whenever the telephone rang.

Plays Polo Before a Big Crowd.

Although he said he had been threatened with death at the polo match on his estate yesterday afternoon, Mr. Phillips went through with the game according to plan. He led his own "scrub" team against the Shrewsbury team, losing by 6 to 5. Hundreds of persons witnessed the match, many evidently having been attracted by the publicity regarding the alleged conspiracy. More than 200 automobiles were parked outside Mr. Phillips's private polo field. The detectives kept on the watch for gunmen, but none appeared.

Mr. Phillips's associates let it be known also that they were on the watch for two young women in a roadster with a Rhode Island license, who were reported as heading for the polo field in an attempt to see whether their charms would assist the alleged conspirators in a new plot. The charmers failed to appear.

Mr. Phillips announced that despite all threats to kill him or entangle him in unconventional affairs, he intended to come to New York City and visit his office this morning. He will be accompanied by armed guards, and will carry his pistol.

Threatened with contempt of court because he failed to obey a subpoenae to appear as a material witness at two hearings of Mrs. Campbell, Mr. Phillips said that he intended to testify for Mrs. Campbell when she is arraigned in the Washington Heights Court on Wednesday.

Denies He is a Spiritualist.

Mr. Phillips said he was interested in spiritualism but did not believe in it. Six or eight months ago, he continued, he heard about Mrs. Campbell and paid two visits to the Lotus Flower Spiritualist Church, 226 West Fifty-eighth Street, of which she is the "pastor." He then paid no further visits to her until this month, when, he said, he was lured by the "conspirators" into seeing her again.

Explaining the connection of the Mrs. Campbell incident with the alleged conspiracy, Mr. Phillips went on as follows:

"On Tuesday, August 4, a woman who several leaders of New Thought and Spiritualism in the city a number of whom were personally known to Mrs. Campbell."

Mr. Phillips said that Mrs. Campbell gave Miss Black a "reading," for which the woman gave a $5 "contribution" to the church, and that Miss Black called again on Saturday, Aug. 8, inviting Mrs. Campbell to accompany her as "chaperon" on a mysterious trip to Saratoga the next week, at a fee of $50 a day and expenses. On Monday, Aug. 10, said Phillips, Mrs. Campbell rejected the proposal.

Mr. Phillips then told of an alleged trick by which he was "lured" to Mrs. Campbell's apartment on Aug. 11, the day she was arrested, through some one else calling him up and representing herself to be Mrs. Campbell.

Tells of Phone Call by Woman.

"About 3 o'clock in the afternoon," he said, "I was called on the telephone at my office, 1,225 Broadway, and a woman's voice came over the wire, purporting to be Mrs. Campbell, and asking if I would come to see her immediately, as she was in great distress. I was expecting to play polo that afternoon, and so advised the person, whom I believed to be Mrs. Campbell, that I was making the 3:45 train and it would be impossible to get up that day.

"In the stress of business affairs, I missed the train, and then recalling her request, and thinking I might have been a little ungracious in my refusal to answer her call, I telephoned Mrs. Campbell and told her I would be up at 4:30.

"Having only been there once or twice I had forgotten the address and in consequence rode to the wrong subway station, had to look up the number and go back several blocks. Upon my arrival I was ushered in by Mrs. Campbell, who asked me to wait a few minutes, as she was engaged.

"About five minutes later the doorbell rang and when Mrs. Campbell answered the bell, Miss Black in company with another pushed their way into the apartment.

"The Black woman represented that her friend was a married woman living in New Jersey, who had a very sick relative and was seeking spiritual solace, and she urged that she grant her a few minutes' reading.

"Mrs. Campbell finally yielded and asked me if I could wait a few minutes, innocently assuming that I had only come to call as to the resumption of church service. When she left the room to dismiss the previous caller, the Black woman came into the room where I was seated and asked me for a cig-

You say he is your best friend

—Yet you burden him with the hardest task you know

FEW men realize that with the honor and confidence expressed in appointing a friend as executor or trustee of an estate goes one of the most difficult tasks one man ever gives another.

In the panel below are listed a few of the things every executor must do. Hardly one man in a hundred, with sufficient ability, can spare from his own affairs time enough to give these matters the constant, personal attention they demand. Few wives, called on to act as executrix or trustee, have the experience necessary for this work.

When you appoint the Irving Bank-Columbia Trust Company as your executor or trustee, you obtain not the "part time" service of a busy man, but the complete facilities of an organization with more than a generation of constant experience in doing just this kind of work.

[2] Take possession and make a detailed inventory of all the property of the estate.

[3] Keep an accurate record of all assets, receipts and payments.

[4] Collect all debts due to the estate and all rents, dividends and interest.

[5] Take steps to protect all property from loss and damage while in his care.

[6] Advertise for debts against the estate and pay them.

[8] Liquidate assets unless it is necessary to distribute them in kind.

[9] Pay all legacies and set up trusts, if any.

[10] Prepare and submit the final accounts to the court for judicial settlement and decree providing for the distribution of the assets and for final discharge of the executor.

NEW YORK, August 24—There was a time when suspenders were in imminent danger of being encased in glass and then exhibited at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington as examples of the funny and forgotten way men used to dress. They are procurable for autumn in spruce novelty silks revealing stunning stripes and brilliant plaids. Exclusive, but not expensive.

WEIZMANN DEFENDS ZIONIST POLICIES

BACKS PLUMER'S SELECTION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 23.—Dr. Chaim Weismann, head of the Palestine Administration, defended his policy and the British Government today against various attacks made in the first week of the Zionist Congress. He declared that the British Government had in every way fulfilled its obligations under the mandate and that Messrs. Balfour, Baldwin and Lloyd George had been most correct in their attitude toward Zionism. The only possibility for Zionism, he held, was in continuing in close cooperation with full confidence in Great Britain.

Concerning the appointment of Lord Plumer as High Commissioner, Dr. Weismann said it was nonsense to reproach the British Government for making the appointment without consulting the Jewish agency.

"I declare openly we were not asked, although I may go about with an important mysterious mien and pretend that I know all sorts of things," said Dr. Weismann. "The British Government is bound by the mandate to appoint somebody in sympathy with the mandate's purposes. Anything further that we may demand would be merely interference with Britain's sovereign rights."

Dr. Weismann warned Zionists not to make comparisons between the Samuel and Plumer regimes after the first few weeks, adding:

"You may attack me if you like. That's why I am here. For years all attacks on Sir Herbert Samuel descended on me. All those who hysterically attacked Samuel then are hysterically praising him now. I advise against hysterical attacks and hysterical praise."

Says League Lacked Understanding.

Dr. Weismann went on to point out that the League of Nations did not have a full understanding for what it called the dualism of the mandate.

Speaking of his work in the United States, Dr. Weizmann said his friend, Dr. Wise, had given him excellent references for his work over there.

As far as the much discussed question of the Jewish Agency was concerned, Dr. Weismann said his policy was unchanged and it was hoped to bring about a plan during the congress.

Referring to the charge that Great Britain wanted only to build up a strategic base in Palestine without giving the Jews an equivalent for it, Dr. Weizmann pointed out that many British military experts held that Palestine was wholly useless for defense of the British Empire. Other experts asserted that Palestine might be a valuable military asset, but only without Jews and without a mandate.

"I advise you," Dr. Weismann said, "not to lose yourselves in strategic problems of the British Empire. It will be to the eternal credit of the British Empire that it has attempted to solve the problem by justice."

Dr. Weismann referred to M. Yabotinsky's recent speech in which he demanded independent military measures and that a Jewish army should defend Palestine. This demand he called ludicrous."

As to colonization, he said the only possible method was to buy up land at full price. Yabotinsky's demand for a protective tariff in Palestine was equally absurd, Dr. Weismann asserted.

Urges Friendship with Arabs.

"The key to the situation lies in the cultivation of real friendship and cooperation with the Arabs, thereby opening up the Near East to Jewish initiative," said Dr. Weismann. "Palestine must be built up without infringing a hairbreadth on legitimate Arab interests.

"The congress must realize the bitter truth that Palestine is not an empty land but contains 600,000 Arabs whose claim to Palestine lands is just as good as ours."

Dr. Weismann paid a generous tribute to the memory of President Wilson, prophesying that the fourteen points yet would rise from the dead.

Predict 5,000,000 in Palestine Soon.

VIENNA, Aug. 23 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The prediction that in twenty years from now Palestine will have a Jewish population of not less than 2,000,000 was made by Mr. Sprinzak, head of the Labor and Immigration Department of the Zionist Executive in Jerusalem, in his report to the Zionist Congress today.

"Jewish immigration to Palestine averaged 3,000 monthly this year," he said. "In the next two years this will grow to 60,000 annually."

No unemployment is prevalent in the country in spite of the new arrivals, Mr. Sprinzak stated. This was due to the spirit of self-sacrifice of the pioneers, their capability of adapting themselves to the new environment, and to the policy of the Zionist institutions in the country.

The Jewish National Fund which was created to purchase Palestine land as the inalienable property of the Jewish people, being leased to the settlers, has a total of 300,000 dunam land in the country, according to reports made to the Congress by M. M. Ussischkin, head of the Jewish National Fund in Jerusalem.

HELD IN ATTACK ON OFFICER

Three, Arrested as Annoyers, Freed on Bail—Fourth Is in Hospital.

Three of four young men arrested Saturday night in a Broadway elevated train at Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, by Patrolman Fred Ehleiter of the Bedford Avenue Station, were freed in $1,500 bail each by Magistrate Dale in Bridge Plaza Court yesterday for examination Thursday on charges of disorderly conduct and felonious assault. They are John Classe, 21 years old, and his brother Tony, 17, of 885 East Ninety-second Street, and Alexander Volturo, 17, of Foster Avenue and East Ninety-second Street, all of Brooklyn.

The fourth man, Tony Albano, 27 years old, of 98 Van Siderin Avenue, Brooklyn, is still in Kings County Hospital with a bullet wound in his right breast. He will recover.

According to the patrolman, who was off duty and in plain clothes at the time, the four were annoying women in the train, and he showed them his badge and arrested them. On the way to the station house they attempted to assault him, Ehleiter said. The policeman shot Albano, and with the assistance of Special Officer Michael McCarthy of the B. M. T. he captured the others.

Assistant District Attorney Leo Healy investigated the case yesterday and decided that the shooting was justified.

CAILLAUX IN LONDON FOR DEBT PARLEY

By T. R. YBARRA.

modest proposal that France should pay us £20,000,000 a year. Public opinion in this country has definitely crystallized on this question. There has been no such unanimity on any question since the war. Whatever may be the immediate outcome of this week's conversations it would be folly to let France persist in the illusion that we can be either intimidated or cajoled into making still heavier sacrifices than we have already voluntary undertaken."

Seek Premiership as His Goal.

The Morning Post makes the statement that M. Caillaux knows well that a successful end of the discussions will probably make him French Premier, its leading editorial is friendly in tone to France, yet emphasizes the justice of the British contentions regarding the debt.

After reminding France that it was American insistence on collecting war debts from Europe which forced England into the disagreeable position of demanding payment from France, The Morning Post declares that Britain did double work in winning the war, since she both fought on land and held the seas, and though she cannot show devastated regions it is because the sea has covered the terrible destruction wrought by the enemy among British ships, a destruction unparalleled in history."

Simultaneously with the statement that the British do not mean to back down in their demand on France comes equally persistent repetition that M. Caillaux will propose to pay Britain a sum far below the £20,000,000, which it is declared here Britain must obtain from France if she is to get what is justly due her. What M. Caillaux will offer to pay is variously estimated. Some say £13,000,000, others £10,000,000. The Paris Matin declares he would be "stoned" if he offered to pay a penny more than £9,000,000.

It is stated here tonight on good authority that M. Caillaux before seeking to fix the total French payment will make two proposals—first, for a periodical revision of France's capacity to pay, and, second, an arrangement whereby the debt and payments may be revised in case of serious alteration in exchanges.

It is assumed that M. Caillaux, in seeking to pay Britain far less than she asks, will argue that France must simultaneously pay her American debt, and that it is wrong to assume that France does not pay as heavy taxes as England, since the French taxes, though less in amount, really are just as crushing as the English.

Paris Hears of Alleged Concession.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—M. Caillaux left Paris for London at noon today to try to settle the French debt to England.

As the dapper Finance Minister in a green suit, green hat, brown spats and white gloves left on his mission a report became current in the French capital that Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the British Exchequer, had let him know that London was ready to come down from annual payments of £20,000,000 to £15,000,000 if the French would settle at that figure.

This gave rise to another report that M. Caillaux was going over to London this statement is untrue. The last offer, which was made in July at London, by the French experts was £10,000,000, or about one-third what England pays America. It was because this was not accepted, England demanding £20,000,000, that negotiations were suspended."

There is reason to believe that this note originated from M. Caillaux.

Caillaux's Statement to Press.

When asked at the railroad station for an interview, M. Caillaux handed out typewritten sheets containing the following:

"The English press says M. Caillaux will take to London a gentleman's offer. It seems to me that a gentleman's offer means simply an offer one is sure of being able to fulfill and it is only this kind of offer the French Government has considered. In any case, Winston Churchill will find before him the representative of a great nation, which, while careful of its future, its duties and its reputation for honesty, is at the same time justly conscious of its past and the rights the past confers upon it.

"I have full confidence in the spirit of fairness of the noble British people and of the high understanding of the superior interests of the two peoples which my eminent interlocutor has. It is our war-time friends I am going to meet and it is in the spirit of durable friendship that we are going to undertake negotiations."

M. Caillaux expects to return to Paris before the end of the week.

Today's French press is less violent in its comments on England's efforts to collect from France and all the papers wish M. Caillaux good luck.

The general French expectation appears to centre on a settlement by which France will pay £10,000,000 annually to England, and also it is expected that a settlement can be made with America on the basis of $100,000,000 annually.

The old question of the repudiated debts of the Southern States crops up once more today in the Eclair, which says of Americans:

"Must we recall to them a little episode in their history they seem to have forgotten? What has become of the loans floated by the Southern States during the Civil War—Florida, Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Tennessee? We have never heard of these loans being paid or any interest being met. 'It is said the best policemen are reformed criminals.' Can it be that the best creditors are those who did not honor their own signature?"

However, it remains true despite evidences of ill-humor here and there that the vast majority of Frenchmen have heard enough about France's foreign debts and sincerely desire their settlement.

During his trip to London an incident occurred somewhat disagreeable to M. Caillaux. On leaving the train at Calais he was accosted by a Frenchman, who, pushing his way through the crowd, insulted him with a string of invectives. Before he could be arrested he had shouted among other things, "You slouch," to which M. Caillaux, turning toward his tormentor, merely replied, "I thank you."

Crowd at Calais Boos Caillaux.

CALAIS, France, Aug. 23 (AP).—When M. Caillaux detrained to take the boat for the British Isles today he was reminded of his public and private troubles by shouts from the crowd gathered on the pier: "Vive Calmette." "Vive Clemenceau," "Vive Ignace."

He ignored the hooting of his compatriots, who had not forgotten the ignominies which M. Caillaux had suffered in his own country.

Calmette was the editor of the Figaro, whom Mme. Caillaux shot and killed; Clemenceau brought about Caillaux's trial and exile for commerce with the

P. B. NOYES ASSAILS OUR DEBT POLICY

DOUBTS EUROPE IMPROVES

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—Colonel Pierpont B. Noyes, former United States Rhineland Commissioner, who arrived last night on the White Star Dominion liner Regina from an extensive tour abroad, is far from convinced that conditions in Europe are improving. And the most disquieting element of danger is, in his opinion, the attitude of the United States toward the settlement of war debts in Europe.

"It would be pleasant and it is popular to say that conditions in Europe are improving," said Colonel Noyes. "Every intelligent and informed European with whom I have talked has expressed a great concern for the future.

"In one respect only is improvement evident. The relations between France and Germany are better than at any time since the war. This seems largely due to the changed policy of the Liberal Government in France, but the continued progress of this better understanding is probably conditioned upon a continued control of French foreign policy by the parties of the Left.

"In general, the nations of the Continent of Europe seem to be floundering in the hopeless futilities of economic and political swamps, largely due to the fact that since the war no one has dared to apply heroic remedies. Six years of half measures and temporary expedients have steadily turned unsolved problems into insoluble problems. Temporary stimulants have been applied, until now even the most violent remedies have only a momentary effect.

"I have purposely omitted Great Britain from this generalization. Her difficulties have not come from weak policies (if we except the 'dole'), but from unavoidable economic readjustments.

"In all fairness it should be said that France also is today making prodigious efforts and great sacrifices to strengthen her financial structure, but the postponement in past years of these efforts and great sacrifices to strengthen her financial structure have brought the present Government face to face with a Herculean task.

"The French people are now taxing themselves to the limit. There seems to be a misunderstanding on this point in many countries. The workman in France who earns $350 to $500 a year pays an income tax at a rate considerably higher than a man in the United States on an income of $10,000, and the larger incomes pay all the way up to 60 per cent. Furthermore, this direct income tax represents only a quarter of the total money being raised by the Government of France through direct and indirect taxation.

"As to the question of war debt settlements, in spite of the most friendly and fair-minded attitude of Washington, I fear that the United States is likely to do to France exactly what M. Poincaré tried to do to Germany. Poincaré looked at the devastation of war and insisted upon the right of the victor to exact payment of the cost from the vanquished. He refused to give consideration to the question of how much Germany could pay—how much France and the rest of the world could afford to insist on her paying. A change of Government in France and the Dawes plan saved that situation, at least for the present.

"Sooner or later the American people will, I am sure, discover:

"First—that at least two of these countries cannot possibly pay outside of their own borders the amount they technically owe; and

"Second—That we cannot possibly afford to have them try to pay such amounts.

"Forgetting for a moment that the financial possibilities in France are likely for a generation to be strained to the breaking point to meet her tremendous internal financial problems, our Dawes committee has covered very thoroughly the impossibility of any Government, under modern commercial conditions, making such tremendous transfers of wealth as would be called for by the payment of France's entire debts to America and Great Britain."

FRENCH WANT TIP FROM US.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—In these days when daily discussions of interallied debts always bring up the Dawes plan for German reparations payments, the Allies—and especially France—seek ways and means to avail themselves of the German marks which stand to their credit in Germany and which, during the first few years of the working of the plan, can be purchased only in Germany. That being the problem of putting into execution the plan which bears the name of the Vice President of the United States, interest attaches to the method by which America will avail herself of her 2½ per cent. interest in German payments.

This will amount to 25,000,000 marks on the 1,000,000,000 marks to be paid the first year, and up to date there stands available for American use 16,000,000 marks (abut $4,000,000) which Parker Gilbert, the transfer agent, holds against the orders of the American Treasury. So far he has no orders.

The French, who are having some difficulties in using their marks and thereby are facing some criticism, are watching to see what will be done by America, on the advice of whose citizens, including the present Vice President, they accepted the Dawes plan as the best way to get paid by Germany. If there is a coal strike in the United States, the money might be taken out in Ruhr coke. Then, again, Washington might buy for Mr. Schurman a regular Embassy building in Berlin, such as other countries have. But up to the present nothing has been done about it.

The French, who face the job of transferring 52 per cent. of the German payments, would like a dip from the authors of the Dawes plan on how America will transfer her 2½ per cent.

LINER SAVES TWO AT SEA.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., Aug. 24 (AP).—Two worn and haggard men reached here today after receiving assistance from a transatlantic liner and Coast Guardsmen of the Highland Light and Wood End Station.

Their speed boat C-508 had capsized early Saturday morning far out at sea, and although it righted itself, its engine was out of commission and they drifted aimlessly until today. John Ryan of Lynn and Ralph De Liste of Gloucester were the men.

On their arrival here they told their rescuers that during Friday night in a heavy sea some thirty-five miles off Highland Light the boat rolled over. The boat righted itself and both, being strong swimmers, managed to clamber back aboard. They bailed the craft out, but the engine had been ruined by the water.

The rough seas continued and tossed their disabled boat about like a chip while they vainly watched for some passing ship. What little food and water they had on board had been spoiled. Suffering alike from the cold at night and the sun's hot rays by day, they were finally picked up by the White Star liner Cedric.

The Cedric was bound for Boston and so wirelessed Highland Light. A crew put off and brought them ashore, exhausted by their adventures. The Wood End Coast Guardsmen then brought them to Provincetown, where physicians said a little rest would restore them.

FRENCH DEBT REPORTS VIEWED AS FEELERS

Washington Officials Say Real Issue Cannot Be Settled Till Debt Mission Arrives.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Absence of any correspondence from the French Government on the matter of the settlement of its war debt to the United States has convinced the few members of the American Debt Commission now in Washington that many of the suggestions as to what the French propose to do, now emanating from Paris, are being put forward as "trial balloons" by clever French diplomats.

In previous informal conversations the French representatives have tried hard to ascertain the position of the Treasury and the Commission in hypothetical circumstances, but these inquiries have met with the reply that hypotheses have nothing to do with the case, and that the real issue cannot be settled until France comes to this country with bona fide proposals on which an adjustment may be effected.

More than a month will elapse before the meeting of the French negotiators with the American Commission, if the French hold to their program of sailing about the middle of September, but in the meantime M. Caillaux, opinion has it here, will not cease his efforts to ascertain American reaction to proposals made through the press or in private conversation. Naturally he will expect the Coolidge Administration to concentrate on his dealings with Winston Churchill in London, and doubtless he may anticipate that any favorable terms he may receive from the British Chancellor of the Exchequer will be reflected at Washington.

Should, however, he believe his settlement at London would furnish arguments to force concessions to France by this country, he will be sorely disappointed, American Commissioners said this evening, such a theory, they added, being repugnant to their policy that each nation's debt to America must be considered as a thing apart, and with no precedent to govern it. More than ever the American Commissioners insist on this attitude, Senator Smoot having assured the irreconcilable Senator Borah that the Belgian debt settlement will not constitute a precedent in any case.

Hints that France would ask that her debt payment be spread over a period of ninety years were icily received by members of the Commission, who pointed out that this would far exceed the terms of sixty-two years granted to Belgium, Great Britain and the other nations which have so far funded their obligations. Insinuations that France would seek a moratorium elicited no comment, nor would the Commissioners discuss a suggestion that France might ask for a paragraph in the agreement providing for a revision of her capacity to pay at some date following the signing of her agreement.

HONORS LOST FISHERMEN.

Gloucester Unveils Monument and Casts Flowers Upon the Waters.

Special to The New York Times.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Aug. 23.—Flowers cast upon the waters just as the tide went out late this afternoon bore the tribute of Gloucester to its fishermen whom the sea has claimed, forty-five of whom have been drawn into its depths in the present year.

The ceremony is an annual one but today it was made doubly significant by the unveiling of the bronze statue of a helmsman, which is to be a permanent memorial to the fishermen who have gone to sea from Gloucester since the town was founded more than 300 years ago.

Nearly 5,000 people crowded the esplanade where the exercises were held. Many of them were Summer guests. Carleton M. Parsons, President of the Gloucester Tercentary Permanent Memorial Association, opened the unveiling exercises.

BOTANICAL GARDEN TO REOPEN DRIVE

Dr. Howe, Assistant Director, Says $7,000,000 Campaign Will Continue Next Month.

WILL EXHIBIT RARE DAHLIAS

The drive for $7,000,000 needed for the maintenance and development of the Botanical Garden will reopen next month, according to Dr. Marshall A. Howe, assistant director of the garden staff, who will be judge of the Flower, Fruit and Vegetable Show to be held at the 104th Regiment Armory, Sept. 30 to Oct. 2. This will be the ninety-fourth annual exhibition of the American Institute of the City of New York, combined with the annual exhibit of the American Dahlia Society.

"I am just now trying to coax into bloom" he said, "two specimens of the rare tree dahlia, which is a native of Mexico. It grows to be fifteen feet high and bears hundreds of large pink and white flowers at the same time. Dahlia blossoms fourteen inches in diameter have already been produced. Larger ones may be looked for. The dahlia which originated from a wild Mexican plant discovered in 1870 by Francisco Hervandes, has by artificial hybridization and selection been developed into forms and colors of unimaginable diversity."

The Board of Managers of the Botanical Garden, headed by Frederic S. Lee and Henry W. De Forest, hopes that new funds will make possible the installation of a series of model gardens to demonstrate to residents of cities and suburbs how back yards may be beautified by proper planting.

PAPER PLANT BURNS; ONE FIREMAN HURT

Four Alarms Bring Engines From Local Stations and Manhattan to Brooklyn Factory.

FIREBOATS UNABLE TO AID

Low Tide in Creek Prevents Their Reaching Scene—Watchman Discovers Blaze.

Fire destroyed the plant of the Rushmore Paper Company at Gardner Avenue and Townsend Street, in the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. Because of the proximity of other manufacturing establishments, four alarms were sent in, which brought apparatus from many fire houses in Brooklyn and some from Manhattan, as well as two fire boats, which were unable to reach the plant because of low tide in Newtown Creek, on which the building is situated.

The flames were discovered coming from a corner of the building about 4:30 by a watchman, Thomas Martin. He ran four blocks to the nearest fire box and turned in an alarm. On the arrival of Assistant Acting Chief John Davin, three other alarms were turned in, which brought, in addition to the fire apparatus, police reserves from six stations.

Fireman John Walsh of Engine 237, who lives at 187 Meserole Street, Brooklyn, was injured by falling bricks when the wall of the building on the creek side fell. He was treated for abrasions of the arms and legs.

Before the arrival of the firemen Martin and John Spatz, 516 Morgan Avenue, Brooklyn, ran two touring cars and five automobile trucks out of the burning building. The cause of the fire had not been learned last night. Paper products were stored in the building.

CHINATOWN TO HONOR TONG WAR PEACEMAKER

Mourners From Many Cities Will Pay Tribute Today to Lee Kue-Ying, Wealthy Merchant.

All Chinatown will turn out today to do honor at his last rites to Lee Kue-Ying, the peace maker. He was a Chinese merchant, who played a large part in bringing to an end last year the murderous tong war between the On Leongs and the Hip Sings. He will be buried this afternoon in Evergreen Cemetery, Brooklyn. More than 100 automobiles will follow his body on the long journey from 16 Mott Street, where it now lies in state.

Since last Tuesday, when Lee Kue-Ying died of pneumonia, his body has rested in the center of a flower decked room on the second floor of the Mott Street address. The doors of the room have stood open to receive a steady stream of mourners from all over Chinatown and the Chinese quarters of other cities. Black flags are draped about the entrance and the neighboring buildings. The funeral has been delayed once to permit friends from out of town to gather, but interment has been definitely fixed for today. Representatives of almost every Chinese organization are expected to be present among the mourners who will assemble shortly before eleven o'clock this morning.

Lee Kue-Ying was president of the Chinese Benevolent Association, and a merchant of influence and wealth. His widow is in China. One son is studying in Columbia University and the other is in San Francisco.

CALL A CONFERENCE ON CHINESE AFFAIRS

Leaders in Many Activities Will Meet Next Month at Johns Hopkins.

WIDE RANGE OF TOPICS

Customs Control, Rights of Missions and Industrial Problems Among Subjects to Be Discussed.

Invitations have been issued for a conference on American relations with China at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Sept. 17 to 20. The problems of extraterritoriality, foreign customs control in China, industrial interests and Chinese labor, special treaty rights enjoyed by mission interests in China and the safeguarding of loans and investments will be discussed, as well as the way in which American and Chinese cooperation in all Chinese projects may be increased.

"The conference is entirely unofficial," says the statement issued from the conference headquarters at 129 East Fifty-second Street. "It is not being summoned in order to discuss any predetermined policy or program, nor is the range of discussion to be limited in advance. It may be less concerned, however, with governmental policies than with those of the organizations and institutions to which its members belong and whose policies they may affect.

"Practically all those present will be competent to contribute something distinctive and valuable to the discussions. On this basis it is clear that the sessions will consist less of formal addresses than of an exchange of information and points of view to the end of finding out what results in action ought to be sought by organizations or individuals in promoting fuller information in the United States concerning China and for furthering cooperative relations between the American and Chinese peoples."

On the committee of 126 sponsoring the conferences are Owen D. Young, Professor W. W. Willoughby, former adviser to the Chinese Government; the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, President of the Federal Council of Churches; former Supreme Court Justice John C. Clark, Charles R. Crane, former United States Minister to China; Miss Mary E. Woolley, President of Mount Holyoke College; Provost C. K. Edmunds of Johns Hopkins University, Douglas L. Elliman, Mrs. John H. Finley, Raymond B. Fosdick, President Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth College, James A. Goldsmith, President of the Silk Association of America; Frederick Stevens of the China Consortium, Bishop Logan Herbert Roots, the Rev. Father John W. Ryan, director of the National Catholic Welfare Council; James A. Thomas, for twenty-five years President of the British-American Tobacco Company in China, and William C. Cheney.

ALL NEW DRY CHIEFS TO SERVE ON TRIAL

tonight in an announcement made by Wayne B. Wheeler, Washington representative of the Anti-Saloon League. "Most of the Federal prohibition administrators named are experienced and effective men and will make good if given a free hand in doing their work," said Mr. Wheeler. "A weak point in the service in the past has been lack of authority and divided responsibility rather than the character of the men in charge. The new men, as well as the experienced men who have made good, deserve the support of the friends of law enforcement in the fight against organized liquor lawlessness."

That an effort will be made by dry leaders of Congress to put through a law classifying all field employes of the Prohibition Unit is generally expected by Treasury authorities. Just what attitude the Administration will assume toward such legislation is not known.

The Civil Service Commission takes the position that the merit principle should be applied to the Prohibition Unit field service, and civil service reformers, it is known, contemplate making a drive in behalf of a bill authorizing competitive examinations in the matter of appointments.

It is the understanding that the Administration would defer such action, but it is generally believed that a measure classifying Prohibition employes would be promptly approved by President Coolidge.

As a result of the program of decentralization provided by the Andrews plan, an interesting sidelight has been thrown on the prohibition situation in Washington. Lawyers who have specialized in handling prohibition cases here find that their practice is threatened. Accordingly, they are arranging to set up offices in cities where prohibition litigation is more likely to arise, principally those places named as district headquarters.

DRY HEAD SEES PLOT; REPUDIATES LETTER

Circular Assailing Reform Regime in Jersey Denounced by Anti-Saloon Man.

Special to The New York Times.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Aug. 23.—An alleged plot to discredit the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey was disclosed here today when officials of the league announced that forged letters purporting to come from the league had been widely circulated throughout this part of the State. Many ministers have received the epistles, which contain a violent attack on the present County Administration. It was recalled that some time ago former Prosecuting Attorney Blicke of Morris County was removed and a reform Administration installed.

A public statement was made today by Samuel Wilson, Assistant Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, disavowing the letter. It follows: "A circular letter is being distributed in the name of the league by some cowardly person or interest as an apparent defense of former officials of Morris County. It is a desperate effort to discredit the league and to stir up the fires of sectarian bigotry."

The letter attacks the present Administration and certain church organizations, stating that "unthinking believers are being deceived by wolves in lambskins." It is addressed to "Friends of Law Enforcement." The letter charges that Montville, Lake Hopatcong, Dover, Denville, Rockaway and Tenville are now wide open and are paradises for bootleggers and gamblers.

TELLS OF FREAK STORM.

Schooner Meets Waterspout, Gale, Calm and Lightning in One Night.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 23.—A waterspout just after dark, a fifty-mile gale and then dead calm, while bolts of lightning flashed throughout the entire night and twice struck the mizzenmast, was experienced by the crew of the four-masted schooner Paul E. Thurlow on Aug. 12 in the Straits of Florida. The ship now is discharging rock phosphate from Port Tampa at Canton.

Waterspouts are rare and fifty-mile gales are not uncommon, but the electrical phenomenon was the strangest thing he had seen in a life of seafaring, the schooner's master, Captain A. W. Beale, said today.

"When I went below, shortly after night had fallen," Captain Beale said, "there was a moderate breeze from the northwest and no indications of any unusual weather. I hadn't been below more than a few minutes when the mate came to the companionway and yelled down that the queerest looking storm he'd ever seen was almost on us.

"I rushed on deck and ordered all hands called and the canvas taken in. We had everything set, and it was a tough scramble to get it down and furled.

"I've seen and heard of electrical storms in which the bolts almost made the compass circuit, but that's the first time I ever knew of them going clear around."

MAID ENDS HER LIFE.

Quarrel With Sweetheart Is Believed to Have Been the Motive.

With a quantity of bichloride of mercury tablets strewn on the floor beside her bed, Elsie Fischer, 27 years old, was found dead yesterday morning in an apartment on the top floor of 221 West Eighty-second Street, where she was employed as a maid by Edward Davis, a wholesale butcher.

According to William Allen, superintendent of the apartment house, who discovered the body, the young woman had come here from Germany less than a year ago. He said she had been going out with a man older than herself for several months and that they quarreled last Friday. A bankbook showing deposits of 600 indicated that the entire amount had been recently withdrawn and the young woman's monthly salary of $110, which she received late last week, was also missing.

Supreme Court Decides Seizure of German's Property Was Illegal.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 23.—In a unanimous decision, the Supreme Court has ruled in favor of Walter Hermann, a German citizen, against the Treasury Department, which in the Obregon régime ordered the Department of Public Lands to take over the hacienda known as the Xico, in the State of Mexico, and then rented it to the Obregon General Maycotte.

The case establishes a precedent for many land cases now in the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court decided the seizure of the hacienda was illegal and ordered damages to Hermann for time lost when the hacienda was in the possession of the department.

DIPHTHERIA KILLS THREE.

Quarantine in Friendship, N. Y., Checks Disease.

FRIENDSHIP, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP).—Village officials today were confident that the diptheria here, which has taken three lives, had been effectively checked. The village remains under strict quarantine.

The three deaths were in the family of George Hanks, Mrs. Hanks and her two young sons being the victims.

Public meetings have been banned by official edict, and villagers were forbidden to participate in the Cuba Chamber of Commerce picnic last week.

Dr. G. K. Fuller, the only resident physician, is reported to be recovering from an illness which followed his attendance on the Hanks family.

Her parrot is credited with having saved the life of Mrs. Juliana Loewinger yesterday at her home at River and First Streets, Hoboken.

The building was on fire, but the flames were confined to a cigar store and shoe store on the ground floor—both shops owned by Charles Weinroth. Smoke ascended to all the other floors, however, and firemen and policemen walked up and down the halls to clear out the tenants. They thought they had completed the job and emptied the building of everybody but themselves, when they heard a raucous cry: "Oh, Lord! Oh, Lord! Oh, Lord!"

They entered the room from which the exclamation came and found Mrs. Loewinger stretched out on the floor, overcome by smoke, while her parrot stood on her shoulder and shouted "Oh, Lord!" over and over again.

Fire Captain Drewes and Patrolmen Snyder and Reidy carried the woman up a fire escape and over the roof of the building to the roof of an adjoining building, where she was revived.

The damage was estimated by Weinroth at $50,000. The origin of the fire was not discovered. Firemen said that in the cigar store they were endangered by cartridges exploded by the heat. Police later arrested Weinroth on a charge of selling firearms without a permit.

TWO SHOT DEAD FROM AUTO.

Third Man Wounded in Mysterious Shooting in Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Three men were strolling early this evening in front of 702 North Rockwell Avenue when an automobile drew up at the curb beside them. From the car, contained and sinister, there was a fusillade of shots. Two of the strollers were killed instantly, the other was possibly mortally wounded.

One of the dead was identified as Frank Spinna of 2,210 West Ohio Street. The wounded man is Joseph Perrit of 2,146 Warren Avenue. He was taken to the county hospital after his wounds had been treated.

When Perrit was questioned by detectives he declared he did not know anything more than that "somebody shot us."

In Perrit's pockets the police found $100. Possibility that the shooting may have been part of one of the recurrent beer or alcohol wars is being investigated.

Beside the body of Spinna a revolver was found, indicating that he had tried to defend himself, but died before he could fire a shot.

The unidentified man was about five feet seven inches tall, wore a blue suit, and also carried a revolver.

Weather Halts Pinedo in Philippines.

MANILA, Aug. 23 (AP).—Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Italian aviator, attempting a flight from Italy to Japan, landed at Antimonon, Tayabas Province, today, to await more favorable weather for the trip to Manila. Fear for his safety had been felt when he failed to reach Manila seven hours after taking off from Cebu.

ASKS PUBLIC TO SEE ANTI-AIRCRAFT TEST

FORT TILDEN SHOW TODAY

Planes to Tow Targets for Batteries of Machine Guns and Larger Artillery.

MITCHEL FIELD, L. I., Aug. 23.—Lieut. Col. Benjamin D. Foulois, the Commandant here, said today that Fort Tilden was the logical place to observe the anti-aircraft airplane tests scheduled for tomorrow.

"These tests," he said, "have a serious significance in connection with future plans for national defense, and both the Coast Artillery Corps and the Air Service are anxious to find out just what place anti-aircraft guns and airplanes will occupy in our defense program. Instead of making the tests competitive, we are striving to make them instructive as to how both these arms can be used to the greatest advantage. We are anxious to have the public share the general interest the tests have created in the army, and understand their scientific aspect as well as to see the picturesque side.

"At Fort Tilden it will be possible to see the anti-aircraft guns in actual operation and also to observe the bombing planes as they fly over the course. As fast as anything of interest occurs at Mitchel Field I will personally transmit it to the officials in charge of the tests at Fort Tilden."

The orders under which the Twentieth Bombing Squadron is to participate in the tests call for five planes with pilots and mechanicians to be ready to take off here at 9 o'clock in the morning, in anticipation that firing will begin an hour later. The tests are to continue all day and into the evening.

Three-inch anti-aircraft and .15-calibre machine guns are to be used simultaneously by the gunners of the Sixty-second Anti-Aircraft Regiment, a unit of the regular Coast Artillery, whose home post is at Fort Totten. Blue sleeve targets are to be towed by the planes on 2,100-foot cables during the day, and white targets will be used at night.

Brig. Gen. James E. Fechet, successor to Colonel William Mitchell, as Assistant Chief of the Army Air Service, is to be among the high ranking officers who will observe the tests. He is to make his headquarters at Fort Tilden.

STUDIES PHILADELPHIA AREA

Commerce Department Says It Spends $5,000,000,000 a Year.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP).—An effort to learn the character and buying power of the market area tributary to Philadelphia has been made by the Department of Commerce in the first commercial survey ever attempted for the purpose. Detailed findings on the subject, with which the department was aided by the Federal Reserve Banks in Philadelphia, were made public today.

Philadelphia's marketing area was deemed to include all territory within the Third Federal Reserve District, which embraces Pennsylvania west of Johnstown, New Jersey south of Trenton, and all of Delaware, with a population of about 7,000,000. This population was estimated to buy annually about $2,000,000,000 of commodities at retail, or between 6 and 7 per cent. of the nation's total retail consumption.

In addition, the extensive manufacturing and converting operations of the area require annually about $3,000,000,000 in raw materials, machinery, equipment and supplies.

Similar surveys are being undertaken in other parts of the country.

CLASH WITH HOLY ROLLERS.

Campers Swim on Day Set Apart for Women Only.

Special to The New York Times.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Aug. 23.—The Assembly of God, better known as the Holy Rollers, have become involved in a controversy during their encampment here. They are camping on leased property on the outskirts of town. The lease gives them the privilege of swimming in the Wanque River, which borders their camp. Under their belief mixed bathing is improper and separate hours have been set aside for men and women.

A party of male campers on the other side of the stream learned the time set for the women to bathe and promptly made their appearance in the river, only to be chased away by the guards of the Holy Rollers. The campers have obtained legal advice and have been informed that they are within their legal rights, and they say that they will continue to swim on their own side of the river while the women of the Holy Rollers are swimming.

SAFEGUARD FLIGHT, PARIS TO NEW YORK

Tarascon and Coli Plan Keeping Afloat Indefinitely if Forced Down on the Atlantic.

FIRST WILL CUT WING COVER

Then Drain Fuel Tanks and Finally Drop 510 H. P. Engine If 4-Ton Craft Fails in 30-Hour Crossing.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—In reply to criticisms that they are going on a fool's errand in trying to fly from Paris to New York in an airplane without hydro equipment for landing on the water, Lieutenants Paul Tarascon and Francois Coli, the two war-maimed aviators, who are putting their machine through tests at Villa Coublay, let it be known that they are taking great precautions for safety in case they have to come down on the Atlantic.

They are arranging things so they could keep afloat indefinitely. In the first place, if they come down, before hitting the water they will cut away the covering of the lower wing, which will enable the machine to ride the waves for two or three hours. If help does not come at the end of that time they will have to pump empty one by one the three big fuel reservoirs, which will enable the airplane to float for four hours longer.

If necessary, they will then saw four bars and the engine will drop off and there will be left only the frame, which, they say, will keep afloat indefinitely.

To Carry Food for 15 Days.

They will carry food for fifteen days. Twelve rockets for S O S calls, lifebelts and a sea anchor complete their equipment against the bad luck which they do not expect, for Tarascon says, before he starts, he will have full assurance that his machine will reach New York within thirty hours after leaving the French capital.

The machine is similar to the one which recently made the record flight from Paris to Constantinople and Moscow and return. It will carry 3,000 liters of gasoline and 275 liters of oil. When empty it will weigh 1,400 kilograms and when loaded 3,400 kilograms (about four tons).

The air-cooled motor of 510 horsepower will give a speed of 190 kilometers (about 125 miles) an hour. The landing gear will be dropped as soon as the plane is out of sight of land.

The plane is a Potez 1925 model, exactly similar to that in which M. Arranchart a week ago kept three successive dinner engagements in Constantinople, Moscow and Paris, having left from here. The lower wings and the body of the plane have been slightly modified in the new model. It has a Jupiter engine of nine cylinders.

In the first test flight at Villacoublay yesterday the plane was piloted by M. Labouchere, without, however, the full weight it will carry on the New York trip. It behaved perfectly in all particulars.

Lieutenants Tarascon and Coli will start the flight for New York when the tests have been completed and the weather is satisfactory.

Trimmed Plane Like Life Preserver.

PARIS, Aug. 23 (AP).—The French veterans, Lieutenants Francois Coli and Paul Tarascon, are going to jump off for their thirty-hour air flight to New York confident of success but ready for a wreck at sea and fifteen days adrift waiting for help.

They have arranged to lighten their plane so that it will float indefinitely, like a big life preserver, and will carry compressed provisions and an apparatus for the distillation of sea water.

The aviators will carry a complete medical kit and can find subsistence on dried food and distilled sea water for a couple of weeks.

No date has been fixed for the flight, but the men expect to start with a favorable east wind behind them and travel at the rate of about 125 miles an hour.

The machine is being tested and will soon make a long land flight in a final tuning-up.

NAVAL SEAPLANES REACH SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 23 (AP).—Two of the three naval seaplanes to attempt the non-stop flight to Honolulu next Friday arrived here early this afternoon. The third was delayed at San Pedro, Cal., by an oil leak and did not get here until 5:50 P. M.

The PB-1 came from Coos Bay, Ore., leaving there at 8:30 A. M. and reaching San Francisco at 12:55 P. M. This plane left Seattle yesterday but was forced down at Neah Bay, Wash., with a broken oil feed line. Repairs were effected and she proceeded to Coos Bay, where she spent the night.

The two PN-9 type seaplanes left San Diego at 7:14 A. M. today. The PN-9 No. 3 made a non-stop flight to San Francisco, landing in Sausalito Bay at 2:35 P. M.

The PN-9 No. 3 brought Captain Stanford Moses, flight project commander. She was piloted by Lieutenants Allen Snody and Arthur Cavin. The PB-1, landing at Crissey Field, was in charge of Lieut. Commander J. H. Strong, assisted by Lieutenants Rice Botts and Ralph E. Davidson, with Captain L. M. Wilson as a passenger.

FINDS TWELVE ROUTES FOR AIRSHIP SERVICE

Aerial League Estimates They Would Be Profitable for Hammond Venture.

A survey of possible routes for the projected commercial airship lines, which John Hays Hammond Jr. has been proposing, has been completed by the Aerial League of America. The results were made public yesterday. The report estimates that there are twelve possible routes for which there is sufficient traffic to make the venture a financial success.

The New York-Chicago-Los Angeles-San Marcial-Mexico City-Panama line.

The New York-Cleveland-Detroit-Minneapolis-Seattle line.

The New York-Jacksonville-Miami-Havana line.

58,000, NEW RECORD, SEE GIANTS DIVIDE

PIRATES KEEP 5-GAME LEAD

SECOND IS NIP AND TUCK

HOW THEY STAND.

As a result of winning one game of the double-header with the Giants yesterday, the Pirates now are five full games ahead of the Giants, as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
New York	63	53	.562

If the Giants should win the one remaining game of the series today, the Pirates will be four full games in the lead, as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.

If the Pirates win today, they will be six games ahead, as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
New York	63	54	.557

The Giants have 33 more games to play and the Pirates have 39. If Pittsburgh wins half of their games the Giants must win 23 to finish in front.

By HARRY CROSS.

The Giants and Pirates shared the double-header at the Polo Grounds yesterday before the greatest gathering which has ever witnessed a baseball game under Coogan's Bluff. New York temporarily broke the spell the Pirates have held over them and won the first game, 7 to 4, but the Pirates came back to take the second, 3 to 2.

The crowd, which jammed every nook of the big steel stands was close to 58,000. The paid admissions were about 53,000 and those who came in with passes and the guests of the clubs sent the total soaring. The crowd was far above comfortable capacity and fans crowded the aisles in the upper and lower stands.

By sharing the double bill, the pennant-crazed Pirates held their own and are still five full games in front of New York. They have won three out of four games and even if the Giants should win today Pittsburgh will still have a comfortable margin of four games.

Greenfield Shows Class.

The Giants showed a complete reversal of form in the opening game when young Kent Greenfield displayed a remarkable bit of pitching skill for six and two-thirds innings. Up to that time, not a Pirate had made a hit nor reached third base. Then Cuyler reached first on a swinging bunt to third and beat out Frisch's throw for a single. The strain of such pitching was too much for Greenfield, who is one, if not the youngest pitcher in the big leagues. He's only 19.

Weakened in the eighth, when the Giants had a seven-run lead and a fusillade of six hits and four runs blasted him out of the box, Jack Scott coming in to turn back the relentless assault of the Buccaneer sluggers.

Old Babe Adams, whose major league life covers seventeen years, started for the Pirates in the first game, but he was batted out of the box in the third and Tom Sheehan relieved him. It was an unusual sight to see Adams pitted against Greenfield. The infant pitcher of the Giants was just two years old when Adams started his major league career.

Giants Miss Chances.

The second game was a nip and tuck affair, with the Giants missing numerous opportunities to score, because of good pitching in the pinches by Morrison and old Red Oldham, the former Detroit southpaw. No less than thirteen of the Giant base runners were left high and dry on the bases, waiting eagerly for a hit to encourage them across the plate.

The Pirates showed a latent drive and persistency of attack which brought them from behind to nose out New York when the Giants appeared to have the game sewed up. Undismayed by the shock of defeat in the first game, the Pirates uncovered the reserve power which must be one of the assets of a championship ball club.

The enthusiasm of the fickle fans sifted back to the Giants when they had the Pirates on the skids in the first game and the excitement at times soared to a high key. The games bristled with the sort of swift uncanny baseball which big sport gatherings like this expect of their champions.

Bill Terry made a remarkable one-handed nip of Johnny Rawlings's liner in the fourth of the first game and Southworth brought the crowd to its feet in the fifth by charging back toward the centre field bleachers to bring down Pie Traynor's terrific drive with one hand.

Traynor himself made one of the great plays of the day when he leaped far to one side in the fifth inning of the second game and knocked down Kelly's screaming smash. He went over on his face while plunging for the ball, but was up like a rubber ball and threw out the runner at first.

Interest Greatest Ever.

It may be that the baseball fates have decreed that the Giants are not to smash all precedent and win their fifth pennant in a row. Surely they cannot be expected to win all the time. Whether they win or not the Pirates will never forget this series they are playing at the Polo Grounds. Two double-headers in the midst of the flag race have never aroused the interest which has brought record crowds to the ball park in two days. And it will be a long, long time before such interest is worked up again.

The Giants went after Adams early in the first game. Meusel was hit on the elbow with a pitched ball, and Terry's single to short sent him to second. After Kelly's long fly to Moore Meusel trotted to third. Travis Jackson, who was back at his regular place at short after a long lay-off with an injured knee, celebrated his return by a singling single to centre which sent Meusel over with the first run.

Snyder tipped the ball in front of the plate and stood in his tracks, believing it was a foul. Smith tossed to third and got Terry going into that station and Traynor chucked over and doubled Snyder at first. The Giants were fast asleep on that one.

Greenfield was an easy out in the third and Southworth was tossed out at first on a pretty play.

The Giants Get Busy.

Then the rat-a-plan of hits started. Frisch doubled to left centre and went to third when Young bounced a single off Adams's shoes. Meusel's single to left, the first he has made in the series, scored Frisch and Young went to third.

Terry's double scored Young and poor old Adams went to the bench. The pace was too swift for the old-timer. Tom Sheehan came in and Kelly spanked him for a single, scoring Meusel and Terry.

The Giants gathered their other two in the fifth. Young singled and Meusel nicked another to left. Terry placed a neat tap on the infield and, throwing to first, Sheehan hit Bill with the ball, Young scoring while Meusel went to third. While Rawlings was disposing of Kelly at first Meusel raced home.

Greenfield's pitching was something to cheer about. The Pirates went down one, two, three in every inning up to the seventh. There wasn't a blemish in his tossing. With two gone in the seventh, Cuyler put a crimp in his chance for a no-hit game by beating out an infield hit.

Scott Shuts Off Attack.

Greenfield, who had been a hero a few minutes before, now hurried away to the clubhouse, and Jack Scott who had pitched a full game Saturday, came in and his speed quickly shut off the Pirate attack.

Manager McGraw sent his newest boxman, Fred Fitzsimmons against the Pirates in the second game. Fitz did pretty well considering the fact that he was facing the hardest hitting club in baseball. He faltered for a moment in the seventh in the face of a concentrated Pirate rally and McKechnie's men shoved over a brace of runs which won the game.

Southworth singled off Morrison in the first inning of the closing game and he went down on Frisch's out. Young's poke to centre sent South home. The Bucs tied it in the first of the fourth, when with two out, Traynor singled and continued to second on Meusel's fumble. Pie took over the tying run, when Wright punched a double to centre.

In their half of the same stanza the Giants stepped out in front with one run when they should have scored half a dozen. There was one out when Jackson walked and Slick Hartley singled. Fitzsimmons sent a swinging bunt to the infield and filled the bases.

Southworth tapped the ball to the infield and Grantham came tearing in to scoop it up and whip it to the plate. Jackson was too swift for him and beat the throw home for a run.

The bases were still jammed with only one out and the populace yelled for Frisch to uncork a clean-up. He hoisted a high foul to Traynor instead and Young could do no better for Morrison tossed him out at first.

Stuffy McInnis Steps Up.

That one run lead was too scant a margin for the Giants to hold. Grantham opened the seventh with a smash which was too hot for Terry to juggle and Gooch went out at first.

Then to the bat came Stuffy McInnis, the same Stuffy of Connie Mack's old $100,000 infield. The years have been good to Stuffy and he can still punish the ball. Stuffy crashed a single to left and Grantham raced home with the tying run. Bigbee ran for McInnis and Moore sacrificed.

POLICE AVERT JAM AT POLO GROUNDS

New York again poured out its baseball thousands as if for a world's series to witness the skirmishes between the Giants and the Pirates at the Polo Grounds, but yesterday the jamming and rushing which marred Saturday's festivities were absent. Instead, the police, profiting apparently by the unpreparedness of the day before, were prepared for the human assault on the turnstiles and the record throng that found its way into the huge stands was orderly. Little confusion resulted.

The gathering surpassed by about 3,000 the crowd of 55,000 that attended on Saturday, but the absence of the scramble on the outside was due, it was said by one police official, to the fact that there was not the same sort of turnout. On the first day of the doubleheaders it was estimated that 80,000 persons were turned away, and then it seemed that those 30,000 for whom there was no room all were trying to jam their way through the gates at once. Saturday's half-holiday, according to the police official, was responsible for the terrific rush approaching a stampede. He said that all the conveyances seemed to dump their loads of humanity in the vicinity of the Polo Grounds at about the same time, between 1:30 and 2 o'clock, which resulted in the crush.

Yesterday, however, everything worked smoothly. There were more than 300 policemen under command of Deputy Inspector Joseph A. Howard and Captains Edward P. Mulroney, Cornelius O'Leary and Martin Gill. At 10:30 the first detachment of 100 took their stations around the Polo Grounds. At that early hour, which was an hour before the gates opened, there were a few hundred persons in line, most of whom had been in line since about 9 o'clock.

The automobile played its part in transporting the gathering. Along the Speedway it was estimated that more than a thousand cars were parked on both sides. On the west side one passing autoist counted 861 cars in a space of one mile. For a half mile on the east side a total of 400 machines were counted. Vacant lots near by were also packed. Licenses from eight States were noted.

While everything was quiet outside, as much could not be said for conditions inside the Polo Grounds. There are only about 50,000 "seating" seats, and many of these were unoccupied, as the anxious fans would rather stand in the aisles and be nearer the home plate than to have a seat and be too far away.

In many places there were numerous complaints from the occupants of the reserved section over the encroachments of "aislanders." The seatless were packed four and five deep along the main pathways and in the small aisles were wedged so tightly that all progress ceased until the games were over.

W. Willis, who has been in charge of the press gate for more than twenty-five years, had a busy afternoon. He cared for the difference between 53,000 paying spectators and the 58,000 inside. Approximately 5,000 passed through his single turnstile.

The police, or those who were privileged to do duty inside, seemed to concentrate in the centrefield section. The two rows of non-seeing seats in that sector were occupied by them. The semiphore system served to keep them informed of progress at the front.

There was a flurry that looked like snow but it was only a Walker-for-Mayor placard shower. The shower was so heavy that it was necessary for the crowd to plow its way through the main runways. Many Walker buttons also were noticed. The placard read: "Vote for Senator James J. Walker, the man who gave us Sunday baseball."

Pickups and Putouts

The Giants won a ball game yesterday at the Polo Grounds but moved neither up nor down in the league standing. Even that is better than slipping back as they did Saturday.

They call him Lucky Johnny Rawlings. He has been an important figure in this series at second for the Pirates. Johnny came here in 1921 and became a World's Series star. It looks as if he might repeat.

Ross Young leaped out of his batting slump. He got two hits in the first game and four in the second. Other New York batsmen can do worse than follow his example.

The series has knocked all attendance figures to smithereens. And the attendance figures are not the only ones who have suffered.

Senator Jimmy Walker was due to be at the Polo Grounds to root for the Giants but he had a sore throat and had to save his voice.

It is a long time since a ball player on a rival club got the recention which went to Stuffy McInnis after his single tied the score for the Pirates in the second game.

It is one of the mysteries of the national game how a ball club can give two entirely different displays in one afternoon. The Giants looked like champions in the first game and yet in the second game the fire and aggressiveness of their attack was missing.

The Giants and Pirates will be at it again this afternoon. It may be Art Nehf against Ide in a left handed duel. Write your own ticket.

Genaro Loses the American Flyweight Crown To Labarba, High School Boy; Ertle Referees

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 23 (AP).—Fidel Labara, Los Angeles high school boy, won the American flyweight championship from Frankie Genaro here last night. Labarba won by waiting for Genaro to come in and by left-handing him for nine rounds, then carrying the scrap to the Easterner in the tenth. In the opening session the Los Angeles fighter spent much of his time backing away as Genaro played for an advantage. The Californin kept his left busy and earned the edge.

When Labarba sailed into his opponent with a hurricane attack in the tenth the spectators were brought to their feet cheering. As the gong sounded for the end of the round Harry Ertle, who refereed the Dempsey-Carpentier title match, lifted Labarba's hand without an instant's hesitation.

There was talk here today of a return match. Phil Bernstein, manager of Genaro, said he was willing and anxious to stay here until he has obtained a return engagement. "We promised Labarba a return scrap if we won," he explained, "and now I think we have a right to demand the same courtesy."

"George Blake did it for me," was Labarba's simple comment. "But for him I'd still be one of the ordinaries."

It was Blake who groomed the Los Angeles youngster for the Olympic flyweight title he won last year. Blake also once handled Genaro.

A few months ago young Labarba was cheer leader and President of his class in a Los Angeles high school. He graduated last February with high honors. The curly-haired youngster's boxing career extends over a period of five years, four of which were spent in the amateur ranks. As a lad of fourteen he opened his pugilistic career. A lightning left to the head stopped many of his opponents during his amateur days.

Labarba, early in 1924, won his way to the finals of the Olympic tryouts here. In Boston, a short time later, through a series of victories, he became a representative of the United States in the Paris Olympic games. In Paris he won the Olympic flyweight championship. A few months later he entered the professional ranks. Since his debut as a professional he has won 8 of 10 contests, not including last night's victory.

HARRIS'S HOME RUN WINS FOR SENATORS

Three Runs Scored Give Margin of Victory Over Tigers, 6-4—Ferguson Holds Losers.

DETROIT, Aug. 23 (AP).—Alex Ferguson, Boston and New York castoff, held Detroit to four hits and Washington won today's game, 6 to 4. A home run by Stanley Harris in the seventh, scoring Ferguson and Rice, gave the Senators the runs that were the margin of victory.

After holding the Tigers to two hits up to the ninth Ferguson faltered, allowing two hits and passing two men. Marberry, who relieved him, pitched one ball, Rigney driving it to Rice in deep right for the last putout of the game.

32,000 WITNESS SOX LOSE TO ATHLETICS

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP).—Home-run smashes by Al Simmons and Bing Miller, the latter with a man on base, enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to shut out the Chicago White Sox, 3 to 0, today, making it two straight from the locals. A crowd of 32,000, one of the largest of the season at Comiskey Park, saw the game.

Sam Gray, ace of the Athletics' pitching staff, was in fine form and held the White Sox to seven hits, four of which were made by Falk. Chicago had only two real chances to score, but Gray tightened up and broke up the rallies.

Ted Lyons also pitched good ball, the two four-baggers being the only heavy blows off him. Simmons's blow was his twenty-second homer of the year and landed in the left field bleachers. Miller's circuit clout also went into the left-field bleachers.

The White Sox were without the services of Manager Eddie Collins, who is in a hospital as a result of straining a ligament in his leg during yesterday's game. Collins will be unable to play for at least a week.

OUIMET SCORES LEG, ON THE GOLD MASHIE

SWEETSER'S TOTAL IS 300

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23.—Playing almost phenomenal golf, Francis Ouimet, former national amateur and open golf champion, this afternoon scored a leg on the gold mashie, a trophy offered by T. Suffern Tailer for the annual 72-hole medal play competition on his ocean links here.

Starting the day one stroke behind Jess Sweetser, who has been pacemaker in the tournament, Ouimet turned in cards of 74 and 70 for the day's play, finishing the 72 holes in 288, or twelve strokes under the 300 with which D. Clark Cockran won a leg on the trophy last year.

The totals for the whole competition were: Ouimet, 288; Cockran, 293; Sweetser, 300; Fred Wright, 303; Jesse Guilford, 303; Max Marston, 308; R. A. Jones Jr., 311; John Anderson, 311; Dexter Cummings, 316; Chris Dunphy, 318.

Ouimet in his last 18 holes of play performed in a brilliant fashion. His putting was the big feature. The most spectacular play of the afternoon was made on the eighth hole—the St. Andrew's hole as it is called. Ouimet made the hole in 3, which was the second time in the history of the course that this hole has been made in three shots.

Sweetser put up a stiff fight to maintain his lead, but he could not hold it, and his hopes of the first two days of taking away the gold mashie were shattered. He already had one victory, and needed only another to gain permanent possession. At the opening of the day it looked as though he might be successful, but Ouimet had not been playing long before it was evident that Sweetser had a hard fight before him.

Newport's First Sunday Tennis In 25 Years Causes Friction

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23 (AP).—Today's tennis matches were the first Sunday tournament matches played on the Casino courts in more than twenty-five years. Veteran critics who have followed the fortunes of Newport tennis for more than fifty years recalled today that the national championships were played on Sunday some twenty-five years ago when rain had halted play for three successive days. Agitation arose yesterday after the tournament officials had announced Sunday play, and it was not definitely determined that the matches would be held until the committee officially sanctioned the action of the tournament body. This morning a debate arose in which one member is understood to have threatened to resign if the matches were played. He was overruled, however, and action of the tournament officials was approved over his veto.

BARBADOS IS VICTOR IN CRICKET MATCH

The Barbados cricketers were altogether too strong for the Antigua eleven in the intercolonial match at New York Oval yesterday, when Antigua was defeated hands down by an innings and 69 runs. Barbados batted first and put together a total of 149. Of this, M. Allen contributed 54 by sterling cricket. B. Scott, S. Coppin and C. Griffith also added doubles. The Antigua team was dismissed for 36 in the first inning and for 33 in the second. W. Emanuel, who made 15, was the only one to make any defense against the deadly bowling of O. Griffith and S. Coppin.

MISS COLLETT WINS PAIRED WITH HAGEN

HAGEN HAS A CARD OF 71

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Miss Glenna Collett and Walter Hagen vanquished Macdonald Smith and Miss Maureen Orcutt in an exhibition match at the Westchester Biltmore Country Club here today by a margin of 10 points. One of the largest galleries ever to follow a foursome on the difficult west course saw four of the greatest of America's golfers play throughout eighteen holes for the benefit of the Westchester County Children's Association and St. Agnes's Hospital for Crippled Children of White Plains. It was estimated that more than 1,500 persons followed the players during the afternoon. The benefit was arranged by Mrs. Harry Noonan and Mrs. Myra Paterson, Chairman and Honorary Chairman, respectively, of the Westchester Biltmore Golf Committee.

Hagen played brilliant golf and was easily the star of the match, his score of 71 for the eighteen holes being four under par for the course. Macdonald Smith, however, played flashes of the kind of golf which won him the Western open championship on Saturday, but was handicapped by his long train ride and stepped off his train only two hours before the match began. His score was 76.

Miss Collett's 84 was largely due to her exceptional work with her driver, supported by accurate putting on the greens. The greens were Miss Orcutt's greatest trouble and contributed largely to her total of 86. Frequently her tee shots brought her to the green, but the following putt all too often stopped just a few inches from the cup, necessitating a costly extra stroke to sink it.

Hagen and Miss Collett won their victory on the first nine holes, finishing the first half with an 11-point margin over their opponents. Smith and Miss Orcutt outplayed them on the way in. With hardly a chance of victory the newly crowned Western champion and his young partner, who holds the women's Eastern title, played the best golf of the day and managed to pick up one of the points lost on the first nine holes.

Just before the start of the match Smith was presented with an immense bunch of American Beauty roses by the committee, for his victory at Youngstown.

RAYMOND GETS HOLE IN ONE.

William L. Raymond made the sixth hole, 182 yards, in one stroke on the South Orange Country Club's links yesterday. He was playing in a threesome with J. E. Van Horne and G. S. Tower when he scored his ace. The shot was made with a mashie and the ball rolled straight for the cup after striking fairly on the green.

Casino Bowl Won Outright by Johnston, Who Beats Norton

JOHNSTON CARRIES CASINO BOWL AWAY

ALSO SCORES IN DOUBLES

He and Griffin Conquer Casey and Norton in Fast Match by 6-2, 6-1, 5-7, 2-6, 6-1.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23.—William M. Johnston, a member of the American Davis Cup team and a former national champion, gained permanent possession of the Newport Casino silver trophy here this morning by defeating Brian I. C. Norton of St. Louis in the final of the ninth annual invitation tennis tournament, 6–3, 6–3, 6–3. Johnston made his 1925 Newport season complete in the afternoon when, with his partner Clarence J. Griffin, he won the Casino doubles final from Ray Casey of California and Norton, 6–2, 6–3, 7–5, 2–6, 6–1.

The trophy, emblematic of three victories in the singles final, has been in competition since 1915, with the exception of the two years of the war, and on it are engraved the names of R. Norris Williams, who won it in 1917, Ichaya Kumagae in 1916, William T. Tilden in 1919, Clarence J. Griffin in 1920, and Howard Kinsey in 1923, besides Johnston in 1922 and 1924. The presentation of the bowl, valued at $1,400, was made by Thomas Ridgeway of Philadelphia, Chairman of the Tennis Committee, on the championship court after the match.

Norton Wins First Two Games.

Johnston had little difficulty with Norton, although the former South African Davis Cup star started off in fiery fashion and took the first two games. Thereafter Johnston was supreme as he steadied, became the aggressor and dominated the situation. He played brilliantly at crucial points, when Norton was dangerous, but that was not often, and the battle remained one of long range. Johnston preferring to remain away from the net. Norton stayed away from the barrier after several ineffectual attempts to carry the attack to the net.

As the match wore on, Johnston had little to do but to let Norton beat himself, except when the Californian found it necessary to finish off a long rally for the point. In these instances he would score a placement and his superiority in that department of the game is evidenced by the earned points scored, Johnston having 30 to 18 for Norton. The margin there was as wide as in the error column, which shows 72 errors for Norton to 61 for Johnston. To end the match, Johnston uncorked two flaming service aces in the final game, the first two he had scored.

Casey and Norton Rally.

The progress of the championship doubles was peculiar. Johnston and Griffin were far superior in the first two sets—in fact they had everything to themselves. Then a shift suddenly came on the other side of the net. Casey and Norton roused from an apparent lethargy when Johnston and Griffin led in the third set 3–1. Casey, serving with his cannon-ball deliveries, won the game at love, and the pair took two more as Johnston and Griffin endeavored to recover. The set was lost and so was the next as the whirlwind attack of the younger pair progressed. The Californians could not steady themselves and the score stood two sets all to the amazement of the gallery.

Johnston and Griffin then brought about a quick recovery and after losing the first game of the final and deciding set they never returned to normal. Casey's power faded, Norton was unable to bear the brunt of the attack alone and the veteran pair won in a walk.

Review--THE WEEK IN SPORTS--Outlook

BASEBALL

The baseball series between the Giants and Pirates, which is just now monopolizing the attention of fans throughout the country, has shown the Pittsburgh club to have a decided advantage over its ancient rival. Three games out of four at this critical stage of the season is an illuminating revelation of the comparative strength of the two leading pennant contenders at the present moment. Pittsburgh has the edge and from now until the end of the season will have an easier task than the Giants.

The Pirates, besides having unusual mechanical and physical ability, are now keyed up to the pitch where they are fighting for every advantage in every game. They are possessed with the winning spirit. They have the will to win. While the Pirates' pitching staff has not been so much superior to other pitching staffs to give them the advantage they now hold, the club has remarkable speed and tremendous hitting power.

Since the addition of the veteran Fred Clarke to Manager McKechnie's board of strategy the Pirates have had more balance and poise and have faced their stiffest opposition with success.

This fact should bring more confidence to the Pirates. While in other years they have not been able to hold what appeared to be a safe lead in the flag race, this club seems to be differently constituted. It appears to have more stamina and persistence. It has won many uphill games, which is always the test of championship timber.

The Giants during this important Pittsburgh series have acted like a club which has been too deeply steeped in victory. There has always been that unconscious feeling of confidence among the New York players that they could defeat the Pirates because they have done so many times in the last few years.

This was the series for the Giants to show that latent power which they have always been able to call on in the past to carry them through critical tests. It was not there. The games of the next few weeks after this distressing experience with the Pirates will show whether the Giants are the fighting Giants of old.

It is improbable that the Pittsburgh club will crack at this stage of the pennant fight. Their victories over the Giants have lifted them with a confidence in themselves which will be difficult to break down. The Giants fought hard against the league leaders and yet they fell short of the mark.

For four years McGraw's players have been winning pennants. It has become an old story with them. It is only reasonable to suppose that their keen anticipation for victory, which they have kept sharpened for so many seasons, will eventually become dull.

BOXING

It is difficult to find an excuse for Jack Dempsey's actions. He is the ruling monarch of the ring, pugilism's most imposing physical figure. He has a position to uphold, championship to defend. Yet Dempsey cuts a sorry spectacle with his backing and filling, his announcements one day in one section of the country that he will fight Willis or Tunney or anybody any place, and his proclamations another day in another section of the country that he won't fight anybody any place.

This is not the Dempsey of old; the fearless, powerful ring fighter who rose from obscurity to fame and affluence; the young giant who hurdled every obstacle in his path to a championship and mowed down those who questioned his right to the throne when he reached the heights, in a manner which gained him wide popularity and friends to be counted by the thousands. Now Dempsey is losing his great popularity—if, indeed, he has not already lost it—and he is counting his friends and supporters individually instead of collectively.

There is one of two courses open to Dempsey. He wants to fight and will or he doesn't want to fight and won't. His definite acceptance of either course will be welcomed by a fight public, which has wearied of an endless wordy battle across the Continent. The public is entitled to know if Dempsey intends to fight again, if he will live up to the reputation he earned as one of the greatest fighters of all time and defend his title against Harry Willis, and if so, when and where.

MOTORBOATING

The days of the motorboat racing men on Long Island Sound are here and for the first time in many years a great speedboat carnival is to be staged on near-by waters. Manhasset Bay will be the scene of the marine extravaganza and "On to Port Washington" will be the slogan of the next few days. All sorts of motor-driven craft will turn their prows in the direction of this usually placid bay and by Thursday one of the biggest fleets ever assembled in this country will have gathered there.

The main event of the program will, of course, be the race for the Gold Cup, donated a score of years ago by the Columbia Yacht Club and won back last year by Baby Bootlegger. Besides this blue ribbon event, however, there will be a diversity of other contests on the long program, including the race for the recently instituted Dodge Memorial Trophy and hydroplane and aquaplane races.

It seems that the committee in charge of the Gold Cup Regatta, as the carnival is officially termed, has made a particularly fortunate choice of a location for the big series of races. The waters of Manhasset Bay are clean, also clear of floating obstructions and will be kept so. Another good point about the scene of conflict is that Port Washington is accessible by railroad and motor road for those who wish to see the races but who do not own houseboats or power yachts.

The race for the Gold Cup will be decided on Saturday in three thirty-mile heats and the Dodge Memorial on Sunday, but the carnival will really be started by the long-distance men, whose first events are the James Craig Trophy race and the contest of the Tri-State Yacht Club cruiser fleet, both of which are to be started at Philadelphia on Wednesday, finishing at Port Washington on the following day. On Thursday also the express cruiser championship will be decided on Long Island Sound with the finish at Manhasset, and on Friday the handicap cruiser championship, from Manhasset Bay to Stratford Shoal in Long Island Sound and return, will be decided.

The speed boat races are to be run over a course of a mile and a half straightaway, which of course means that the racing drivers will have a sharp turn to make every time they complete this distance. Practically all of the skilled speedboat drivers in the country will take part in the Gold Cup and Dodge Trophy races and all of their skill will probably be called into play during these contests.

There are three yacht clubs at Port Washington and the marine race course has been laid out so that it passes in front of all three clubhouses. The Manhasset Bay Yacht Club will be the headquarters of the Gold Cup Committee during the carnival and Commodore Howard M. Cowperthwait and his officers have done everything possible to supply the necessary equipment for handling the big racing series.

TENNIS

It had come to be generally agreed in tennis circles that a woman could not overcome the handicap of an ocean voyage and foreign playing and climatic conditions, and that therefore any international tennis match between women fell short of being a true sporting test. The results of the Wightman Cup play in 1923 and 1924 were pointed to as bearing out this contention, for in each instance the invading team lost by a one-sided score. Then the English women came over and beat our own fairly and squarely and under circumstances that, according to observers of women's tennis, ought to have completely shaken the nerves of the visitors and made their handicap all the greater. Now Miss McKane stands in the final round of our championship, by virtue of victory over Mrs. Jessup in love sets and triumphs over Miss Ryan and Mrs. Mallory, who defeated her decisively here in 1923. It was pointed out that England's victory in the international match was made possible because of her superiority in doubles. Our own players showed to even better advantage in the championship singles than they did in the cup competition. Three of the six seeded in the draw reached the semi-finals, while Miss McKane was the only one of the five members of the invading team to get that far. The doubles superiority of the English was not evident in the championship, for neither of their two teams got into the final round. Miss Goss and Mrs. Jessup, who failed to qualify as our second team for the international match, defeated Miss McKane and Miss Colyer last week, although the latter combination put to rout Miss Wills and Miss Brown with an exhibition that was acclaimed as the finest doubles played in the country. Apparently, so far as the women are concerned at least, there is not quite as much certainty about the outcome of tennis matches as students of form are wont to believe.

Had the Americans played as well in the international match as they did last week the Wightman Cup probably would not have gone to England again. Miss Goss lost to Mrs. Chambers on their first meeting, but in the all-comers defeated the English woman in two sets, while, as mentioned above, the invaders did not fare nearly so well in the doubles championship as they did in the cup matches. As a rule, visiting players have shown to better advantage in their succeeding matches than they have in the international series, but in this case the reverse has happened.

YACHTING

Although the New York Yacht Club cruise, which ended at Newport on Friday, began with a series of calms that got on the nerves of the yachtsmen who were trying to race, to say nothing of the Race Committee, the annual classic ended with four of the finest racing days of the season. The races for the Astor Cups on Thursday were sailed under almost ideal conditions with a fresh westerly wind blowing and the weather on Astor Cup day atoned to some extent for the dreary doldrums of the early days.

The cruise began to take satisfactory shape at Mattpoisett on Tuesday, when the Rear Commodore's Cups were raced for on the rolling waters of Buzzard's Bay. When the bay was darkened that morning with an oncoming southwester the spirits of the racing men took the upward trend. Many of them could hardly believe their eyes when they saw the breeze coming, but it was a real racing wind and only the beginning of a series of good days.

All things considered, it was a very interesting cruise, aside from the weary drifts of the first days and the fleet was a really remarkable one. Not in many a day have so many schooners sailed for the prizes on the club's annual cruise and the racing among the forty-footers and thirties was decidedly keen after the racing started. Only two of the fifty-footers, Spartan and Barbara, accompanied the cruise, but these two staged one of the closest races ever seen in the class, racing like a team over the whole 38-mile Astor Cup course.

Visiting such picturesque harbors as Great Salt Pond, Block Island; Vineyard Haven and Mattapoisett, to say nothing of Newport itself, is always of interest and from the standpoint of the marine painter the itinerary of the cruise could hardly have been improved upon. Things of beauty were on every hand, but, of course, the reflection of clouds and sails on mirror-like waters cannot be a joy forever to a race committee or to the racing men themselves.

TURF

While racing during the meeting at Saratoga Springs, which is now drawing to a close, has not averaged in quality with many other years, the sales of yearlings have stood out as quite the most important and significant thoroughbred event during the month at the Spa. Racing has suffered from a number of causes, the weather having been a considerable factor. There has been lack of numbers and dearth of quality in the three-year-old division. Injuries incidental to training and racing have removed from competition a number which had been depended upon to add lustre to the rich and historic stakes. There also has continued in evidence that lack of cooperation on the part of the horsemen which has been an unfortunate characteristic of the various meetings from the opening of the New York season. Numerous events have not been filled and it has been fortunate indeed for the card that there have been enough of the cheaper grade of two-year-olds named on various occasions to warrant splitting races to complete the programs. The spectacle of an overnight handicap with three entries and two starters is not encouraging in view of the fact that Saratoga stables are filled to overflowing.

The yearling sales have been a bright feature, indicating the sound state of the breeding industry and the great preponderance of the demand for first-class stock over the supply. Poor stuff commands no greater prices than ordinarily. It is evident that the great expansion of thoroughbred sport in the United States has created a situation which American breeders no longer are able to meet. Production in this country has fallen far below the level attained during the period when racing was enjoying its palmiest days. Amazing totals, averages and prices for individuals were recorded during the sales which closed last Friday night. While the total offerings were much less than in many other years, only 460 head having come under the hammer, the grand total of $1,761,450 was far in excess of any previous figures. The record total before this season was that of last year, $1,336,235. But it took 600 head to make up that amount. The average a year ago was $2,230, while this year it jumped to $3,830. The best previous average was $2,273 in 1921. The record number sold was in 1917, when 643 changed hands; but the average that year was only $1,030. It is evident that breeders have come to a realisation that it is useless to ship inferior stock to Saratoga Springs.

With the American supply limited it was inevitable that the efforts of the syndicate which brought over selected British yearlings would be successful. The forty head chosen by experts brought an average of $4,818 and the results were eminently satisfactory to the English sportsmen and their American associates. It is certain that the initial experiment will lead to a more extensive venture another year.

GOLF

Recent happenings in the world of professional golf tend to prove that the time is not far distant when it will be necessary to put new names into the songs of praise that have been sung in the past. The results in the metropolitan district qualifying test for the P. G. A. championship as well as in the Western open championship indicate that there is on the way to the top a group of youngsters who will soon push the present occupants from the high and lofty perches they have occupied for so lengthy a period.

The finish of the thirty-six hole test at Fox Hills found at least four youngsters in experience rather than years near the top. The nearest of these was W. L. Klein, assistant professional at the Garden City Country Club, who would have been the actual leader but for an unfortunate break that came at the most inauspicious moment. Others were Henry Ciuci, not yet twenty-one, assistant professional at Westchester Hills, and Dan Williams, now a full-fledged professional in charge of shop affairs at Shackamaxon. Out at Youngstown, Ohio, where one of the most brilliant fields ever gathered teed off for the Western title, the first-round leader was Larry Nabholtz, a youngster who first came to notice when he uprooted Gene Sarazen from his two-year hold on the P. G. A. title at French Lick last Fall. A failure in the metropolitan qualifying round, but one of the outstanding figures of the year just the same, is Joe Turnesa, the brilliant young assistant at the Fairview Country Club.

Most of these have already demonstrated their fitness for any title within the gift of golf. There are few golfers in the country who can be as brilliant at times as young Klein. He has performed some prodigious scoring feats that passed unnoticed because they didn't happen to come at times when the glare of the spotlight was on him. But twice this season he has done great deeds in great tourneys—deeds worthy of a Hagen, Barnes, Macfarlane or any one else. His 29 for the last nine holes at Shawnee was one of the best things of the year. That it was no fluke he proved at Fox Hills last week by coming home in 31 for a 66 total. The 67 that Nabholtz did at Youngstown was another great achievement and all the others—Turnesa, Williams, Ciuci, young Dan Cooper of Texas—have turned in feats almost as startling.

The heroes of old are still in command of the situation, but their tenure of office apparently has only a short time to run. A little more experience on the shoulders of these younger players and there'll be a new crop of champions to reckon with in tournaments of the future.

A great golf experiment will be tried at Oakmont one week hence when the amateur stars of the country gather for the national championship. Limiting the qualifiers to sixteen instead of thirty-two is bound to cause some wreckage. Who will survive and who will be lost is a problem that cannot be answered in advance. But if it should so happen that the losers offset the survivors in prominence there's bound to be something of an aftermath.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 23.—A close victory by Miss Virginia Wilson of the Zimnock S. S. of Brooklyn, in the National A. A. U. junior 100-yard free style swimming championship for women, and sterling performances by Miss Ethel McGary and Miss Karin Nilsson of the Women's Swimming Association in trials against time, were features of a water carnival over a 100-yard course, held at Pleasure Beach this afternoon.

Miss Wilson won the junior title race by a scant arm's length from Miss Marion Bloomer of the Board of Recreation of Bridgeport, while Miss Viola Smith of New Haven was third, beaten two yards for the place. Eight contenders reported for the event and two heats were required. Miss Wilson's time in the final was 1:12 2-5.

Miss McGary and Miss Nilsson were slated to attack the respective world's records for 1,000-yard free style and the 300-yard medley (breast, back, free style swims), but an off-shore breeze raised troublesome, choppy waters and precluded fast performances. This notwithstanding, the champion pair came close to international figures. Miss McGary returning 15:39 4-5 and Miss Nilsson 4:47 1-5. The long course records stand at 14:58 2-5 and 4:38 2-5.

A 100-yard back stroke swim was won by Miss Doris O'Mara of the Women's S. A., and pressed by her sister Eileen and Miss Elaine Delany, who gained the places as named. The race was competed for against a slight tide, which accounts for the slow time of 1:24 2-5. In other races tide favored the contestants.

John Anderson of the Capitol S. C. of Hartford, was a double winner in the events for men. He won an open A. A. U. 100-yard sprint in 0:58 2-5, closely followed by Ernest Drosdick of the Zimnoch S. S. Then he captured the 440-yard free style championship of Connecticut by a wide margin in 6:18.

Swimmers of the Milford Beach Y. L. S. S. finished with a 10-yard lead in a 200-yard relay race, but they were disqualified for going before their marks and the team of the Pleasure Beach Y. L. S. S. next to touch, was awarded victory in 1:51 2-5.

MISS WILLS FACES MISS M'KANE TODAY

ALSO TO PLAY IN DOUBLES

Will Pair With Miss Browne Against Mrs. Bundy and Miss Ryan on Forest Hills Court.

FINAL MATCHES TODAY.

Singles Championship—Miss Helen Wills, Berkeley, vs. Miss Kathleen McKane, England.

Doubles Championship—Miss Wills and Miss Mary K. Browne, Santa Monica, vs. Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, California.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

The ranking English player and the American title holder will meet in the final round of the women's national tennis championship this afternoon at 3:15 o'clock on the stadium courts of the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills. For the sixth time in three seasons, Miss Kathleen McKane and Miss Helen Wills will face each other in championship play. Three times they have met in the Wightman Cup matches, with the Berkeley girl the winner twice; Miss McKane defeated the other in the final at Wimbledon last year, and this afternoon they will face each other for the second time in the national championship. Miss Wills won the match in 1925, the year she captured the title for the first time.

Having scored two legs on the championship cup, Miss Wills will attempt to win the trophy outright this afternoon. She faces a far stiffer test than she did in 1923 in taking the crown from Mrs. Mallory, or last year in defending it. If the English girl plays the tennis this afternoon that she did in overcoming Miss Ryan and Mrs. Mallory, the champion will need to be at the peak of form to defeat her.

Miss Wills is the slight favorite but Miss McKane has almost as many backers. The manner in which she fought her way to victory over Miss Ryan and Mrs. Mallory after dropping the first set to each has shown that the invader is a fighter to the last ditch and most to be feared when she is trailing.

Miss Wills, too, has shown the same ability to rise to her greatest heights and stem the tide when near defeat. Both Miss Joan Fry of England and Miss Eleanor Goss took the first set from her in her last two matches and in each instance she played them to a standstill in the two following sets. Miss Wills's chances of victory today depend much upon her ability to break up the net attack of Miss McKane.

Miss Wills has not shown the inclination to seek the net this year that she did last season and seems to have lost some of her confidence overhead, but her work in the doubles match on Saturday showed that she is capable of brilliant work within the service court.

Following the doubles match an exhibition will be put on in which probably Karl Behr, former internationalist, and Dean Mathey will appear. Miss Wills, rested after her meeting with Miss McKane, will then go on the courts again with Miss Mary K. Browne against Miss Ryan and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy in the final of the doubles championship at 5 o'clock. In this match also the Berkeley girl will act in the role of a title defender, for last year she won the doubles crown with Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman of Boston.

With four California players on the court at the same time the tennis should be exciting enough. It has been close to fifteen years since Miss Ryan and Mrs. Bundy have played tournament tennis together, as Miss Ryan left the Coast for England. It would be a big feather in their cap if they should be able to win this afternoon.

WOLF TAKES TITLE IN JUNIOR TENNIS

BRIARCLIFF MANOR, N. Y., Aug. 23.—Harry Wolf of the Montclair A. C. added the metropolitan junior tennis championship to his list of titles won this season when he defeated Julius Seligson of De Witt Clinton High School in the final round of the tournament today on the courts of the Briarcliff Lodge Sports and Tennis Club. Seligson, a fifteen-year-old boy, made a game fight for the match and took the first set by a wide margin only to weaken before the power of his opponent's service and driving attack in five sets. The score was 3–6, 6–3, 6–1, 3–6, 6–4.

Edwin Mendell of New York was established the boys' metropolitan champion. In the concluding round he defeated Harold Blauer, 6–3, 1–6, 6–4. Blauer played in brilliant fashion in the second set, but weakened as his opponent speeded up his attack in the deciding chapter.

The girls' championship went to Miss Alice Francis of East Orange, N. J., holder of the girls' national title indoors. She defeated Miss Madeline Childress of Hartsdale without any great difficulty in the final at 6–3, 6–2.

Three other titles were won in doubles. Gregory Mangin and Lemoine Houser of Montclair captured the junior doubles crown by disposing of Wolf and Everitt Smith of Kew Gardens, L. I., 6–4, 3–6, 7–5. Half of the games in this match went to deuce, and the rallies were mostly drawn out.

The boys' dgubles crown went to Blauer and Harry Moore of White Plains. They won from Mendell and Edmund Bartlett Jr. of Lawrence, L. I., at 7–5, 12–10, after two closely fought sets. Miss Francis won a second title when, paired with Miss Charlotte Conlin, she defeated Miss Adair and Miss Madeline Childress, 6–2, 6–3, in the final of the girls' championship.

Wolf was at match point several times before he was finally able to put over the winning shot against Seligson in the junior championship. The De Witt Clinton youth handled the other's speeding ground strokes and his placements off Wolf's service were pretty to see. Seligson's backhand was perhaps his most effective shot.

BRESLIN CAPTURES SENIOR BIKE TITLE

Walter Breslin, junior cyclist of the Century Road Club Association, yesterday morning won the club's senior championship title and qualified as a participant in the Amateur Bicycle League of America national championships to be held at St. Louis, Sept. 5 and 6, when he showed the way in the annual C. R. C. A. title Class A races on the Harlem Speedway. Breslin, winning the quarter-mile and the half-mile sprint, and finishing second in the one-mile unpaced race, emerged triumphant with 9 points.

In the Class H championship G. Stoeckiln was the winner with 13 points, representing victories in the quarter-mile and half-mile events, and second in the three-mile unpaced race. J. Ames was second with 11 points, W. Gallagher third with 4, J. Mazzia fourth with 3 and E. Stoeckiln and F. Pagliamonti tied for fifth, each with 1 point.

INTERPRETING A MORAL OBLIGATION.

Memories of the great battle over the League of Nations in this country, and of certain acute fears engendered in the minds of opponents of the League are stirred by one phase of the Belgian settlement. In explanation of the generous treatment accorded to Belgium in the matter of her pre-armistice debt, Secretary MELLON has stated that the Administration recognizes a sense of moral obligation. WOODROW WILSON had joined with CLEMENCEAU and LLOYD GEORGE in agreeing to accept German reparation bonds from Belgium in settlement of her war loans. The actual agreement redeems this moral obligation only in part. We have canceled the interest on Belgium's pre-armistice debt, but the principal must be paid in good Belgian money instead of in German reparation bonds. And Brussels is obviously not discontented with the arrangement.

Now, if the American Government feels itself at liberty to interpret this particular moral obligation in a spirit of fairness to its own people as well as to Belgium, what becomes of these dread moral obligations which the Senate opposition discovered written all over the face of the Covenant? To the bitter-enders in the Senate, reservations, mild or severe, were equally dangerous. No reservations or provison could safeguard this country against the destruction of its independence and its sovereignty by the moral obligations we inevitably incurred. The pictured consequences were dire. The United States would be hopelessly entangled. The American Government would be at the beck and call of the European Governments acting through the League. Our army and navy would become the instrument of European ambitions and feuds. Our boys would be summoned to foreign battlefields in quarrels not of our making or of our concern. Such was the dreadful vision.

Supporters of the League battled in vain against the bugaboo. If they pointed out that America's veto in the Council of the League was a sufficient safeguard against the coercion of America by her associates, the answer was that higher than the written word is the moral obligation. In vain it was argued that moral obligation is essentially and ultimately a problem for the party of the first part; that only America could in the last resort decide how far her moral duty engaged her in any particular circumstance; and that it was puerile to think of the most powerful nation on earth coerced or browbeaten into acting against its own conscience and its own interests. The bitter-enders replied that this would mean only a repudiation of the nation's pledge and a stain on American honor. Better not go into the League than enter and then go back on our word, amid the wrath and taunts of our associates in the League.

The Belgian debt settlement exposes the shallowness of the argument. We have recognized a moral obligation to Belgium created by WOODROW WILSON, but we have retained the right to fix the limits of that obligation. As to what the European nations feel, we have shown in this whole matter of the war debts that we are not greatly concerned. A very considerable amount of resentment exists in Great Britain over our settlement in her case. French opinion makes no concealment of what it thinks of the morals in her own case. But the Administration has not allowed itself to be swayed by such sentiment in Europe, confining itself almost entirely to the question of ability to pay. So much for the fetters which the moral obligations of the League would impose on these helpless United States!

THE MAYOR'S WILD BLOWS.

Whoever may be the strategists inspiring Mayor HYLAN'S public utterances, it is a pity that they cannot agree with themselves two days running. Their first comment on Senator WALKER was that his platform showed him to be only a faint echo and humble imitator of Mr. HYLAN himself. As that did not appear to go well, the next line taken was that the Senator was nothing but "a tool of the traction interests." Thus his former sedulous aping of the Mayor suddenly ended! After that, it was a natural and easy transition to the Mayor's charge on Saturday that his dearest foe, "JERRY" DAHL, of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit was financing the primary campaign of Senator WALKER.

Such wild and whirling words the Mayor has long been accustomed to apply to all and sundry who opposed him or disagreed with him. But he and his backers do not appear to realize that there is a great difference between the old fulminations from the City Hall, at which the people laughed and which they then speedily forgot, and the more carefully scrutinized sayings of a candidate for office. These ought at least to have some approach to consistency, instead of seeming merely like sporadic assaults upon everybody that happens to fall under the Mayor's eye. Moreover his guides, counselors and friends ought to see to it that the Mayor does not wound himself with the weapons that he is so eager to thrust at an opponent. His going out of his way to attack Governor SMITH'S plan for the abolition of grade crossings, already ranks as a monumental blunder. It at once brought him open repudiation by Democratic leaders in Brooklyn. Everybody could see that the Mayor did not know what he was talking about.

Another grotesque mistake of his was his reference to Governor SMITH as an "outsider" proposing to go to Brooklyn to tell people whom to vote for as Mayor. If there is any community in this State in which "AL" SMITH is thought of as an outsider, it would be hard to name it. Before this week is over he will show that he is very much at home in Brooklyn. One result of his steadfast advocacy of humane measures of legislation at Albany is seen in the action of two Brooklyn women, high officials in the Democratic organization, who have cast over Mayor HYLAN largely on the ground that he is antagonizing Governor SMITH. Probably the discretion which Mayor HYLAN and his advisers have so tactfully exhibited will next be displayed in asserting that Governor SMITH is also a tool of the interests and an enemy of the people.

This is the exalted and sagacious leadership of Mayor HYLAN which Mr. HEARST telegraphs from California that he is ready to follow even into the imminent deadly breach of a bolt and an independent ticket.

JERSEY AT SWAMPSCOTT.

Of all the supplicants at White Court the Jersey chorus is dearest to our hearts. Mr. COOLIDGE is solicited, every day and everywhere, by Republican altruists seeking to transfer to themselves something of his compelling and acknowledged magic. In no case can it be easier for him to refuse them in that of this strange triumvirate from the Jerseys. It is composed of Senator EDGE, Mr. STOKES and Mr. ARTHUR WHITNEY, the Mendham altruist and poet, whose enthusiasm was translated into $42,000 of primary expenses as his matriculation fees to qualify as the Republican candidate for Governor. The affection that swells the bosoms of Mr. STOKES and Senator EDGE is "an honor" to human nature. Won't Mr. COOLIDGE come into New Jersey and help them, or rather help Mr. WHITNEY? The tide of tears that will submerge Mr. EDGE and Mr. STOKES when Mr. WHITNEY "has got his" can only remind the imaginative of ancient watery disasters.

Mr. WHITNEY is the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League candidate for Governor. His Democratic opponent is an unblushing Wet, such as the Jersey folks, Republican and Democratic, are base enough to prefer. Mr. JOHN MCCUTCHEON, Vice Chairman of the New Jersey Republican State Committee, has sought to dissipate the halo that illumines Mr. WHITNEY'S head. If the righteous choose to consider Mr. WHITNEY theirs, that is their harmless useful little hallucination. Mr. WHITNEY has "consistently voted on the Wet side." Why the League "endorsed" him is a mystery, "unless it was a choice of the lesser of two evils." Mr. WHITNEY, then, is a Dry-Wet, a Wet-Dry. Mr. EDGE, feeling all the time the pressure of the illustrious beaten FALKINGHAYSEN, looking for his blood, must yearn, with all his passionate nature, for a Mendhamian triumph. The amiable little racial and religious controversies, happily disposed of by the defeat of Mr. EDGE'S candidate for Senator, former Attorney General MCCRAN of Passaic, have easily slunk into the world of "old, forgotten, far-off things."

For the New Jersey Republicans everything is sweet. They love one another. They are making a fair and square contest. If Mr. COOLIDGE merely follows the precedent that he has set and his own ripe sense of political self-preservation, he has reasons beyond that for not becoming a surety of New Jersey Republicanism—if there is such a thing; if there are not two or three factions in the congregation of the faithful. Representative ISAAC BACHARACH and the other Republican Congressmen from over the Hudson are filled with wonder, love and awe as they contemplate the Coolidge program of economy and tax reduction. Anybody who has the happiness of living—or existing—in the Jerseys knows how far these national policies have been locally carried out. Taxes can't be reduced as much and as fast in Washington as they are jacked up by the local patriots of New Jersey. Where are the "Coolidge Republicans" in the Jersey Town Councils?

FOR THE SOCIAL HISTORIAN.

That there are sermons in stones and books in the running brooks has long been an article of literary faith, but only now do we realize the truth of the statement that the archaeologist of a far-off tomorrow will seek his treasures in the advertisements of today. While MACAULAY'S New Zealander is sketching the ruins of St. Paul's, some scholar of that day will be reading the saga of our prehistoric customs, clothes, implements and playthings, as faithfully depicted in some excavated mail-order catalogue. No record could be more complete. It was ANATOLE FRANCE who said that advertisements are the historian's best materials. The mail-order catalogue, the pages of which portray everything from a lipstick to a lighthouse, unrolls before us as luminously as a film on the screen our development of the past fifty years.

The head of one of the largest mail-order houses recently stated that the first free catalogue of his firm, issued in 1874, was 3 by 5 inches and had eight pages. "Style changes," he said, "from the hoopskirt and bustle of the '70s to the knee-length skirt of today are shown in the historical collection of our catalogues. Development of the electrical age, the telephone, electric light, phonograph, player-piano and radio; progress of locomotion from the high-wheeled bicycle to the automobile; the safety razor and the farm tractor, all are shown in pictures and detailed descriptions." With the modest volume of 1874 contrast the behemoth of bookmaking which is now a perennial source of wonder to half the population of the country. A current edition, which boasts 9,000,000 readers, has more than 1,100 pages and lists for sale 35,000 articles of merchandise, if barns, garages and steam rollers come within the confines of that definition. Size and circulation are the least extraordinary features of this remarkable volume. Its compilers seem to have searched the heart of man and woman and to have anticipated every human material want. Small wonder is it that in hundreds of hinterland families the mail-order catalogue serves as school and library.

In the mail-order catalogue the wearer of a wishing cap may find the answer to his most cherished longings, plus complete specifications and cost. For those who do not wish to accumulate at the moment additional raiment, motor cars, windmills or speed launches, but seek only general information or knowledge of the arts and sciences, the catalogue stands ready to deliver. From page 1,099 of the volume referred to, in a section restricted to agriculture and homemaking, note the following:

> What is the best way to mix the feeds for your Holsteins, Herefords, Duroc-Jerseys, Percherons, grade Shropshires, White Leghorns, Scotch Collies or Guinea Hens? How should you sow Alfalfa, Melilotus Alba, Soy Beans, Cow Peas, Lespedeza, Sudan, Milo Maize, Feterita, Kudzu, Kentucky Wonder Beans or a hundred other crops? What are the best fertilizers under your conditions for Cotton, Corn, Wheat, Oats, Potatoes, Yams, Peanuts, Mushrooms or whatever you are trying to grow? What is an Intermediate Credit Bank? Where do you register a Boulonnaise Colt? Where can you sell Duck Feathers? Who is Canada's Minister of Agriculture? Where do Income Tax blanks come from? Or, isn't the Baby doing so well on its present diet? How do you bake a Butterscotch Meringue Pie? How shall you alter the pattern of your Ensemble costume? How can you make new drapes for the Living Room windows? Who is head of the Children's Bureau? What percentage of Farm girls go to College? Is Kohlrabi Salad or Dessert? We will find the answer to your question. What is it you want to know? Write in any language. We read them all.

Building and furnishing a house are justly regarded as one of life's major problems. Harassing months of conflict are spent with architect and contractor and unceasing war waged with painters, plumbers and decorators. Enter the fairy catalogue with 100 designs to suit as many purses. Make your choice, select your furniture and fittings, mention the site, list the whole on a blank supplied for the purpose and entrust it to the mails. In due time, with no further thought on your part, you will find your new home waiting for you, complete in every detail of plumbing, lighting and heating fixtures, hangings, furniture, china and kitchen implements. As proof that this is not merely a gesture of legerdemain on a grand scale, we are told that 32,000 homes have been thus acquired by mail.

FRANCIS BACON turned philosophy from barren speculation to the material advancement of mankind. His aim was not to exercise the power of the mind in the attempt to solve obscure abstractions, but "to assuage suffering, to multiply the conveniences of life, to extend the empire of man over the material world." In no single volume, perhaps, are the results of BACON'S inductive methods more comprehensively and strikingly illustrated than in a 1925 mail-order catalogue. Here, indeed, is the "fruit" which was the goal of his philosophy.

A WORD FROM HINDENBURG.

The forthcoming issue of Nation's Business will contain a brief message from President HINDENBURG to American business men. As taciturn as was MOLTKE, especially on questions having to do with foreign affairs, the old Field Marshal could not be got to talk about himself or his policies. But he did write and sign a brief statement expressing his gratification that American men of affairs are taking such a deep interest in the industrial and financial conditions of Germany today. President HINDENBURG firmly believes that the work of recovery and stabilization which has been going on within Germany and throughout Europe will be broadened and strengthened as the years pass by. For himself, he is determined to devote all his energy and official influence toward the restoration of a durable peace.

Very likely President HINDENBURG had in mind the recent visit of American and English bankers to Berlin. It was pretty well understood at the time that they were looking into the possibilities of placing capital at the disposal of various industrial enterprises in Germany. The German need of capital is confessed. The great question is of security and of the form of participation in control which may be offered to foreign investors. One of the best guarantees which they could have would be the steady purpose of the German Government and people to avoid every kind of international friction and to carry out the Dawes plan religiously. To these ends President HINDENBURG has pledged himself publicly on more than one occasion.

Thus far, at least, his course in office has done a great deal to dissipate the fears which the outside world felt when he was first elected President. The old soldier has apparently transferred his strict ideas of military duty to the service of the republic, which he has taken an oath to support and preserve. And this word of his through Nation's Business is but one more sign of his determination to lead the German people into thoughts not of a restored monarchy or of military glory, but of hard and faithful work to assure a return of prosperity and to solidify the peace of Europe.

MAKING IT PERMANENT.

It is now proposed to make the Institute of Politics at Williamstown a permanent institution for the discussion of world politics. The success of the pioneering experiment which has been made during the last five Summers has been such as to justify an effort to assure its continuance without term; for whatever improvement may be made in the political relations of mankind, there is no Ultima Thule on whose shore political scientists from all the nations can sit down around a peaceful round-table in complete agreement and say "There is nothing beyond." Or if there is such a conceivable state—of mind rather than of political definition or of geographical location—lying like some Atlantis or other Utopia somewhere beyond the horizon of the present, it must be so far away in the longitude of time as to be inaccessible to all the living.

Yet, though the best world is far away, the better world comes into the view of many through such discussions as have been carried on under the direction of the most competent of leaders and widely reported by the press. Toward that better world we move, as President GARFIELD intimates, only through public opinion, which has become "the hope of the world." There is unquestioned need of just such centres where in an atmosphere of good-will and scholarly interest men of many nationalities can confer over problems that are coming to be increasingly of concern to all in this shrunken world. There should be such places in other parts of this country and in other countries. But first of all steps should be taken to give permanence to this parent institute in America.

For the conduct of sustained research the universities are better situated and equipped, or should be; but for the Summer meetings for discussion and incident study, Williamstown is an ideal place. The proposed Walter Hines Page School of International Relations at Johns Hopkins University, in Baltimore, for which $1,000,000 is sought and to which Mr. BERNARD BARUCH, whose generous initial gifts made possible the experiment at Williamstown, has lately given $250,000, should supplement each the other: the Baltimore institution being a place for research and the training of specialists and teachers in the field of international relations and the Williamstown Institute bringing together men and women from various walks of life to take part as citizens in the consideration of these matters to which the specialists bring the results of their studies. Both types of institution are needed. It is hoped that funds for both will be secured. The Williamstown Institute has not only justified its own existence. It has shown the way for the other.

VAIN REGRETS ABOUT CHINA.

It may not be fair to judge the article of Dr. FREDERICK LYNCH of New York by the extracts from it printed in the dispatch from Stockholm yesterday. One can sympathize with some of his statements about the unfortunate clashing of foreign interests in China, but it is impossible to follow him when he says: "The saddest day for China was when our Western civilization touched her. She would have been infinitely better off if Europe and America had never got near her." Similar ideas, we know, have often been expressed, though they relate usually to regret that Chinese art and social customs and picturesque culture should not have been left undisturbed, in order that the modern world might contemplate them admiringly from a distance. But the whole thing is really a dream, impossible of realization, even if realization were to be desired, which, on the whole, is highly doubtful.

It is evident, in sober fact, that China could not have been kept out of touch with Western science. Incidental evils have undoubtedly accompanied the introduction into China of modern ideas, but who will question that they have, by and large, done a world of good? What we have to think of as not alone mechanical inventions, new facilities of travel, conveniences of life which the China of a hundred years ago knew nothing about, but of the knowledge of today and the scientific conceptions which in their application have been a boon to uncounted millions in China. Modern medicine and surgery alone, by their diminution of suffering and their increase of the expectancy and enjoyment of life, might bear the weight of the whole argument in favor of what Western civilization has been able to give to China.

In any case, we know that the process is now irreversible. The most eager youth of China herself are turning their eyes with more and more longing to the light which they see in the Occident. We Occidentals cannot deny it to them, nor can we surrender our own belief in the value of what the Western mind has been able to contribute to civilization. We are convinced of the blessings which it has wrought at home, and are bound to believe that in time it will come to be regarded as a benefit by all those in distant lands to which it is carried.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

An Avoidable Evil Too Familiar.

When that observing and notably accurate woman, REBECCA WEST, was over in this country, one of her few adverse criticisms of the way things are managed and run in the United States had for subject what seemed to her to be the carelessness with which our railway trains, both steam and electric, are started and stopped.

She thought the jerkings and yankings which so annoyed her were common or universal here, and as a matter of fact they are not. The startings of many of our trains on many of our railways are so gentle as hardly to be perceptible to the traveler. But MISS WEST would have been entirely justified if she had written that far too often some of our locomotive engineers start and stop their trains in a manner that deserves and frequently gets condemnation from the traveling public.

Only the other day this charge had by implication authoritative confirmation from President WILLARD of the Baltimore & Ohio road, who used to be a locomotive engineer himself and therefore knows what can be done with engines. He also knows what should be done with them, for he issued an official and Presidential request to the engineers serving his company that they exercise care in this part of their work.

There is a double need for a reform in this matter. The passengers have a right to demand it, while every railway company, in the interests of economy and the protection of rolling stock, which rough stops and starts seriously and unnecessarily injure, should insist upon it.

While the shopmen's strike was at its worst there were whispers that at least a part of the bad startings and stoppings were of the nature of sympathetic sabotage, done to affect public opinion and to injure company property. The accusation never was proved, however, and it cannot be true now.

Reform Has Proved Expensive.

Not without justification, there has been an insistent demand in Mexico, as in Russia, for a breaking up of the great landed estates. This distribution of land has been carried far by the Soviet Government, as everybody knows, and it has progressed some distance under the present Government of Mexico and its immediate predecessors. In both cases, however, it has been discovered that, fine as it is to talk about small land holdings, each cultivated by an independent head of a family, in practice it is far from ideal.

Not a few of the great Russian estates, which grew great crops of grain and other things under the skilled management of men with large capital, are producing, under peasant ownership, next to nothing, and few of them more than enough to feed the occupants. They cannot buy machinery, which anyway is not adapted for efficient and economic use on small holdings, and they lack the requisite number of domestic animals for cultivating the land and keeping it in condition.

The Mexicans now are having the same experience and are proposing a change back, not exactly to the old conditions, but at least to the establishment of farms far larger than could be entrusted to a single peon. Whether the reversion can be made without a return to what was little if anything less than slavery for the agricultural laborers is a question which the Mexicans will have some difficulty in answering.

Anthracite Called a Luxury.

Lest the New Englanders should fall into panic over the prospect of another great coal strike, efforts are making to convince them that if they only will try, they can get along quite comfortably without hard coal, for which, they are told, there are several substitutes, including soft coal and oil.

That is true, and true also is it that in many parts of the country, especially in the West, anthracite is almost unknown and bituminous coal serves domestic as well as industrial demands. All that, however, does not quite warrant the assertion that "anthracite is a fetish," though it may be, from the technical point of view, a luxury rather than a necessary.

Between a luxury to which great numbers of people long have been accustomed, however, and a necessary the distinction is not large. Soft coal, for such furnaces as are in practically all Eastern houses, is a most troublesome and obnoxious form of fuel. It requires frequent and a new form of firing, and unless burned with more skill than most Eastern householders have, it fills their rooms with offensive and dangerous fumes.

Gas and electricity are ideal means for heating houses, but they are expensive, as yet—practically prohibitive in cost. Some day they may be cheaper, and then nobody with a house to heat will bother about either hard or soft coal. Meanwhile, anthracite remains the best of the available fuels, and the thought of its becoming unavailable, even for a single Winter, is alarming enough.

Few Clothes Mean Few Trunks.

Among the reasons given for the waning profits of the baggage transfer companies in this city is the recent large reduction in the amount of clothing worn by women. The result of this, according to report, is that the ladies do not take trunks around the country in anything like the former number, but do much of their traveling with only a suitcase or two.

This is stated as a fact, not as an accusation, and, to whatever extent it is true, it does illustrate the close relations that exist between fashions and more forms of business than would come to mind at first thought. For long the manufacturers of cloth have joined the self-appointed and highly imaginative conservators of morals in complaining bitterly about the few yards of cloth used in making a dress for the modern woman. The makers of silk stockings, however, wear broad grins all the time, and, for some unknown reason, the builders of women's shoes have been able to raise prices as fast as the amount of leather in them was cut down toward the vanishing point.

PRAISES INSTITUTE REPORTS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I cannot let the institute close without saying a word concerning the invaluable service of THE TIMES in its attention to the daily developments here.

I think, without doubt, that your service is second to none in reaching the larger group who, after all, are the molders of opinion.

We certainly here have found the comprehensive news reports and fair handling of controversial topics, as well as the scope of editorial comment, of greatest assistance in our day-to-day developments, and I am sure that the larger audience which you reach will have the best possible information about the institute which any one can have without coming here.

Nutrition for Channel Swimmers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Apropos of the recent failure of Gertrude Ederle in attempting to swim the English Channel, please allow me to say that if some of the so-called "trainers" of athletes who specialise in endurance contests would get into touch with scientific men who are up in the latest developments of the science of nutrition, they would learn much to their advantage.

Assuming that the water of the Channel was 60 degrees Fahrenheit, the swimmer must have been losing heat very rapidly, and the materials out of which heat is made must be there to make it. Beef tea can't do it.

It seems reasonable to assume that if during the trial Gertrude had received regularly proper nourishment, she might have won, as there is every reason to believe from the printed descriptions of the termination of the trial that rapid and unrenewed loss of heat was the largest factor in the failure.

COME IN, ROSANNE!

Come in, Rosanne! I have such news for you!
The greatest happiness has come to me;
So wonderful I can't believe it true!
I didn't dream such happiness could be.
It's only right you should be first to know
And wish me joy! Of course, my dear! A man!
Don't stand there in the sun—it grills one so!
Come in, Rosanne!

He's been so lovely ever since we met,
So chivalrous, you know, not just polite;
So careful of me every way; and yet
I dared not hope he loved me. Then, last night,
He told me so. Oh, Rose, what poetry!
You can't guess who it is? Of course you can!
You introduced us at the Traynors' tea.
Come in, Rosanne!

Dick Norton? Why, of course! Who else? . . . My dear!
What is the matter? You're as pale as death!
The heat! That's what it is! You'll faint, I fear!
The day's so close! Just simply not a breath!
You never should have stood there in the sun.
Melissa! Quick! Some water and a fan!
There is no porch as cool as this! Not one!

BUSINESS MAN FOR MAYOR.

A Democrat Says He Will Put This Principle First of All.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial in today's issue, "Campaign Whimsies," is admirable, and is to a certain extent to the point. It does not, however, go far enough.

All intelligent, unprejudiced persons realize that today, more than ever, present political methods as carried on all over the world are the curse of our so-called civilization.

Specifically, what I mean is that practically all politicians serve their own ends first. The nation, the State or the municipality they serve is with them, generally speaking, entirely an after consideration.

Those we need to direct our public affairs are practical, level-headed business men who have no personal axes to grind and who will be as faithful to their public duties as they are in the conduct of their own personal affairs.

We have in this country entirely too many "professional politicians," who make fortunes in and through the offices they occupy; too many lawyers, physicians, &c. We need practical, honest men, not theorists.

In the coming city election this should not be lost sight of, and every one should vote, irrespective of his politics, for the best man that can fill the job. This is the only method by which we can attain the object we all have in view—a good, honest, efficient administration of our State and city affairs.

As a Democrat I shall vote for Walker—he is apparently the only possible Democratic candidate—if I can be made to see by his record, which will gradually unfold itself, that he is as good a man for the office as Waterman. If not, I shall vote for the latter.

As for Hylan, he is out of the question. I believe his re-election could not be looked upon save as a dire calamity and a disgrace to our imperial city. The masses of our people are tired of Hylan and politicians.

From recent personal inquiries I have reason to believe that a very much larger number of New York City voters will do as I intend doing.

PROF. FISHER ON DEFLATION.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A fellow-economist has written me deploring some aspects of your editorial "Coal and Gold," of Aug. 18, and I am impelled to voice his sentiments and my own in this statement of regret that you should lend your approval to Mr. Churchill's cheap ridicule of those who, like Professor J. Maynard Keynes and Sir Josiah Stamp, connect the coal strike and gold resumption.

The truth is that Mr. Churchill utterly misrepresented the views of Mr. Keynes and others, as politicians so often do. Whether or not, on the whole, the resumption of the gold standard in England was advisable, there can be no doubt that the deflation which that resumption required did produce and intensify trade depression, unemployment and labor unrest. So far as I know, deflation invariably produces this result, and there is abundant statistical evidence to prove it, including my own three years' study, the results of which are published in the June number of The Journal of the American Statistical Association. If those who listen to Mr. Churchill had the slightest knowledge of this cause of unemployment they would not have accepted so easily his misleading statements and he would not have dared to utter them.

There is no need to discuss Mr. Keynes's proposal for a "managed currency." It would not be applicable in the United States, and in England it is a lost cause. But its aim was the very opposite of what Mr. Churchill represented it as having. The aim was not to inflate or deflate, but to prevent both inflation and deflation.

A former Chancellor of the Exchequer, Reginald McKenna, now President of the largest bank in the world, unlike his successor, Mr. Churchill, recognized these aims of stabilization and deplored both the deflation which during the last four years has cost England so much unemployment and labor unrest and the inflation which preceded it.

Unused Commutation Tickets.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Before the commuters' fare dispute is settled, would it not be well to find out how much per mile the commuter is paying? There is no record that I know of showing the number of rides used on the fifty or sixty trip tickets sold at bargain rates by the railroads. In four years of steady commuting I have never used up a ticket book, and usually have at least twelve rides left out of a sixty-trip ticket.

Commuters ought to send their unused stubs every month to a central association for compiling purposes. The railroads keep no records of the numbers punched out.

The correspondent who stated that the New Haven was the road "by and of New England" justified the commuting rate rise thereby. The New Haven was built to carry a continuous stream of the heaviest kind of traffic between New York and Boston. Using a four-track electrified line with the rail and ballast of the New Haven for commuters is like using the Berengaria for a ferry.

The New Haven would have its heavy main line laid through the New York suburbs if it were a sand desert without a single commuter; any commuting business that it gets is so much gravy, providing it pays for the coal, cars and crew needed to carry the passengers. How can a commuter from Stamford be required to pay the charges on the inordinately expensive Boston terminal? Why should he be charged with interest on bonds that were issued for the most foolish sort of indiscriminate buying of Connecticut trolley lines and Sound boat lines?

If your correspondent could hear the shrieks of the carriers over the loss of their short-haul freight to the motor vehicle, he might revise his estimates of comparative rail and motor permile costs. The two largest makers of motor buses can help him out a lot with those figures.

Disavows Lloyd George Leadership.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Yesterday at the Welsh eisteddfod Mr. Lloyd George was again on his knees begging America not to abandon Europe. Will you permit me to say that Mr. Lloyd George does not speak for me? I beg America to remain at home and look after her own affairs. What we require is moral courage, and America cannot give it to us, even if she had it to spare.

In time, I hope, we shall discover leaders who will enable England to do for Europe what she did a hundred years ago. At present, in regard to leaders, we are having rather a thin time. With apologies for troubling you,

LEGION CONVENTION PLANS COMPLETED

City Has Appropriated $20,000 and Will Broadcast Proceedings From WNYC.

HYLAN TO GIVE A DINNER

Delegates Will Meet Sept. 10 in the 71st Regiment Armory—Parade on Opening Day.

Elaborate preparations for the State convention of the American Legion in New York City on Sept. 10, 11 and 12 have been completed, according to a statement yesterday by State Commander Samuel E. Aronowitz.

City and State authorities have offered every possible cooperation, said Commander Aronowitz. The city has appropriated $20,000 for the expenses of the convention and will broadcast the proceedings from Station WNYC. The city will also provide bands for the convention parade and will turn over two ferryboats to take visiting Legionnaires to West Point after the convention.

In return for these services the American Legion will arrange a luncheon for Mayor Hylan and the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at the Hotel Pennsylvania the day before the convention. On the same evening Mayor Hylan will entertain at dinner at the Waldorf all the Legion officials and distinguished guests of the convention.

The convention will be held in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, the opening session being scheduled for 10 A. M. on Sept. 10. Sessions will be held morning and afternoon during the three days of the convention except Friday afternoon, Sept. 10, when a parade will be held on Fifth Avenue. It is expected by those planning the arrangements that the parade will be the largest that has been held since the troops returned from overseas. The parade is expected to take six hours to pass the reviewing stand at the Public Library, Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street.

Governor Smith has ordered all National Guard units of the metropolitan district to turn out for the parade. The Governor will be the reviewing officer. The parade will start at Washington Square and will proceed north to Fifty-ninth Street, where the divisions will be dismissed. Major Gen. Charles W. Berry, commanding the New York National Guard, will be the Grand Marshal. His staff will consist of the headquarters of the Twenty-seventh Division.

Federal troops and National Guard outfits will constitute the escort for the 25,000 members of the American Legion who are expected in New York City for the convention. Participating in the parade also will be delegations from the British Great War Veterans, the French War Veterans and the Belgian War Veterans. The Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans, together with other patriotic and fraternal organizations, have also been invited to parade.

Following the parade there will be a band concert on the Mall in Central Park, in which the visiting bands will participate. The judges will be Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, Carl Edouarde, Lieutenant Francis Sutherland, bandmaster of the 107th Infantry, and Paul Whiteman.

PROTESTS HONORING LEGION

Civil Liberties Union Hits Participation in Education Week.

The American Civil Liberties Union, in a letter sent yesterday to Commissioner John T. Tigert, head of the Federal Bureau of Education, objected to the inclusion of the American Legion as a participant in the National Education Week arranged by the Federal Bureau of Education.

The Civil Liberties Union called the proposed participation of the American Legion "an offense against broad educational principles."

"This objection," the letter said, "is not an objection to instruction in patriotism as such, but it is a protest against a compliment to the American Legion, which we believe to be unmerited. The American Legion is distinctly a partisan organization and not in any sense an educational organization. If its record in the past had been one of vision in educational matters instead of one of arrogant intolerance we should feel otherwise than we do about the prominence which the Bureau of Education has seen fit to accord it."

TO RADIO FROM PLANE AGAIN

The broadcasting from an airplane flying over New York on Saturday was so successful that it will be repeated over Atlantic City today between 5 and 6 o'clock, again to call attention to the American Legion $1,000,000 Endowment Fund campaign, it was announced last night. Maxine Brown will sing while flying in a Sigorsky plane at 5,000 feet, and her program will be picked up and rebroadcast from WPG, Atlantic City, and WIP, Philadelphia.

The Legion plans to repeat the experiment over the principal cities of the East. Colonel H. R. Hartney will pilot the Sikorsky plane to Atlantic City today.

POLES PREFER PALESTINE.

5,724 Emigrated There in 1924, While 4,290 Came to United States.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 23 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Palestine occupies first place in Polish emigration, while the United States is third, according to figures published by the International Labor Office of the League of Nations.

According to the preliminary statistics just published by the Polish Emigration Office the total number of Polish emigrants in 1924 was 48,647, including 23,513 overseas emigrants and 26,180 Continental emigrants. The particulars relating to the former are based on information supplied by shipping companies and those relating to Continental emigrants on the returns of the State employment exchanges and emigration inspectors. The following shows the particulars of Polish oversea emigration the past year: Palestine, 5,724; Argentina, 5,500; United States, 4,290; Brazil, 2,513; Canada, 2,271; Cuba and Mexico, 1,973; other oversea countries, 150.

The statistics deal with two principal classes of Continental emigrants, those leaving their country individually and those in groups. The latter, according to the official figures, are much more numerous, emigration in groups last year being 16,807, and individual emigration 9,329.

PRINCE ATTENDS RACES.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 23 (AP).—The famous Hippodrome Argentino at Palermo, a suburb of Buenos Aires, was the scene this afternoon of a race meeting organized in honor of the Prince of Wales. Most of the races were named after famous British courses, such as Ascot. A vast crowd faced about as the Prince and President d'Alvear entered the royal box and sent up a roar of cheers.

Some amusement was caused when a number of young women appealed to the Prince to present them with his bunch of violets and he smilingly acceded to their pleadings. He tossed the violets singly among the girls, and they replied by throwing flowers to the Prince, who eventually retired with his hat full.

OLD MATSELL PLACE SOLD.

Family of Late Chief of New York Police Owned Iowa Estate 72 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Aug. 23.—After being in the hands of George W. Matsell and his heirs for nearly three-quarters of a century, the 5,000-acre tract of land at Viola, this county, has finally been disposed of by Augustus B. Matsell, son of the former Chief of Police of New York City. It is considered likely that the property will be divided into small farms and resold.

The "Matsell place," as the estate is known, is one of the most famous in Iowa. It is situated on the Wapsipinicon River, some twenty miles from this city, and is wild and rugged. There is a mansion of twenty-five rooms which George W. Matsell started in 1856 and completed in 1862, built to accommodate his guests, many of whom are said to have come from far-away New York.

Other buildings on the estate include a theatre, a road-house, where drinks were served in the early days, and a large boathouse. Beneath the mansion was a wine cellar which is said to have been stocked with the finest of imported wines during the lifetime of the original owner.

Mr. Matsell was Chief of Police in New York under Mayor W. F. Havemeyer from 1845 to 1857, being instrumental in quelling the Astor Place riots. In 1853 he came to Iowa on a visit and purchased the estate. He made it his home when he retired from office.

In 1872 Mr. Havemeyer was again elected Mayor and he recalled Mr. Matsell to head the Police Department. The estate was operated by hired help while Mr. Matsell held office, but when he retired he returned to Iowa and lived on his estate until his death in 1877.

Mrs. Matsell and her two sons conducted the place until her death in 1897. The daughter, Susan, died in 1915 and the son, George, in 1916, leaving only Augustus. In late years it lived as a recluse and no strangers were ever permitted to enter the home.

CRITICIZES ALUMNI RULE.

Rhode Island Head Calls It Menace to College Athletics.

KINGSTON, R. I., Aug. 23 (AP).—Alumni rule of college athletics, when it results in professionalism and the desire to win at any cost, leads to "an admiring exaltation of clever fraud as the true philosophy of life among the student body," President Howard Edwards of Rhode Island State College declared in his thirty-seventh report to the Board of Managers, made public today.

"There is among the alumni of many colleges an insistent demand for winning teams," Dr. Edwards writes, "and it would seem that to some the whole sum and substance of college athletics lies in the winning of intercollegiate games. Everywhere, an immense amount of time, much thought and large sums of money are expended on the athletic side of college life.

"If the value of it all consists merely in winning games, in advertising the college, in furnishing the sport of Gladiatorial show for public delectation, in providing alumni with a basis for boastful gloating over a rival and in return therefor enlisting their financial support for the college in general, and especially for the enlargement of athletic facilities, then it is undeniable that the time, thought and money expended are enormously disproportionate, that distinctly antisocial evils are fostered and encouraged at that should be the fountain head of social virtue and morality for the coming generation, and that college life itself is in danger of becoming rather a menace than a bulwark of society and citizenship."

ANSWERS VATICAN ORGAN.

Fascist Official Says Religion in Politics Will Be Combatted.

MILAN, Aug. 23 (AP).—Roberto Farinacci, Secretary-General of the Fascist Party, speaking today before an assembly of Fascisti on the controversy which has arisen with the Osservatore Romano, the official organ of the Vatican, on the question of Fascismi and religion, declared:

"The Fascisti are jealous of the sentimental patrimony of the Italian people, having defended the interests of the Church. Religion is above all parties and all the clergy must be non-political as also must be the organization of Catholic youth."

He sent the Fascist greeting to the Pope, asserting that Fascism had defended and restored the value of religion in Italy. He insisted that Fascist violence was really a force in defense of the nation, and added: "As Fascism has defended religion, so will it combat bitterly, without the exclusion of blows, those adopting religion as their political instrument."

THINK SHIP MET 'FOUL PLAY.'

Underwriters to Investigate Sinking of the Lakeland in the Great Lakes.

Special to The New York Times.

STURGEON BAY, Wis., Aug. 23.—Believing that "foul play" caused the steamer Lakeland to sink in 196 feet of water, six miles off this port, last November, the National Association of Insurance Underwriters of New York has employed a salvage corporation to investigate the mystery with the aid of several new deep-sea devices.

The Lakeland, with 50 automobiles aboard, went down in calm weather. But it was not this fact that caused the insurance companies to order the investigation. It was the reports of fishermen, who said the boat ran in circles before taking the final plunge. The underwriters are contesting payment of $350,000 insurance.

PRINCE HENRY AGAIN REPORTED ENGAGED

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Rumors of the engagement of Prince Henry, third son of the King, to Lady Mary Scott, fourth daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, is revived again, but there is absolutely no official confirmation.

The illustrated weeklies have been running Lady Mary's portrait, and The Sunday Times points out that she, with the Duke and Duchess, are going to Balmoral in a few days as the guests of the King and Queen while Prince Henry is also there.

The Buccleuchs are one of the oldest families in Scotland, going back to the thirteenth century. The Duke has also the title of Duke of Queensberry, that title having come to one of his ancestors at the beginning of the nineteenth century through the death of the notorious "Old Q." of the regency period, unmarried.

If the rumors turn out to be correct, the engagement will be very popular.

HINDENBURG ENJOYS STRENUOUS VACATION

DIETRAMSHELL, Bavaria, Aug. 23 (AP).—The political opponents of President von Hindenburg who predicted physical collapse for the seventy-eight-year-old warrior when he began his campaign for the Presidency would probably find much difficulty in keeping up with the vigorous routine he is following on his Summer outing.

President von Hindenburg rises at 7:30 and works steadily with his mail and official matters until noon, and then has a hearty dinner with the von Schlicher family, whose guest he is. After dinner, dressed in a gray-green walking suit, he starts bareheaded for a three or four hour walk through the forest with his son, or Franz Reiter, an aged forester whose company he is exceedingly fond of.

Occasionally von Hindenburg takes a two-day hunting trip to Lenggries, twenty miles distant, where he shoots chamois. The Field Marshal did not bring his own dogs from Berlin, but uses Bavarian bloodhounds and is highly pleased with their work.

The President first came to Dietramshell in 1922, when he made the acquaintance of Rubert von Schlicher and became his guest. He was here a year later, and in the meantime Herr von Schlicher died, so that von Hindenburg is now the guest of Frau von Schlicher, whose son of 20 and daughter of 18, together with Major von Hindenburg and Herr von Kügelgen, son and son-in-law respectively of the President, make up a group which dines daily together and shares the simple family life in this quiet village, many miles from a railway.

The castle in Dietramshell is part of an old monastery and shelters a convent of the order of sisters founded by St. Francis de Sales, in which the Belgian Queen was educated.

LABOR MEETING TOMORROW.

Many Topics Scheduled for State Federation's Convention.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 23 (AP).—Discussion of employment in all lines of labor activity throughout the State, of federation-sponsored legislation which met with failure at the last session of the State Legislature, and resolutions fostering new law-making are likely to be the more important features of the sixty-second annual convention of the New York State Federation of Labor, which will open here Tuesday morning.

Six hundred delegates are expected to assemble for the first session, which will be addressed by Governor Alfred E. Smith, State Industrial Commissioner James A. Hamilton, Matthew Woll, Vice President of the American Federation of Labor; Major George L. Berry, President of the Pressmen's International Union; Luis A. Wilson, Director of the State Bureau of Industrial Education, and Samuel E. Aronowitz, State Commander of the American Legion.

A service to commemorate the memory of Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor and former President of the New York Federation, will be conducted at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

IN MEMORY OF DR. TIKHON.

Ecumenical Conference Holds Service for Russian Patriarch.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 23 (AP).—The orthodox section of the Ecumenical Conference held a memorial service tonight in honor of the Most Rev. Dr. Tikhon, Metropolitan of Moscow and former Patriarch of All Russia, whose death occurred last April soon after his release from a Russian prison.

The Crown Prince and Crown Princess, the Diplomatic Corps and members of theh Government attended the service. All the higher prelates of other countries took part in the procession, the orthodox priests in full robes carrying candles.

The service, which followed the imposing Greek ritual, was presided over by the 80-year-old Patriarch of Alexandria, Photios. The Archbishop of Dublin spoke of the great tribulation of the Russian Church, saying that Tikhon was the symbol for all the suffering brethren of the East.

"It is easy for us," he said, "very difficult for them, to be Christians."

OWES RENT, DRINKS POISON.

Suicide Said to Have Been Worried Also Over Illness.

Just returned from a trip to the country, Harry Gomprecht, 40 years old, reported to have been a lawyer, committed suicide last night in his furnished room at 119 West Ninety-fifth Street by drinking lysol. Ill health and money difficulties are thought to have been the cause.

Charles Redmond, from whom Gomprecht had rented a room during the last few months, detected the odor of lysol and traced it to Gomprecht's room. Asked if he had been using it, Gomprecht replied, "No." Redmond, however, summoned an ambulance from Knickerbocker Hospital. Dr. J. C. Keeney was unable to save the man.

A brother, Martin Gomprecht, of 675 Riverside Drive, could not be reached last night. According to the police, the lysol victim was behind in his room rent. Mr. Redmond declared Gomprecht had kept to himself and little was known about him.

BEATEN BY A CROWD.

The wrath of more than two score men was being vented upon a young man, describing himself as Samuel Nadler, 17 years old, of 49 Cannon Street, who was arrested, charged with burglary last night in front of 46 Allen Street, when Detective Frank Labategnia of the Clinton Street Police Station rescued him from a crowd which had beaten him.

On the way to the police station the patrolman and his prisoner were followed by a threatening crowd, kept at a distance by the detective's revolver.

Miss Hilda Rose, 18 years old, of 282 Audubon Avenue fainted while waiting for a northbound Broadway subway train at the 157th Street station last night and fell to the tracks while a train was approaching some distance away. Men jumped down and lifted her to the platform, and after being attended by an ambulance surgeon she went home.

J. H. VENDIG DIES; ILL ONLY FEW HOURS

SAW BOUT NIGHT BEFORE

Lately Had Been in Taxicab and Real Estate Business—He Was 64 Years Old.

Joseph H. Vendig, known for years on the New York race tracks in the days when open betting flourished as "Circular Joe" Vendig, died suddenly yesterday morning of acute indigestion at his home on Atlantic Avenue, Sea Gate, Coney Island. News of his death came as a shock to his many friends, for on Saturday night he had appeared to be in excellent health.

With State Senator James J. Walker, Louis Fischer of the Shelburne Hotel and Samuel Gompers, President of the Coney Island Board of Trade, he attended the boxing bouts Saturday evening at the Coney Island Stadium. Later the party had supper and then Mr. Vendig retired, showing no signs of ill health.

Mr. Vendig was born in this city sixty-four years ago. He is survived by his widow, a son, Grover Vendig, and a brother, proprietor of Vendig's Hotel in Philadelphia. Funeral services will be held at the residence at Sea Gate at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

In the years that followed the enactment of laws against bookmaking Mr. Vendig had lessened his connections with horse racing, although he remained to the end of his life a close follower of the thoroughbred. At the height of his activities he was one of the largest operators in the betting ring. He always objected to being called a bookmaker, preferring the title "layer of odds." When described as a "bookmaker" by an Assistant District Attorney in the course of a Grand Jury hearing he emphatically insisted the term was erroneous and that "layer of odds" was the proper one.

Before he became known as a bookmaker "Joe" Vendig had for years been active as betting commissioner, receiving large sums to wager from the heavy speculators of those days. Phil Dwyer was one of his chief clients in this field. The Fair Play Club, named after the famous Belmont horse, an organization of race track men, chiefly former bookmakers and betting commissioners, was established by Mr. Vendig. Every year the club gives a clambake to leading followers of the turf. It is usually one of the chief social events of the racing season.

Mr. Vendig had many interests outside the race track, most of them proving profitable to him. He was one of the promoters of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize fight in 1897, was among the first to back motion pictures of prize fights and boxing bouts. He handled many election bets for Tammany speculators, owned a lobster business, was interested in three taxicab companies and was appointed Deputy Sheriff by Sheriff Harburger. In late years he had operated successfully in Coney Island and Brighton Beach real estate. In the recent "booms" in those sections he was credited with adding considerably to his fortune.

REV. F. B. BRIDGEMAN, MISSIONARY, DIES

Took an Active Part in South African Affairs in His Twenty-eight Years There.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 23 (AP).—Rev. Frederick B. Bridgeman, D. D., who played an important part in South African affairs during his twenty-eight years of missionary effort there, died here today following an operation for appendicitis performed last Tuesday.

Dr. Bridgeman had worked under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions (Congregational) at Umsumbe, Duban and Johannesburg, all in the Union of South Africa.

His particular field had been social service among the Johannesburg mine workers. He converted the mine owners to belief in the importance of motion pictures as entertainment for the natives tending to keep them from mischief and crime. Some 180,000 of the natives now attend schools which use the pictures as an aid in teaching. The Johannesburg Chamber of Mines appropriates $30,000 annually for this purpose.

Dr. Bridgeman also took an active part in organizing the joint council of blacks and whites, which acts unofficially as adviser to the Government in Natal.

Dr. Bridgeman was born in Infumi, Natal, the son of the Rev. Henry Martyn Bridgeman, who was a missionary in that country for thirty-six years. The Rev. Howard Bridgeman, former editor of The Congregationalist, was his brother; a sister, Mrs. Annie B. Cowles, is on her way for a fourth term of missionary work in Natal and a niece, Miss Ruth Cowles, has sailed to do social work in Johannesburg.

Dr. Bridgeman was graduated from Oberlin College in 1893 and from Chicago Theological Seminary in 1897. Oberlin made him a Doctor of Divinity in 1916. His wife and a son, Brainard, survive him.

Dr. Bridgeman was spending part of a year's furlough at Bath, Me., when he suddenly became ill. He was rushed to Portland, but failed to respond to the operation.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at the Auburndale (Mass.) Congregational Church.

KILLED BY LIVE RAIL.

Workman Dies Instantly Under a Car, Another Shocked.

When his right temple came in contact with a live rail carrying 550 volts in the power house of the Third Avenue Railway Company at 218th Street and Broadway, Michael Burke, 20 years old, of 1,837 Second Avenue, a motor oiler, was instantly killed early yesterday morning.

Burke and Adam Nelson, a mechanic, had crawled under a trawler cable to make repairs on a broken contact shoe. The power had been turned off, but Nelson happened to place his hand on a channel rail and received a shock. He shouted a warning to Burke that the power had been turned on and trawled to safety. Burke, however, bumped into the live rail with his head and fell dead.

FOUND DEAD IN HER HOTEL.

Mrs. Russell Reputed to Be Member of Rich Family Up-State.

The body of Mrs. May Irene Russell, 30 years old, was found in bed in her room at the Hotel Lenox, 151 West Forty-fourth Street, yesterday morning by an employe of the hotel. She died, apparently, while sleeping.

At the hotel it was said that Mrs. Russell came there two days ago and was registering from Middletown, N. Y. A child who accompanied her was later given into the custody of relatives. It was said that Mrs. Russell lived upon an allowance from her relatives, who were wealthy.

PROPOSES MEMORIAL BY NATION TO BRYAN

Philadelphia Record Starts Movement to Recognize His Services to the Country.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Philadelphia Record will take the initiative tomorrow in forming a committee to finance and erect a national memorial to William Jennings Bryan. The paper solicits the support of citizens and newspapers throughout the nation and names as the prospective Chairman of the committee Josephus Daniels, publisher of The Raleigh News and Observer, Secretary of the Navy in President Wilson's Cabinet and a firm friend of the Great Commoner. The Record says:

"Mr. Bryan will be remembered, without any formal reminder of his achievements, for his influence upon the lives of his fellow-citizens; for his long, ardent and untiring defense of the rights of the common people against the encroachments of privilege; for his vigorous promulgation of the social precept finally embodied in the Eighteenth Amendment; for his earnest advocacy of peace and for his militant stand, at the climax of a life fraught with critical moments, in behalf of Christianity as he interpreted it against what he conceived to be the attacks of science.

"These things will be recalled, we say, long after his errors have been forgotten. The beneficent influence of the man, his earnestness of purpose, his efinacrious sway over some millions of his fellow-citizens, are some facts that must be recognized even by those who do not agree with his political or social theories or entertain his religious convictions. He was a great American.

"The Record has observed reports from Tennessee of a movement to found there, as a memorial to Mr. Bryan, a college dedicated to opposing the theories of evolution.

"Such a movement, unless it is intended to be merely of local character, would be an egregious mistake.

"Unquestionably the memorial of Mr. Bryan to his countrymen should be recognized by the erection of a national memorial—not to Bryan the Fundamentalist, to Bryan the prohibitionist or to Bryan the Democrat, but to Bryan the fearless crusader, to Bryan the statesman. It should be an all-embracing expression of the sentiment of the country, to the financing and erection of which all Americans big enough to recognise strength of character, exceptional ability and dogged persistence in obeying the dictates of conscience, whether they be political friends or foes, may contribute."

FALL KILLS BOSTON MAN.

W. C. Blackett Misses Footing on Train at Chicago Suburb.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—William C. Blackett, a wealthy business executive of Boston, was instantly killed today when he missed his footing and fell beneath the wheels of a rapidly moving train of the Chicago & North Shore Electric Railway at Wilmette.

Mr. Blackett, who was a guest at the Drake Hotel here, was on his way to the home of Neil M. Clark in Kenilworth when he was killed. The body was removed to an Evanston undertaker's establishment, and the authorities are trying to communicate with Mr. Blackett's widow and three children in Massachusetts.

"Mr. Blackett was not familiar with the electric line stations and he doubtless became confused," said Mr. Neil, who was his classmate at Harvard. "I had told him I would meet him at the Linden Avenue station and drive him to my home. He must have realised he had passed this station and tried to get off the train and make his way back on foot."

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 23.—William Cameron Blackett was Vice President of the A. C. Badger Metal Products Company, Vice President of the Badger Fire Extinguisher Company, and Vice President and Treasurer of the Tarbell Company. He was interested in the publication of the Open Road, a magazine for young people. He had lived for three years on Woodlawn Avenue, Wellesley Hills. A wife and three children survive him.

Born in Boston, March 20, 1880, Mr. Blackett received his education at the Somerville Latin School and at Harvard University from which he graduated in 1913. He was captain of the freshman lacrosse team and captain of the university lacrosse team for his last three years. He belonged to the Speakers Club, Alpha Phi Sigma and the Harvard Musical Society. During the war Mr. Blackett served with the 301st Infantry.

CHARGES PATRONAGE IN SMALLPOX SCARE

ALLEGES POLITICAL FAVORS

Dr. Monaghan Replies That All Shifts in Health Department Comply With Civil Service Laws.

In a statement issued yesterday, Nelson S. Spencer, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Civil Service Reform Association, asserted that a campaign against smallpox now being carried on by Health Commissioner Frank J. Monaghan involved a system of political patronage. Mr. Spencer charged that an investigation had disclosed that cries of emergency had been made by the Health Department in order to maintain easy positions for personal and political favorites.

The statement follows, in part:

"The Civil Service Reform Association, as one of a number of organizations interested in fraternal, social welfare, educational and other objects, has recently received from the Commissioner of Health a circular letter asking its support for an intensive campaign against smallpox. It seems fitting to point out in this connection the method which the Commissioner has followed in selecting his employes for such a purpose since 1920, which has received the condemnation of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. We venture to point out that his campaign would be much more successfully conducted if it did not involve a system of political patronage.

"In 1920 the Health Department, of which Senator Copeland was then the head, procured the right to appoint over two hundred persons without competitive examination for so-called emergency work for the alleged purpose of stamping out smallpox and other threatened epidemics of black plague, cholera and like diseases. The emergency, however, has never ceased to be such from that time to the present, and it seemed then to the Civil Service Reform Association quite plain that the employments were not intended to be emergency employments but permanent ones. The sequence of facts apparently justifies this opinion. An investigation of the sequent appointments indicates that the cry of emergency has been kept up by the Health Department to maintain easy berths for a number of personal or political favorites. The association appealed to the courts in an effort to terminate the emergency employments and to put them upon a permanent basis, with the result that the Appellate Division of the First Department, in an opinion rendered last March, said that the employments under the emergency clause of the rules of the Municipal Civil Service Commission were illegal and not warranted by the facts. The Civil Service Commission thereupon held up the payrolls of the employes concerned.

"Thereupon the Health Department sought and apparently found a way to circumvent the result of the decision of the Appellate Division. The number of laboratory helpers was increased from twenty-five to fifty and twenty-one statistical and compiling clerks immediately became laboratory helpers. Other statistical and compiling clerks were continued in their employment under the title of special inspectors. Laboratory helpers are classified as noncompetitive and the clerks who so suddenly became such were secured in their positions. For the position of special inspector the Civil Service Commission certified an excellent list of lay sanitary inspectors, but the department refused to use it, saying that it was inappropriate, in spite of the fact, as we are informed, that the Secretary of the Health Department had agreed to appoint from a list of such certified employes as the commission might send it. Pending the holding of a new examination for the office of special inspector, these employes have been continued as temporary appointees, and the Civil Service Commission has meekly continued to certify the payrolls under the provision of the rules which permits departments to employ their own help pending the holding of a new examination."

When asked to comment on the statement last night at his Summer home in Brentwood, L. I., Commissioner Monaghan said:

"The answer to this statement is that everything has been done in accordance with the Civil Service law. And I would like to add that our campaign against smallpox has resulted already in the vaccination of over 100,000 persons and that as soon as the vacationists return to the city we shall vaccinate probably many more than that number."

TEACHERS STILL HOPEFUL.

Pay Rise May Yet Come This Year, Spokesman Asserts.

Public school teachers of New York City have not become discouraged by the statement of Arthur S. Somers, Chairman of the Budget Committee of the Board of Education, that there is not sufficient time for increases in salaries to be included in the school budget. William R. Lasher, Chairman of the Joint Salary Committee of Teachers' Organizations, announced yesterday.

At the budget hearing of the Board of Education on Aug. 17, Mr. Somers intimated that increases might be included in a supplementary report made by the Board of Education to the Board of Estimate. This, according to Mr. Lasher, has given the teachers reason for belief that something may be done by the city this year in granting the increases sought by the teachers.

In a statement issued yesterday Mr. Lasher reaffirmed the position taken by the Joint Salary Committee. "It should be understood," he said, "that the Joint Salary Committee now is contending that the general standard for teachers' salaries established by the Ricca bill should not be reduced. The reasons for this stand are that the schedules which the committee originally formed have been so materially reduced that any further cut in them as a whole would defeat the purpose of salary revision."

COLD CUTS CONEY CROWD.

Only 100,000 Go Bathing—Plans for Mardi Gras Progress.

Yesterday's cool weather sharply reduced the number of Sunday visitors at Coney Island. Not more than 100,000 persons, the police estimated, went into the surf, whereas twice that number were on the beach a week previously. The total number of visitors was about 500,000, against 800,000 on the Sunday before.

It was an uneventful day for the police, who had only twelve lost children to look after. On the Sunday before they had been burdened with 152. There were no accidents and the crowd was orderly.

Plans were progressing yesterday for the twenty-third annual Mardi Gras, which will be held at Coney Island be-

SNOW NOT BACK AT POST.

Police Commission Counsel Says It Had Power to Oust Chief.

Karl W. Kirchwey, attorney, of 150 Broadway, and counsel to the Port Washington (L. I.) Police Commission, objected yesterday to an article appearing in THE TIMES of Aug. 12 in which it was said that Chief of Police Frederick J. Snow of that town, who was requested some time ago by the commission to resign, would resume his old post at headquarters on Aug. 15.

Mr. Kirchwey asserted that Chief Snow has not resumed his old post and that there was no prospect of his ever doing so. He said further that Chief Snow's resignation actually took effect on May 15, the day it was tendered and accepted; that an opinion by County Attorney H. Stewart McKnight had been wrongly interpreted as meaning that Snow was protected by the legislative act providing for a county police force, and that there is no clause in that act specifying that on or after April 8, the day on which it took effect, any act of the Port Washington Police Commissioners was null and void.

A relative of Chief Snow said yesterday that since Aug. 15, when his vacation expired, the Chief has been reporting daily to county Police Headquarters at Mineola for duty. County Attorney McKnight in a letter sent recently to the Port Washington Police Commission said: "In my opinion, concurred in by the Attorney General, all special police districts have been merged and consolidated by the County Police act in the county police district. The property, liability and personnel of the county police district, and the commission, by the act, was legislated out of office on the day the act took effect. The Town Board has no power to consider any budget or levy for special police department purposes within the territory covered by the Nassau police district."

CHAPMAN A PRISON POET.

Condemned Bandit Also Reviews Books Sent to Him at Wethersfield.

Special to The New York Times.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 23.—The visit of Judge Frederick J. Grochl, to the cell of Gerald Chapman, his client, at the Wethersfield State Prison, yesterday, where the latter awaits hanging on Dec. 31, unless the Connecticut Supreme Court orders a new trial, for shooting Policeman James Skelley of New Britain, revealed something of the prisoner's daily life.

Chapman has received a number of good books from Colonel Norris G. Osborn, President of the State Prison Board and editor of The New Haven Journal Courier, and has written Colonel Osborn several letters reviewing these books and explaining which portions gave him the greatest pleasure and why.

Chapman has written several bits of verse, which Colonel Osborn said today were "very fine indeed."

When Chapman heard yesterday for the first time that his former pal, George ("Dutch") Anderson was being sought as the murderer of Ben Hance and his wife in Indiana, he declared Anderson was incapable of "such a rotten deal" to the farming folk to whom both Chapman and Anderson owed a debt of gratitude.

Montreal Police Send Fingerprints of Prisoner to Indiana.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—Under suspicion that the might be George ("Dutch") Anderson, the bandit wanted in Muncie, Ind., for murder, a man was arrested on Friday night by Chief of Police Mouquin of Drummondville, about 100 miles from here.

The prisoner was brought to the offices of Chief Dan D. Lorraine of the Provincial Police here, on Saturday noon, where he was photographed and finger-printed. The photographs and the finger prints were sent to the authorities in Indiana.

The prisoner declared he was not the man in question and that he had done nothing to be wanted by the police of any place.

Missing Girl, 17, Is Sought.

Officials of the Missing Persons Bureau and Joseph Di Filletti, of 2273 Eighty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, are searching for Filletti's seventeen-year-old daughter Anna, who has been missing since Friday. The father reported the disappearance to the bureau yesterday. He said Anna had left as usual for work with an embroidery concern on Ninth Street and Second Avenue, Manhattan, on Friday, but had not reported for work.

SUGGESTS AIRPLANE TO FIGHT MOSQUITOS

BIG PEST CROP IN JERSEY

Extermination Body There Forms Plan to Kill Them Off Completely Within Four Years.

The suggestion that the mosquito pests in the city had their breeding places in the suburbs which could be swept by planes was made yesterday, when C. G. Peterson of the Wright Aeronautical Corporation of Paterson, N. J., reported successful experiments with planes in Louisiana.

"I have noted," he said, "several editorials and news articles in the last few days in the New York papers on the recent increase of mosquitos in New York City and the whole metropolitan area. In this morning's mail we have received a letter from one of our field service engineers who is now in the South on cotton boll-weevil dusting with airplanes.

"He writes that he has been in touch with Dr. W. V. King of the United States Department of Agriculture experimental station at Tallulah, La., where they have been doing considerable experimental work on fighting mosquitos from airplanes. The general method is to fly over the swamps and breeding places, distributing a cloud of dust from the plane which is poisonous to mosquitos but harmless to humans and animals."

The mosquito supply in Northern New Jersey fluctuates with the same regularity as the stock market, and is measured and tabulated like any other crop. Chief John Flynn of the County Mosquito Extermination Commission said yesterday at Pompton Lakes, N. J., that the "peak load" is now here and that this is proving a banner year for the pests.

For the last three years there has been a marked decrease in the supply because of continued heavy rains, but this year the peak has been reached and the oil gangs which have the duty of spraying the mosquito breeding swamps have been driven back by the swarms of insects. A plan has been formed for their eventual extermination, and it is hoped that within three or four years mosquitos will be found only in museums.

ASKS ANNUAL NATIONAL FAIR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP).—A National Fair and Exposition to be held annually in Washington to exploit American art, industry, science, beauty and progress, has been suggested by the League of American Inventors.

Miss Anna Lorbeerbaug, of the League Staff, outlined the proposal as contemplating a program crowded with pageants, jubilees, contests and exhibitions.

There would be art exhibits, manufacturers' exhibits and poultry exhibits, foot races and horse races, grand balls, band concerts and beauty parades for men as well as women.

To carry out the idea the League proposes to organize the National Pageant and Exposition Association.

"It will change the popular conception that we are a race of people interested only in the material things of life," said a league announcement.

AUTO VICTIM DIES BY GAS.

Was Hurt a Month Ago, but Was Apparently Normal, Family Says.

Herbert Freeman, 62 years old, was found dead in the bathroom of his home at 1,510 Clove Road, West Brighton, S. I., yesterday by members of his family when they returned from church. Two gas jets were turned on and the door and window were closed and locked, according to the police. Patrolman Thomas Malone, Sidney Bloom, a fireman, and Ambulance Surgeon Luke of the Staten Island Hospital worked over the man for almost an hour, but without success.

Members of the family said that about a month ago Freeman had been hit by an automobile and badly injured about the head. He was discharged from St. Vincent's Hospital, Staten Island, about a week ago as cured, and since that time, the family said, he had been acting normal. He is survived by a wife and five children.

MUSEUM ACQUIRES FAMED ART OBJECTS

BACHE LOANS A REMBRANDT

E. C. MOORE GIVES $10,000

Donation Will Be Used to Buy Modern Decorative Art—Two Mosaic Panels Now on View.

Important acquisitions to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, obtained by gift and purchase, are announced in the August bulletin of the Museum. These include two engravings made north of the Alps before 1501, donated by Felix M. Warburg; a portrait of Maria Taylor Byrd, by Charles Bridges; a newly discovered Rembrandt, loaned by Jules S. Bache; $10,000 from Edward C. Moore for the purchase of examples of modern European and American decorative art; two panels of mosaics, and other items.

"These engravings," says the Bulletin of Mr. Warburg's gifts, "are, respectively, Schongauer's 'Virgin in the Courtyard,' certainly one of the most famous and undoubtedly one of the most charming of that great engraver's masterpieces, and one of the two Annunciations made by the master, F. V. B. The beautiful little Virgin by Schongauer has often been reproduced and is thus, in spite of its rarity, deservedly one of the best known early German engravings.

"The Annunciation by F. V. B. has not enjoyed either fame or reproduction, the only picture of it that the writer (William M. Irvine Jr.) is acquainted with being one of the illustrations that accompanied Max Lehrs's learned article on F. V. B. in the Print Collector's Quarterly for February 1923. While not so rare as some of the other engravings by its maker, it is still sufficiently uncommon, in its nine recorded impressions, all of which are now in public institutions, not only to have escaped the enthusiasm of the private collector [the last recorded sales of it having taken place in 1892, 1887 and 1876] but to have been overlooked by writers of historical text books.

A Charming F. V. B. Print.

"While possibly not the most important of F. V. B.'s prints (as that phrase is used in the market), there can be little doubt as to its being one of the most charming that came from his burin, and, all things considered, one of the most beautiful of all Netherlandish engravings. In the older books F. V. B. is referred to as Franz von Bocholt, but, as shown by Lehrs, there is no real reason for believing there is any basis for such an explanation of his initials.

"F. V. B.'s prints, no matter where they were made or what their maker's name or nationality and despite their exceeding rarity, have such a personality back of them and so much character of their own that there can be no question of their being among the most noteworthy specimens of the engraver's art during the period prior to Durer and Lucas of Leyden."

The portrait of Maria Taylor Byrd of Kensington, England, second wife of William Byrd 2d, one time master of Westover on the James River in Virginia, came from the Byrd family "by way of the Harrisons of Upper Brandon," according to The Bulletin, which continues:

"It is cool in tone. It shows the figure three-quarters length, the eyes long and clearly drawn, the facial contours smooth and soft, but with less exaggerated puffiness of the cheeks than is noticeable in much of Kneller's and Michael Dahl's work, with which it naturally would be compared. The hands are carefully drawn, with a definite attempt to express bony structure and modeling by means of light and shadow. The painting, as such, presents smoothness of texture where most Virginia portraits of the time are dry and crumbly, while the rendering of silks and satins in Bridges's portraits is easy and accomplished, with large folds well arranged. The backgrounds show decorative landscapes with sky foliage or buildings."

Bridges a Virginian Painter.

Bridges is believed to have painted the portrait of Governor Alexander Spotswood of Virginia, now hanging in the Virginia State Library. He is said to have painted in Virginia as late as 1750, but it is certain that he painted there in 1740. In that year Caroline County, Va., ordered that 1,000 pounds of tobacco be sold to remunerate Bridges for painting the royal arms on some public building. In 1735 William Byrd wrote to Colonel Spotswood, then his political opponent, with reference to Bridges as follows:

"The Person who has the honor to wait upon you with this letter is a man of Good Family, but either by the frowns of Fortune or his own Mismanagement is obliged to seek his Bread, a little of the latest, in a strange land. His name is Bridges and his Profession Painting, and if you have any Employment for him in that way he will be proud of obeying your command. He has drawn my children and several others in this neighborhood and though he has not the Master Hand of a Dilly or a Kneller yet had he lived so long ago as when Places were given to the most Deserving he might have pretended to be Sergeant Painter of Virginia."

The Rembrandt loaned to the museum by Mr. Bache, and now on exhibition in Gallery 26, is a portrait of the artist's wife, Saskia, in fancy dress. Of this, Bryson Burroughs, in the Bulletin, says:

"All those familiar, glittering studio properties of his, which seem so pathetic in the retrospect, have been utilised in the work. Saskia, with loose hair, a laurel wreath on her head and wearing over her shoulders the heavy tinsel-embroidered cloak (which appears also on the opposite page in the picture called the "Noble Slav") is seated at a table with an ouen folio in front of her. On the table beyond the books are a terrestrial globe and the brass helmet, which has been painted so many times. On the wall hangs a shield with a Gorgon's head in relief. For Saskia is Minerva, in this instance.

Rembrandt Marked by Vigor.

"The picture is distinguished by its vigor of handling and the full rotundity of its modeling. Rembrandt must have been well pleased with the work, as he has signed it in unusually bold letters. It is dated 1635. The painting has been cleaned and the effect, though startling in comparison with most of the heavily varnished pictures in the room, must be pretty close to what it was on leaving the artist's hands.

"Beyond the fact that the picture comes out of an English collection, its history is unknown and it does not appear in any of the catalogues."

Lightly The Bulletin touches upon the acquisition for the Department of Prints of a copy of "Museum Tradescantianum, or A Collection of Rarities, Preserved at South-Lambeth near London, Printed by John Grismond, and are to be sold by Nathaniel Brooke at the Angel in Cornhill, MDCLVI." It is illustrated with portraits etched by Hollar of the two John Tradescants, father and son, and contains also a water color of the younger Tradescant and portraits of his wife and child.

"Technically," writes Mr. Irvine in The Bulletin, "from our point of view, the book is regarded as the two Hollar etchings in their original setting. Officially it is looked upon as much more than that; as a memorial of the two Johns and their prowess as collectors, and, most important of all, as the first museum catalogue in English. The book is a duodecimo of 206 pages and three plates."

Announcement is made that John D. Rockefeller's gift of the Cloisters and the arrangement by the trustees for its conduct as a branch of the parent museum introduce into America a new idea in museum administration. This idea, it is said, has been developed thus far in only one other instance—that of the Bethnal Green Museum in London, a branch of the Victoria and Albert Museum. In 1872 the building was opened by the Prince of Wales.

It is explained that in this branch of the Museum only the work of demonstration by competent persons is required in addition to the housekeeping service. The cataloguing, &c., for the Cloisters is done in the main building.

Mr. Moore's gift of $10,000 is referred to briefly with thanks from the trustees, and the announcement that the donor has given the Museum a similar amount annually since 1922. This money is said to have enabled the Museum to acquire such important additions as the marquetry table, by Clark Jones, and numerous other objects of decorative art.

Two Mosaic Panels Shown.

"Two great panels of mosaic," The Bulletin announces, "are now exhibited in a bay in the Hall of Casts. They are copies recently made of two celebrated mosaics in the Church of San Vitale at Ravenna, the chief centre in Italy of mosaic art in the fifth and sixth centuries. One of the mosaics represents the Emperor Justinian carrying a gift in the form of a basin, probably containing an offering of gold, accompanied by Maximianus and surrounded by his suite and guards. In the other we see the Empress Theodora, accompanied by her attendants, carrying a golden bowl or chalice, presumably a gift to the Church of San Vitale, consecrated by Maximianus in 547. These mosaics are not only representative of the art of mosaic at its very height as mural decoration, but are also, especially for the student of costume, documents of extraordinary interest. The reproductions have been carefully made from the original photographs of Mgr. Wilpert, the distinguished author of the great work on mosaics."

Another acquisition to which considerable attention is paid is the additional space in the galleries which has made it possible to exhibit there in its entirety the James F. Ballard collection of Oriental rugs in connection with other rugs owned by the Museum. The rugs are of an unusual richness and display a variety of geometrical and floral motifs which combine to form a decorative unity. The motifs most used are the Persian, Armenian and Turkish rugs are palmettes. This is described as a freely conventionalized motif resembling a flower without being a copy of any floral species.

The handbook of the Pierpont Morgan wing of the Museum, prepared by Joseph Breck and Meyric R. Rogers, is now on sale at the information desk in the Museum. This month the Museum issues also another volume of the publications of its Egyptian expedition. It is entitled, "The Tomb of Two Sculptors at Thebes."

RETURNS AS POLICE START TO HUNT HIM

Louis Kramer, Ill, Had Spent Night at Club and Neglected to Tell Family.

Just as the family of Louis Kramer, 68 years old, a retired neckwear manufacturer, had asked the Missing Persons Bureau to send out a general alarm for him last night in the belief that he had disappeared and might have met with foul play, Mr. Kramer was motoring home from a country club in Westchester where he had spent the night. The members of the family were sitting in the home at 220 West Ninety-eighth Street discussing their fears, when Mr. Kramer quietly walked in.

The reason for the belief that he had disappeared was due to his failure to notify them that he was going to spend the night away from home. It was explained that he was taken ill and that, preoccupied with his sickness, he forgot to perform that task. He went to bed immediately on his return.

The first alarm for his safety was felt on Saturday night when he failed to return from the Metropolis Club at 105 West Forty-seventh Street, where he played pinochle with some friends. He left the game about 6 P. M., complaining of a headache and said he was going home. He was seen to walk toward Seventh Avenue.

When the dinner hour arrived and he had not appeared there, his son Maurice and his daughter-in-law who lived with him, became alarmed. Their alarm increased during the night as they tried to locate him at the home of friends and failed. They also called the hospitals.

They waited until last night before notifying the Missing Persons Bureau, and by that time the fear of his having met with violence had become stronger.

TWO GIRLS END LIVES.

A Man Also Believed to Have Committed Suicide in Trenton.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 23 (AP).—Two girls committed suicide and a man is believed to have ended his life here over the week-end.

Mrs. Elsie Kistler, 26 years old, was found dead this morning by her husband on his return from a dance at Washington's Crossing. Mrs. Kistler is said to have accompanied him to the dance, and then became jealous when he left her, selecting another partner. She returned home alone during the evening, and was found in bed with a gas tube at her side.

The second suicide, Carrie Speira, had been missing since Thursday night. Her body was found in the Delaware and Raritan Canal last evening. It is believed that a quarrel with her sweetheart led to her death.

Following a quarrel with his children, clothing belonging to Charles Muscarelli, 49, was found on the bank of the Delaware River, and it is believed that he took his own life. Coroner is dragging the stream for his body.

LEAP OUT WINDOWS AND BALK HOLD-UP

Two Men Badly Hurt, but Noise Scares Away Thugs Who Cow 25 in Club.

VICTIM BREAKS ANKLES

Five men who tried to hold up a card game in the Sylvan Social Club, 3,801 Broadway, early yesterday morning, were frightened away when two men in the game jumped out of second-story windows and were badly hurt.

About twenty-five men were in the rooms when the five hold-up men drove up in a taxicab about 1 o'clock, entered the club and told the card players to line up against the wall. They flourished pistols to emphasize their words, and when a man in the club threw an ash tray through a window, one of the hold-up men shouted at him and fired a shot over the heads of those still around the tables.

The ash tray proved an inspiration to David Cohen, 53 years old, of 235 Fort Washington Avenue and Rudolph Zika, 21 years old, of 224 East 122d Street, and they jumped through windows to the street. That was too much for the hold-up men and they fled. Cohen broke both his ankles, and Zika was badly bruised. They were taken to Columbus Hospital.

Hold Up Haberdashery Store.

About midnight, a tall man and two short men, the best description obtainable of them, got into action in the haberdashery store of Saul Weinstein at 2,545 Broadway, at Ninety-sixth Street. Weinstein was talking to a customer when the men walked in and ordered the shopkeeper and the customer into a rear room. They were then tied with neckties, and the robbers went through the cash register and took $200. The customer, whose name the police were unable to learn, was robbed of $14.

Half an hour later the same men entered a delicatessen store at 1,153 Madison Avenue, at Eighty-fourth Street, and after locking the proprietor in the basement escaped with $100.

Anna Boden of 495 West End Avenue was walking west on the Eighty-sixth Street tranverse road of Central Park, when a man grabbed her purse and ran. Detective Peter Broderick heard Miss Boden scream, and after a short chase caught a man who said he was Clarence McArthur of 106 East Eighty-ninth Street. The purse, containing $19, was found not far from where he was caught. He pleaded not guilty in the Yorkville Court, and was held in $3,000 bail for trial.

Accused of Robbing a Sailor.

Magistrate Edward Weil held Michael Hockie of 170 Eldridge Street in $25,000 ball yesterday when Hockie was arraigned in the Essex Market Court on charges of robbery and violating the Sullivan law. He was arrested on the complaint of Patrick Walsh, a sailor, living at the Seaman's Institute, 25 South Street, who said Hockie was one of three men who had robbed him of $85. Walsh said he met a friend of Hockie's soon after arriving in port on Saturday, and was taken to Hockie's rooms, where he was robbed.

Jacob Randall, 21 years old, of 148 East Sixty-first Street, was held in $25,000 bail for examination by Magistrate Weil on the charge of attempting to rob Herbert Massey of 510 West 180th Street of $20 while Massey was standing in Chatham Square on Saturday night.

Bail of $10,000 was fixed by Magistrate Weil in the case of Philip Smith of 220 Henry Street, who was arrested on Saturday night on a charge of robbing August Magnuson of 289 Jackson Avenue, Jersey City, of $8. Smith was charged with pointing a pistol at Magnuson as he stepped from a taxicab at the Bowery and Canal Street, and holding him up.

FASCISTI OUST VICE CONSUL

Lucci of Pittsburgh Condemns Italian Partisanship Here.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 23.—The Fascist Government at Rome has removed Telesio Lucci, Italian Vice Consul, who has received a letter from the Consul General in Philadelphia saying he is to be supplanted by Signor Nardi at Rome.

Consul Lucci's attitude toward the Fascisti was responsible for his removal, according to a statement he made public. The local consul has acted as a rigid non-partisan and has refused to be active in Fascist propaganda, nor has he shown any favor to Fascist politics. Mr. Lucci said:

"I am serving my country, not any political party. Fascist organizations have no place in America, for many reasons, especially because in endeavoring to carry out their aims they would incite anti-Fascist groups to organize and demonstrate against them.

"In bringing here the political dissension of the other side we would harm this country. We should attempt to make better Americans out of the Italians living in this country and the cite them to cooperate, not to fight against each other."

Friends of the deposed consul said he came into disfavor with the foreign office recently when he declined to renounce allegiance to Masonry to the Fascist Government recently having passed a law prohibiting Masons from holding office under their Government.

Mr. Lucci married Miss Winifred Neville Jones of Sewickley and is well known in society.

Hangs Himself in Apartment.

Hanging by a piece of rope from a door frame in his apartment, the body of Albert Paalli, 42 years old, of 215 East 108th Street, was found last night by another tenant. The police were unable to determine a motive for the man's death. His wife is in Italy and he has no relatives in this country.

Cost of Living Continues to Increase; Now Almost 75 Per Cent. Above 1913 Figure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The cost of living is continuing to rise and is now close to 75 per cent. above that of 1913, according to figures obtained from the Department of Labor's statistical bureau. What could be purchased for $1 before the World War costs almost $1.75 today.

Six months after the war began, living costs in the United States jumped 3 per cent. and steadily leaped upward until the peak was reached in June, 1920, when it was necessary to spend 118 per cent. more money than in 1913. Then came a decline due in part to the buyers' strike, with the result that living costs dropped in December, 1921, to 74.3 per cent. above 1913.

But although in the ensuing years the cost of living has decreased to a minimum of 66.3 per cent. over 1913, it is now higher than since December, 1921. The last figures available, for June of this year, put the advance in living costs at 73.5 per cent. The following table shows the percentage increases since 1913 on the necessaries of life:

Clothing	70.6 per cent.
Housing	87.4 per cent.
Fuel and light	76.7 per cent.
House furnishing	114.8 per cent.
Miscellaneous	102.7 per cent.
All items	73.5 per cent.

The percentage of increase of living costs in New York between December, 1914, and June, 1925, was 75.8. The largest increase in a selected list of nineteen cities was in Detroit, with 84.5.

FIGHTS ARMED MAN IN STUCK ELEVATOR

POLICE POWERLESS TO AID

But Finally Pass Blackjack to Him, With Which He Knocks Assailant Senseless.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 23.—Imprisoned in a stalled elevator car with an infuriated negro armed with a knife, late on Saturday night, Robert Mathieson, elevator operator at the City Hall, battled with his bare hands for fifteen minutes, while policemen and detectives standing on the first and second floors stood by powerless to aid. Mathieson was stabbed slightly several times. Finally, with the aid of a blackjack passed to him through the roofing of the car by detectives, the elevator man succeeded in beating his assailant into unconsciousness. Then he and the negro had to remain in their prison for nearly an hour while firemen chopped a hole in the top of the car.

The negro had been arrested earlier in the evening on a charge of possessing liquor. He had resisted the detectives, but had been quickly subdued. He remained in a cell only a short time, for bond was furnished for him. After signing the bond he went to the second floor of the City Hall, where the property that had been taken from him was returned.

The negro boarded the elevator to descend to the street, but the operator had hardly closed the door when his passenger accused him of betraying him and lunged at him with a knife.

Defending himself as best he could, Mathieson attempted to drive the car back to the second floor, but in his excitement and pain from the knife wounds he stalled it. His cries coupled with profane expressions of the negro attracted the attention of detectives on the second floor and policemen on the first floor. They rushed to doors of the shaft but were unable to aid Mathieson till one of the detectives succeeded in passing the blackjack to him.

Mathieson and the negro were taken to the hospital, where physicians said both would recover.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—While Socialists were holding their international meeting in Marseilles today Communists staged a separate show of their own with a congress of workingmen and peasants at Chartreux, which ended in a riot in which several heads were severely bruised.

On leaving their hall the Communists, led by several of their Deputies, decided to hold a parade. The police objected and a fight followed. It lasted twenty minutes and after it was quelled four policemen had to be taken to the hospital.

Today's session of the Socialist gathering at Marseilles was uneventful except for a concerted attack by delegates on the Chamberlain-Briand security compact. The English Laborite, Buxton, a former member of the MacDonald Cabinet, denounced the compact as merely a military alliance against Russia and an instrument whereby Europe would be divided into two camps. German delegates, headed by a former Reich Minister, Herr Heferding, appealed for working class solidarity and action against arrangements which would mean continuance of wars.

TRAIN IS SET AFLAME BY A SHORT CIRCUIT

A short circuit started a fire on a New York, New Haven & Hartford electric locomotive pulling a Springfield express to New York when the train had reached 118th Street and Park Avenue at 7:55 o'clock last night. The train was stopped and a policeman turned in an alarm when he saw the smoldering insulation.

Firemen from Hook and Ladder 14 and Engine 35 ran ladders up to the viaduct, over which the train was at this point, and quickly put the fire out. The current was turned off on the southbound tracks during the half hour the train was stalled, and five other trains were held up in back of it. The passengers alighted and made their way over the pathway at the side of the tracks to the 125th Street station.

C. H. Geist Brings Professional From Abroad to Improve Game.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23.—At the Seaview golf course today Clarence H. Geist of Overbrook led out his three daughters, Eloise, Betty and Mary, for their first lesson under the professional Alex McWhinney, whom he has "imported" just to improve their game.

Mr. Geist is going to take lessons himself, and so is Mrs. Geist. But, as Mr. Geist expresses it, he just gets around in 85, while Mrs. Geist only dabbles. But Eloise already scores an 80 and Betty manages to crack 100 once in a while. Mary is only 12, but she is going to be another Cecil Leitch if her father can bring it about.

"McWhinney made a hit with me when I was abroad, so I brought him over," Mr. Geist said today after the first lesson.

LEVIATHAN TO STAY IN PRESENT SERVICE

Palmer Says the Six Ships of the United States Lines Will Continue Runs Permanently.

HE REPORTS STEADY GAINS

Statement Is Prompted by Rumors in Europe That the Vessels Would Be Tied Up in Hoboken.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The Leviathan and the five other ships of the United States Lines are to remain permanently in passenger service between New York and Europe, Leigh C. Palmer, President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, announced today in denying rumors circulated abroad that the six ships were to be retired from service and tied up indefinitely in Hoboken.

Mr. Palmer announced that he had received a cablegram from General Manager T. H. Rossbottom, who is now in Europe, stating that competitors of the United States Lines were attempting to take advantage of reports that the six liners were to be tied up "with the idea of reducing our future bookings." Mr. Rossbottom asked if there was any truth in such rumors.

Mr. Palmer's cabled reply follows:

"Reference rumor about withdrawing Leviathan there is absolutely no intention of doing so. On the contrary, we intend to maintain and continue in improved service the Leviathan and all other ships of the United States Lines. Preliminary results show that this year will be more successful than any previous one and from the enormous number of letters most strongly endorsing every part of the services of the United States Lines from all parts of the country and from Europe, I feel that next year will be even better than this year. I need not reiterate to you that the United States Lines is on the North Atlantic to remain permanently and nothing has transpired since your departure to suggest anything to the contrary. If any of our people abroad have heard any of these unfounded rumors they are of no more importance than rumors of a similar nature that have constantly been broadcast in the last three or four years. United States Lines is in this service permanently and there is absolutely no ground for such adverse rumors."

WIVES CAUSE SHOOTING IN TRUCE BY HUSBANDS

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23 (AP).—Two wives, whose differences had just been settled by their husbands, with agreements to "forgive and forget," could not let their next meeting pass without beginning the quarrel over again. As a result the husband of one is near death in a hospital with three bullets in his body, while the other is under arrest charged with the shooting.

Frederick Marshall, 54, and Henry Meinhart, 59, neighbors, living in Upper Oreland, on the outskirts of the city, met in the Marshall home last night and after discussing the reasons for the friction that has existed between the two families for several weeks, aired their quarrels and departed friends.

As Meinhart rose to return to his home, the police were informed; his wife entered the Marshall yard looking for him. Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Meinhart exchanged glances for a few seconds, then sharp words, and a few minutes later began to exchange blows. The husbands attempted to stop the quarrel by pleading with them, but in vain.

Then, Meinhart told the police, he tried to separate the women and in doing so was shot by Marshall.

When arrested, Marshall was sullen and refused to make any statement. His wife insisted he fired in self-defense and that Meinhart threatened to shoot him. Authorities, however, say they did not find any weapons belonging to Meinhart. Two revolvers, one empty and the other loaded, were found, they said, in the Marshall home.

Meinhart, who is the father of six children, was extremely bitter against his neighbor and on the operating table declared his wish to live, if only for revenge.

SEARCH EAST SIDE FOR BOY.

Youngster Vanished From His Home on Saturday Afternoon.

The police searched through the streets, alleys and hallways of the lower east side yesterday in a vain effort to find Isadore Heidelberg, the six-year-old son of Harry Heidelberg, a restaurant proprietor, who disappeared Saturday afternoon from his home at 63 East Fourth Street.

The missing boy is about 3 feet 3 inches in height, weighs forty-five pounds, has gray eyes, blond hair and light complexion. When last seen by a playmate, Arthur Rosenblatt, who lives across the street from the Heidelberg home at 52 East Fourth Street, Isadore wore a white blouse, brown corduroy trousers, brown laced shoes and stockings of the same color. His parents said that he had strayed away from home once before, but was found two hours later.

It was learned late last night at Police Headquarters that Frank Milligan of 13 Marshall Street, Jersey City, had reported yesterday to the authorities of that place that he had seen a boy answering the description of Isadore in a street taxicab at 106th Street and Park Avenue on Saturday afternoon. Milligan said that with the lad were a young woman and an elderly man. The woman was well dressed and had blond bobbed hair. The man, he said, was short and stout and wore white knickers, a blue shirt and a black coat.

WILL ACT TO HANDLE BAGGAGE IN STRIKE

NO MOVE MADE TO AVERT IT

No move was made yesterday either by the Express Workers' Union or the transfer companies to avert the strike of 800 expressmen and their helpers scheduled for midnight tonight. Public Service Commissioner George R. Van Namee may for the third time since last Friday attempt today to effect a compromise that would result in a truce.

Plans for handling incoming and outgoing baggage will be drawn up today by the railroads and steamship companies which are served by the New York Transfer Company and the Westcott Express, the two companies involved in the walkout.

Martin Lacey, head of Local 645 of the Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Helpers' Union, could not be reached yesterday. One of his assistants said that the strike would be orderly, and that pickets would be sent out on Tuesday. He also declared that there was no intention of inconveniencing the public more than was necessary, and that therefore, although the strike call was technically set for midnight, those who were at work would finish their allotted "tricks" and not break off in the middle of their runs.

For the union it was said that the members did not understand why the employers had waited until last Friday to notify the Public Service Commission, as they were notified of the men's demands two weeks ago. S. W. F. Draper, President of the New York Transfer Company, said that although the men's demands were served two weeks ago, no threat of a strike was made until last Thursday, and that the employers then promptly informed the Public Service Commission of the situation.

The union officials said that when a dispute arose two years ago it took six days to settle it, and the circumstances were such that a more complicated situation confronted the employers.

No attempt will be made by teamsters and chauffeurs in the employ of the American Express Company to handle the baggage of the companies involved in the strike, according to an official of Mr. Lacey's organization. The employes of the American Express Company are members of another union, it was said, and they would not act as strikebreakers.

President A. M. Loeb of the National Council of Traveling Salesmen announced yesterday that if a strike was called his organization would arrange to handle the outgoing baggage of its members. At this time of the year, it was said, more than 20,000 men leave New York for their business trips.

TO ARREST 5,400 CITIZENS.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 23.—In a final effort to collect school taxes from 5,400 residents of Homestead, the population of which is about 21,000, warrants are being prepared for the arrest tomorrow of the delinquents, Richard Rosser, Tax Collector, announced today.

Among those who have failed to pay the taxes are 3,000 women. It is being pointed out that since the women became entitled to the voting privilege, the number of delinquents has mounted rapidly. Before that the number of delinquents totaled only several hundred. Borough authorities say the men have decided to avoid payment of their taxes since they have observed that the women were not being prosecuted for their delinquency.

The law provides imprisonment for delinquents, and Collector Rosser declares that he is serious in his purpose to jail those who fail to pay.

The results of tomorrow's arrests are being awaited anxiously. How the warrants will be served and where the delinquents will be lodged will be two of the serious problems faced by Collector Rosser.

Mitzi Lederer and Her Husband Were Unable to Say Good-Bye.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 23 (AP).—With five minutes to say good-bye before their death allowed by the court Mitzi Lederer and her husband, Gustav, a former Lieutenant, choking with anguish and blinded by tears, were unable to say a single word. They had been convicted of the murder and dismemberment of the owner of a sausage factory, Franz Kudelka, who was visiting the couple in a suburb of Budapest.

The two embraced while the presiding Judge held a watch.

"You have five minutes," he said. "Four—three—two—one, and now no more time to bid each other good-bye."

The man and wife were parted and immediately executed.

FREEPORT, L. I., Aug. 23.—The subdistrict police station of Nassau County, established yesterday in Merrick, L. I., booked its first prisoners today when three men were taken to the station house charged with grand larceny. They were Anthony Keegan of 330 Twenty-sixth Street, Everitt McComb of 216 Ninth Street, and George Thompson of 302 Fifth Avenue, all of Brooklyn. 50 IS DEATH TOTAL OF MACKINAC DISASTER

Three More Die in Newport and Two Injured Children Have Scarlet Fever.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 23 (AP).—Death had claimed fifty lives in the boiler explosion on the excursion steamer Mackinac up to early tonight when Sarah Powers, 26, of 24 Park Street, Central Falls, R. I., succumbed to burns from live steam.

Earlier in the day death ended the suffering of James Henderson and Charles Koeford. All were patients in the Naval Hospital.

Already lingering between life and death from burns suffered in the Mackinac disaster, two children, John Wildenhain and Virginia Troeger, have developed scarlet fever, physicians at the Newport General Hospital announced tonight.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 23 (AP).—The Federal investigation into the disastrous boiler explosion aboard the steamer Mackinac last Tuesday, which so far has cost fifty lives, will be resumed here at 10 o'clock tomorrow by the Federal steamboat inspectors, Richard F. Bailey and Robert B. Clark. Inspector General George Uhler has returned to Washington and is not expected back before the middle of the week.

Purser John Hague of the Mackinac will be questioned tomorrow by the Federal investigators, who intend also to query employes of the Wholey Boiler Works, whose affidavits, charging that Chief Engineer John Grant sailed without repairs to a leak in the boiler and with full knowledge that the boiler might explode, were published yesterday by an Assistant Attorney General, Oscar L. Heitzman, who is directing the State inquiry.

CITIZENS RAISE FUNDS FOR VICTIMS OF FIRE

Five Bernardsville (N. J.) Families Homeless—Injured Pair Still in Hospital.

Special to The New York Times.

BERNARDSVILLE, N. J., Aug. 23.—A citizens' meeting was held here this afternoon to raise funds to aid the five families who lost their homes early this morning in a fire which destroyed the Westlecraft Block, Olcott Square. Ten stores and the six apartments above them were burned. Clothing as well as money was contributed by residents, including wealthy New Yorkers who have homes here.

Two persons injured in the fire were still in All Souls Hospital, Morristown, this evening. They are Joseph De Belionia and his daughter, Helen, 4 years old, who were caught in their apartment by the fire. Mrs. Belionia, overcome by fright, dropped the child from a second story window. A fireman made an effort to catch Helen but dropped her. The father, who was the last to leave the apartment, was seriously burned.

Although the fire started shortly after midnight, it was not extinguished until 8 o'clock this morning. Today only the brick walls were standing. How fire originated has not been discovered. It was detected in a frame building near the Westlecraft Block by a patrolman. Before the arrival of firemen it spread to the group of stores. Apparatus came from four near-by towns, but the flames, fed by oil and paints in some stores, caused the fire fighters difficulty for a long time. At the height of the fire, cartridges in one of the stores began to explode, causing sharp reports. No one was injured by them.

SCREW IN LUNGS 40 YEARS.

Massachusetts Woman Undergoes Successful Operation for Its Removal

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23 (AP).—Mrs. Ida Ferguson of Canton, Mass., has recovered from a bronchoscopic operation at the Jefferson Hospital here, where a small screw that had been lodged in her lungs for more than forty years was removed.

Mrs. Ferguson accidently swallowed the screw when a child, but, fearing parental chastisement, failed to tell her mother. For the last several years, she said, she suffered regularly from colds in the lungs, but doctors were unable to discover the cause.

At the hospital last night it was said that Mrs. Ferguson's operation broke all records for the length of time foreign objects had remained in undesired "captivity" prior to their removal by the bronchoscope. Until now the record was held by a man in whose lungs a tack was imbedded for thirty-six years.

Circulation Chief Says Book Supply Is Inadequate—Hits Civil Service Suggestion.

The New York Public Library Staff Association made public yesterday a letter sent to the Board of Estimate which takes issue with statements made by the Library Employes Union in connection with the preparation of the library appropriation for next year.

"At the same time the association issued a statement by Franklin F. Hopper, Chief of the Circulation Department, denying charges made against the administration of the public libraries which were put before the board recently by the Library Employes Union. These charges included assertions that "the money given by the city to the library has been distributed without rhyme or reason," and that salary increases had been unfairly distributed. Among the other charges was one that "outsiders" were appointed to the "highest positions" in the library service.

The letter to the Board of Estimate was signed by Miss Rae Strickland, Acting President of the association.

Letter Repudiates "Outsiders."

"We wish to register our indignant protest," said the letter, "against the impudence of half a dozen individuals, only one of whom, as far as can be ascertained, works in the New York Public Library system, interfering in our affairs and presuming to determine the conditions under which we shall work. The Rev. Llewellyn Brown Says Fast Living Is Destroying Older Decencies.

CITES GROWTH OF CRIME

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 23.—The Rev. Llewellyn Brown, who preached today in the First Baptist Church, presented a dark picture of modern America. Enumerating the nation's faults, as he saw them, the clergyman concluded that the country was in danger of moral disintegration.

"America," he said, "is in danger of losing the spiritual conception of life. If attendance at church services has markedly decreased in the last twenty-five years, then attendance upon all the public institutions dealing with the weak or dangerous elements in society have shown a corresponding increase. Where law was respected and obeyed, it is now disobeyed and made a joke. Undue pressure of business, unprecendented prosperity, and high living or low living have all contributed to the present situation.

"The evidences of moral decay are all about us. We see it in our play life, in our national recreations. The drama has descended into the show business. The moral sensitiveness of our people is on the decline. What would have once shocked the public sense is commonplace today. Unless this downward tendency is checked the show business will kill itself as it did in England and Italy. Multitudes who attend our Sunday shows in America are religiously adrift. They have lost all vital contact with the Church.

Says We Go Too Fast.

"We are going too fast as a nation. Fifty-two graves a day follow in the train of the deadly automobile. Most accidents happen when people are driving too fast, and as a nation we are doing this. It is not the new driver that is dangerous, but the old driver who is selfish, speedy and reckless. Taking chances and disregarding the rights of others bring terrible consequences on the road and in other places. This high speed is affecting our national temper. Strains and shocks and 'high pressure,' kept up, bring increased nervous diseases, insanity and crime. We must slow down or perish.

"We see this loss of the spiritual conception of life in the daily press. If we compare a morning daily of twenty-five years ago with this morning's paper we see a great advance mechanically and a great decline morally. Judging by not a few papers, it would appear that there was nothing the people relished more than seeing the dirty linen of their neighbors washed in public. There is one splended exception in that New York daily which recognizes that some news, while it is news, is 'not fit to print.' In many papers prize fighters, race horses and divorced actresses get the headlines and the first places. This is all indicative of a serious moral and spiritual decline nationally.

Cites Organized Crime.

"Crime in America is organized like big business. It actually is encouraged by easy parole, by the pardon system, by political intervention, by sentimental leniency, as well as by criminal lawyers, professional bondsmen and crime rings. A second-rate American city has more murders than England and Wales. It is one of the safest of crimes. The chances are 50 to 50 that you will not be found out, 9 to 1 that you will not be imprisoned for more than 5 years if convicted, and 100 to 1 that you will not be executed.

"An insurance company has computed that of 146 murderers taken at random over this country only sixty-nine indictments followed. Of the sixty-nine indicted, only thirty-seven were convicted and of the thirty-seven convicted only one was executed. It is said that a famous criminal lawyer in this country has saved from the gallows or the electric chair 105 persons. This is a stab at the United States Government and makes the life of every citizen less safe."

HITS LAX USE OF 'CHRISTIAN'

Dr. Howard Deplores Assumption of Name Without Obligations.

Thoughtlessness in the use of words, especially in religion, was deplored yesterday morning by the Rev. Dr. Henry Howard, Wesleyan evangelist, of London and Australia, in a sermon at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street. Specifically the brunt of Dr. Howard's attack fell upon the carelessness attending the use of the word "Christian."

"We call ourselves 'Christians,'" said Dr. Howard, "without realising that we cannot assume that title without assuming all the obligations that that title implies. The word 'Christian' has long had a standard meaning. Today, however, it has so been mishandled that in many places it is made to include its own antithesis. It is up to us to make that word ring true over the counter of word exchange. To have a right to that word your faith in Christ should be impregnable. If you claim to be a Christian you must enthrone Christ above everything else in the world.

"Words suffer from leakage by careless handling. To use words that do not live up to their face value is to debase language. Words that sound well but that are not sound words are called cant in religion. When we pass from the world of mere thinking to the world of moral and religious thought, the misuse of words takes on a greater significance. We hear so much about redemption in religion. But it would be well if we had a redemption of language.

"There are two ways to better this state of affairs, to throw everything aside and invent a new vocabulary or to recharge old terms with new significance. The danger in the first lies in that some of the words are apt to be left behind or dropped on the way in the process of being transferred. Or there may result the loss of words that are important, for there are few men who have the ability to transfer words from one verbal house to another. The danger in the second method lies in the fact that the old words while being recharged are apt to burst."

Layman Preaches to Save Service.

In the absence of the Rev. Henry D. Tripiano, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Whitestone, L. I., Henry Gregory, a layman, preached a sermon there last night, thus honoring a 150-year-old request of the church's founder, Thomas Leggett, a Quaker, that it never be dark on Sunday nights. Mr. Gregory's topic was the life of Daniel.

SAYS WORLD HAS LOST DESIRE TO STRUGGLE

"The beauties of nature, the quest for truth and the struggle to establish a just social scheme are things that make life worth living," said the Rev. Dr. Norman Thomas, preaching in the Community Church, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, yesterday. The preacher said that the weariness and disappointment which he had observed lately were due to the let-down which followed the World War.

"Even those of us who did not share the hopes of Wilsonian liberalism thought that the war would end injustice and strife," he said. "Our hopes have been baffled, or at least postponed; many of us are weary and say life is not worth living. Yet none of those who take this attitude go out and commit suicide. The truth is that they have only lost the desire to struggle and want to enjoy the things they possess. Most of these disappointed radicals or liberals go on with their poker, motoring and other pastimes, and in order to justify this they say 'Oh, what's the use?'

"Quest of truth or for scientific facts is another thing worth living for. Many a time that truth is unpleasant and destroys pet illusions, yet to those who discover parts of it, however trifling, it brings a sense of satisfaction and majesty."

The preacher said that those who believed in a friendly universe and those who took the attitude that human beings were helpless and doomed could agree on one thing, namely, the necessity of fellowship and love.

Dr. Thomas added that in the present age there was no excuse for scorning those things which contributed to the material well-being of men. He said that well-fed, well-clothed and well-housed men had a better outlook on life and that they could better enjoy the beauties and blessings of life and nature.

CALLS FAITH ESSENTIAL.

Dr. Pierce Says It Is Needed for Success in Any Enterprise.

Faith is essential to success in any enterprise, from Channel swimming to religion, said the Rev. Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, yesterday in the Marble Collegiate Church, Fifth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street. Dr. Pierce is Pastor of the First Congregational Church of Washington, where the President and Mrs. Coolidge worship.

"When Jesus was about to heal the youth who was possessed of a demon," said Dr. Pierce, "he saw the faith of the boy's father as essential to his recovery. I do not think that it was a doctrinal or creedal faith, but something for more vital and fundamental—a faith that God would help.

"Faith is a growth, starting from a small beginning, and gaining strength and size as time goes on. While folks have various ideas about God, it seems to me that there are three fundamental concepts about Him which should be found in all who have any faith at all.

"The first of these I should call a realization that God is love and that there is love between God and man. Secondly, that the love of God is a communicating thing, which can and does speak to us spiritually, and thirdly, that this same love can serve and help us.

"But we are under an obligation to serve Him too, by being obedient, and sending out missionaries. And if you are ever in doubt as to how to serve God here at home, ask yourself the question, 'What would God do if he should come to New York today?' The answer you make to yourself is what you must do. He has served us, and we should serve him."

ASKS REVERENCE IN STUDY.

Bishop Leonard Says Scholars Ought to Be Constructive.

ROUND LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 23.—What he characterized as "reverent scholarship" was encouraged by Bishop Adna W. Leonard, head of the Buffalo area of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in an address today before the Epworth League Institute. The Bishop pointed out that life is progressive and that new light is coming constantly upon all problems. The auditorium was filled.

Bishop Leonard said:

"We would not break the test tube in the laboratory, or shackle the mind of reverent scholarship. On the other hand, scholarship should be keen to its own responsibilities and should be constructive and not destructive; should be reverent and not irreverent. Truth as long as it is truth is a contribution to the larger life of man. In both of these laws, the law of truth and of love, we have the highest example in the person of Jesus Christ. But the character that is builded upon these fundamental laws will make a contribution to not merely the day and generation in which it finds itself but to the generations yet unborn."

K. OF C. MAKES PILGRIMAGE.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Aug. 23.—The annual pilgrimage of the Hudson Valley Chapter of the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Daughters of America to the Mount of the Atonement at Graymoor, six miles north of here, was held today with more than fifteen hundred men and women making the pilgrimage. The trip was made in automobiles and buses and practically every chapter and court of the two organizations was represented.

The guests were welcomed by the Rev. Father Paul, head of the Home of the Sisters of the Atonement, and were shown over the new building, which has just been completed. A meeting of the pilgrims was directed by John J. Mylod, former Past District Master, at which Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament was performed by the Rev. Edward J. Higgins, assisted by the Rev. Father McLaughlin and the Rev. Father Doolan. The Rev. Father Paul spoke on the work of the order.

YESHIVA OPENS TERM TODAY

500 Students Form Theological Seminary's Biggest Enrolment.

The Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary, 301 East Broadway, which is to be enlarged into the Yeshiva of America at an expenditure of $5,000,000, opens its Fall term today with an enrollment of more than five hundred students, the largest registration in its forty years' history.

The seminary, known as the Yeshiva, begins its last year in the present quarters, as next Fall will see the completion of its new high school building, the first of seven buildings to be completed under the $5,000,000 project started by American Jews for the Yeshiva of America. The institution will occupy three city blocks on both sides of Amsterdam Avenue, between 186th and 188th Streets. Construction work has already started and the cornerstone of the first building will be laid in October.

CATHEDRAL SERMON ON GOOD SAMARITAN

Nearly 2,000 Persons Hear Father Doheny of Holy Cross College Preach on Charity.

HE TRACES ITS PROGRESS

Many Visitors From Out of Town Attend High Mass and Afterward Inspect St. Patrick's.

Many visitors from out of town were among the 1,800 persons who attended high mass yesterday in St. Patrick's Cathedral. The mass was celebrated by the Rev. Bernard McQuade, assistant pastor, who returned from the Rome Holy Year celebration on Saturday night.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. William J. Doheny of Holy Cross College, Catholic University, Washington, who has been a visiting priest at the cathedral during the Summer. He took as his text the parable of the Good Samaritan and traced the development of Christian civilization with the increased belief in the virtues of sympathy and charity.

"In pagan religions we find a disavowal of the qualities of compassion and kindliness," he said, "for the ancient Romans and Greeks and even the Jews, believed that those traits were synonomous with weakness of character. They believed that to be strong, a man necessarily had to be individualistic, that he must stand alone and be sufficient unto himself. But later civilizations realized that no man can be independent; every person in the world is dependent upon his neighbor for a large part of his life, and one man's influence goes far in affecting the lives of those with whom he comes in contact.

"We know that a display of kindliness does not indicate weakness of character; rather it indicates strength and a proper social attitude. Charity to those in need is a great Christian virtue, and by charity I do not mean the blasé philanthropy which is so often nothing more than an advertisement for the giver, but the charity that is the expression of an innate desire to help others."

After the mass many of the congregation inspected the cathedral. At the rectory on Madison Avenue and Fifty-first Street preparations are being made for the return of Mgr. Michael J. Laveile, who sailed on a pilgrimage to Rome on May 24, and is returning on the Baltic, expected today.

HYLAN AIDS IN OPENING OF A NEW SYNAGOGUE

Mayor Hylan assisted in the opening of the new synagogue of the Congregation B'nai Jacob Joseph yesterday at Green Avenue and Patchen Avenue, Brooklyn. The building was formerly a Seventh Day Adventist church and before that was occupied by the Baptist denomination.

"I congratulate the congregation," said the Mayor from the pulpit, "and I was particularly gratified to have been invited to participate in the ceremonies. I congratulate the city on this newest addition to institutions seeking the inculcation of religious ideals. There are many evidences of progress in this city, and I can testify to the great contribution made by the Jewish people, who constitute one-third of our people.

"Morality, honesty and a desire for the common welfare and brotherhood is of inestimable value to any community, no matter what its size. No community recognizing the good influences exercised by institutions teaching obedience to divine and to human law can fail to appreciate how important a factor toward the maintenance of law and order is the work done by all religious bodies or organizations."

The congregation's synagogue used to be at 900 DeKalb Avenue and the members marched from there to the new edifice yesterday.

BAPTIZED IN HARBOR.

Plymouth Brethren Perform Ceremony Over 15 Near Sea Cliff.

SEA CLIFF, L. I., Aug. 23.—Fifteen men, women and children who reside in communities east of Chicago were baptized into the Plymouth Brethen, a religious order, by immersion in the waters of Hempstead Harbor here today. Hundreds of residents lined the boardwalk and beach as the initiates were surmerged near the private float on the estate of the late John T. Pirie, Chicago merchant, while a leader of the order intoned a brief prayer.

The baptism was a part of the program of the annual convention of the Plymouth Brethren, which has been in session at the open air tabernacle here for the past week and is to continue until next Sunday. More than 500 members from all parts of the East have been in attendance.

A children's service on the beach near the float and a sermon on baptism by John Hill, of New York, preceded the baptism. All of those baptized, five men, six women, three girls and a boy, were dressed in ordinary street clothes. The women were hatless, one or two of them wearing bathing caps.

One by one they filed down a raft leading onto the float and were assisted by two attendants in stepping into the water. The tide was on ebb and the water was about waist deep.

SEES TREND TO RELIGION.

Dr. S. Edward Young Says Church Must Grasp Opportunity.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 23.—The churches of America have before them a Winter rich in opportunity, according to the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, pastor of the Bedford Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, who delivered the sermon this morning in the First Presbyterian Church of Stamford.

"Never was the discussion of religion more nearly universal," he said. "The scientists and all religionists and some people not included in either class have had their minds directed to religious subjects of late. The absurd trial at Dayton, with its tragic aftermath, has rendered inestimable service in calling the attention of the general public to spiritual issues. Nothing is so hard to do in these days as to win attention to the things of the spirit. This attention has come at an interval between wars and political campaigns and great commercial crisis. If the Churches do not seize their chance they do not deserve to have another."

FOSDICK A BIGGER PERIL THAN DARROW, HE SAYS

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick is a liberal is more dangerous than Clarence Darrow as an agnostic, in the opinion of the Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Fort Worth, who spoke yesterday in the Tent Evangel, West End Avenue and Ninety-fifth Street. He said:

"Clarence Darrow and all the agnostics and unbelievers have no creed, no hope, no salvation and no redemption and they are frank enough to say so. A man has the right to be an agnostic if he so chooses. That was settled on July 4, 1776.

"The so-called liberalist that denies the supernatural in Christianity has no right to use the term Christianity. He is a wolf in sheep's clothing. He is Absalom sitting in the gate and stealing the hearts of Israel. He is Joab, the false friend who speaks pleasing words to his brethren while he thrusts the traitorous sword into the fifth rib. He is Judas Iscariot with 'Hallow Master' on his lips and the price of blood in his hands.

"Clarence Darrow believes that criminals should go unpunished, and Dr. Fosdick says, 'The youth of today should obey the law of self-expression. Both positions result in lawlessness. Modernism has never saved a soul or produced a revival. There are no doubt, many modernists who are Christians, but they were made Christians by fundamental Christianity. The false doctrines of the modernists will not make Christians of the coming generation.

"There are really but two denominations at present in the world, Christianity and paganism, believers and unbelievers—a separation is inevitable. How can two walk together except they be agreed? The separation has just begun, and the next five years will witness the greatest upheaval in the history of Christianity, during which time the world will have its greatest spiritual awakening."

PREACHES ON WORLD'S END.

H. A. Ironside Discusses Biblical Signs at Friends' Meeting House.

Three Biblical signs of the end of the world were discussed yesterday by H. A. Ironside, who spoke at the Friends Meeting House, 221 East Fifteenth Street.

"First," he said, "there is the return of the Jews to the land of Palestine and its deliverance from the authority of the Turk.

"Then, secondly: Scripture clearly indicates that in the time of the end there will be a great combination of the powers of Europe that sprang out of the old Roman Empire. Ten of these dominions are to be linked together in one great confederation. The present League of Nations is an indication of how this may soon be brought about.

"The third sign to which I would direct attention is the rapidly spreading apostasy in the professing Church of God. On every hand we find unblushing denial of the inspiration of the Bible and of the great truths of our most holy faith and this not merely on the part of infidels outside the Church, but, alas, on the part of those who have sworn to maintain the great doctrines of Scripture and who fill the pulpits and seminaries of evangelical denominations. Scripture predicts a great apostasy as the end draws near."

TALKS ON TEMPTATION.

The Rev. Howard E. Clarke preached yesterday in Mount Morris Baptist Church, 2,044 Fifth Avenue. He spoke on "The Problem of Temptation—How to Resist It."

"Every temptation," he said, "means a fight for character. In the face of the next temptation think of your character and say to yourself, 'Now I have a moral battle on my hands. I must fight and resist or my soul goes down in ignominious defeat.' The next point is that yielding never pays. No one feels better after yielding to temptation. No matter how attractive it may look before we yield, we feel afterward that we have been disappointed, duped, disillusioned.

"One of the strongest moral bulwarks is the faith that some one has in you—your boy, your girl, your wife, who believe that you could never do that which you are tempted to do. Say to yourself that you must be true for their sake because they believe in you.

"Moreover, if they should lose faith in you it will in the long run shake their faith in all goodness, and make it that much harder for them to resist their own temptations.

"The fifth and last consideration is a social one. What kind of world would this world be if everybody were to do regularly and habitually the thing which you are tempted to do now? There would result social and moral chaos. Others would feel that they have as much right to follow the same line as you—which is no right at all. Since such conduct would be socially and morally destructive, you are bound by the social obligation to make this world a decent place for others to live in."

CALLS PROHIBITION NO LONGER AN ISSUE

Pastor Asks Reform Leaders to Keep on With Their Educational Plans.

The Rev. O. T. Gilmore, who preached yesterday in Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, in 104th Street west of Broadway, said the time had come for a movement to get the minds of the people off prohibition. The experiment having proved to be a success, said the associate pastor, the agencies responsible for it should turn their attention to further uplift.

"No movement is much more conspicuous in our country than that of prohibition," he said. We have partially cleaned house and are still cleaning. The next step, it seems to me, is to gradually get the thinking of most of us off of prohibition, so far as our nation is concerned. For looking at the country as a whole the movement is a success and the mass of the people outside of a few of our cities have not one thought of returning to the liquor days.

"The lawlessness of the cities is setting them more firmly than ever for the new and still better conditions. In their thinking they are now ready for positive leadership that will talk less of the 'prohibitions' and enjoin the 'noble and wise ambitions.' It is a time for leaders who can fill their thought with the affirmative, men who will build up aspirations for the high qualities.

"This is what is actually occurring in many places. There are numerous communities where no preachers or other men on the platform have seen fit for even several years to deliver an address anything like the old prohibition, whisky and beer temperance speeches. Instead they are developing themes of thrift, wholesome recreation and amusement, better education, community cooperation, religious education and social betterment.

"In such communities education is going forward by leaps and bounds; social betterment is fulfilling many of the fondest dreams and a type of community spirit and government is reigning that was never known before 1918. This is psychologically what should occur throughout our nation. If we sit back at ease, since prohibition has in a sense succeeded, we may look for the return of a worse state of affairs. But if we will nationally take on the new, gloriously happy life—that is, compared to that of the liquor days—we will soon so enjoy the abundance of the new that there will be no thought of return to the old, even in the minds of the few carousing derelicts congregated in some of our cities.

"The working of the prohibition process in our nation is giving the forces of righteousness a long looked-for opportunity for a new and better national life just as the drilling and dynamiting of the face of Kings Mountain has given a golden moment for master hands to sculptor with fine instruments, new, noble and grand creations. Will we meet the responsibility" is the question?"

Rector of St. George's Advises Faith in One's Self.

"The Fashion of a Man" was the title of the regular weekly message issued yesterday by the Rev. Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's Episcopal Church, Stuyvesant Square. Dr. Reiland said:

"Nobody expects you to do more than you can do, but the world has a right to expect you to do your best, and in proportion as you do that without more selfishness than your imperfect human nature justifies you in showing you will be helpful. In about the same degree as you are helpful you will be happy.

"We hear a great deal about faith and there are many species of it, but one kind at least is most essential, and that is faith in yourself. One naturally comes by this if he is a worker in true and essential things. The store and stock of his achievements react upon his outlook, and they are a powerful incentive. The only faith fit to die with is the one you can live with. What we are and what we really desire to become has more to do with our faith than any proposition put into our minds. It is not from a creed in some mental pocket, but from the character of our personality as a whole that our inspiration comes.

"The culture of a true sportsman's fairness should rule our daily relations with others. This will carry with it a self-respect and a wealth of satisfaction which will be their own reward, and the leaden burdens of regret and remorse will not retard the lightness of our step nor spoil the brightness of our promise."

BOY SWIMMER DIES; DIVER BREAKS HEAD

DARING YOUTH NEAR DEATH

Charles Dubbins, 15 years old, of 129 Montrose Street, Brooklyn, was the youth who was drowned. He was swimming with his chums, William Kerkel and Alfred Haupt, in a creek at Bellmore, L. I., near the dock of the Bellmore Club. Dubbins got beyond his depth and his companions called for help. Patrolman Bateman of the Nassau County police ran to the creek, but arrived after the boy had gone down. He later recovered the body. Coroner E. T. Neu gave permission for the removal of the body.

While trying to outdo his companions in water exploits yesterday Joseph Lang of Webster Avenue, Bronxville, climbed to the top of the "The Chimes," an old structure about fifty feet high at Glen Island, and dived off. When he failed to come to the surface his companions dived in after him. They found him, but he was unconscious. He was removed to the New Rochelle Hospital, where it was said he had received a fracture of the skull and that there was little chance for his recovery. It is believed he struck a rock.

Two Brooklyn girls, each 17 years old, were taken to the Coney Island Hospital last night suffering from submersion after a rowboat in which they were riding with two young men had sunk in Gravesend Bay off the foot of West Twenty-ninth Street, Coney Island. They were Marie Hatton of 547 Sixth Avenue, and Helen Callahan of 5,715 Fifth Avenue. The condition of the Callahan girl is serious, the physicians said.

According to Miss Hatton, who was soon revived at the hospital, she and the Callahan girl had been dancing on a houseboat anchored in the bay near Twenty-ninth Street. Here they met two men, whom they knew only as "Jim" and "Harry." The latter suggested a boat ride. When the party was about thirty feet off the shore the boat sprang a leak and began to sink. The young men deserted their companions and swam ashore. The girls' screams, however, brought two youths in a canoe to their side. The youths swam ashore with the young women, who were taken into the houseboat unconscious. An ambulance took them to the hospital.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., Aug. 23.—Two fishermen were rescued from the ocean by Coast Guards after they had jumped overboard from a burning speed boat, about a mile and a quarter off shore, here early this afternoon. The men, George Dann and Michael Johnson of Belmar, were going north, planning to enter the Shark River Inlet, a mile north of here, when the gasoline tank exploded and set fire to their craft, the Christine, laden with fish and lobsters.

Coast Guards brought the two men ashore, and the boat later was towed in. It had burned to the water line. Hundreds of shore residents gathered bonitas and lobsters which had been partly cooked.

MINISTER IS DROWNED TRYING TO SAVE BOY

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Rev. Daxon Baird Miller, pastor of the Boundary Avenue Episcopal Church of this city, was drowned yesterday in an unsuccessful attempt to rescue from the South River his eleven-year-old nephew, Frederick Ridenour, of New York City. The boy had fallen from a motor boat from which he and the minister had been fishing near Annapolis.

Mr. Miller, fully dressed, dived in after the lad and was seen a few moments later swimming with the boy in his arms. The steering gear of the boat had become entangled, however, and before the craft could be turned about, both had disappeared.

Previous to his Baltimore pastorate, Mr. Miller had served in the pulpits of the Langdon and the Bruen Methodist Episcopal Churches of Washington. He was Chaplain in France during the war.

Bronxville Man and Son Drowned.

BOLTON, N. Y., Aug. 23 (AP).—J. Ormond Butler, aged 32, of Bronxville, N. Y., and his six-year-old son, J. Ormond Jr., were drowned today in Lake George, two miles north of Bolton when the canoe in which they were paddling capsized. The bodies were recovered.

FLOWERS TRAMPLED, HE KILLS PICNICKER

MIDDLETOWN, N. J., Aug. 23 (AP).—Enraged because his flower beds had been trampled, a farmer near here fired a shotgun into a truck filled with picnickers, some of whom were children, today, killing one man and wounding two others.

The dead man was named D'Angelo and one of the wounded men was his brother, Albert D'Angelo, of Carteret, N. J. The name of the other wounded man was not learned. The men who were shot were members of a party of thirty-five who were said to have been the guests of their assailant, Peter Ammaturo. Ammaturo, it was reported to the police, fled after the shooting.

As the truck was leaving the farm, Ammaturo complained that the children had ruined his flowers. When the D'Angelos offered him $10 to cover the damages, he is said to have become enraged and fired at the truck.

The slain D'Angelo's body was taken to Freehold while Albert D'Angelo was removed to a Perth Amboy hospital suffering from a wound in the leg.

BOOK IS REPUDIATED BY MRS. ROSA LEWIS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Mrs. Rosa Lewis, a noted culinary artist and proprietress of the Cavendish Hotel here, has repudiated a book concerning her career and the celebrities for whom she cooked, written by an American, Miss Mary Lawton, and published recently in America, according to The Daily Mail. The newspaper adds that the matter may be taken to the United States courts.

The book, which is entitled "The Queen of Cooks and Some Kings," has a preface wherein it is stated that the contents are a personal narrative related to the author by Mrs. Lewis and transcribed by a stenographer. In a statement published in the Daily Mail Mrs. Lewis is quoted as saying:

"The book is a travesty. Miss Lawton on her arrival from America sought to obtain information from me and my staff. One day I took compassion on her and gave her a few harmless facts for the purpose of a short magazine article. The interview lasted only twenty minutes, and I never had any other conversation with her.

"I learned that while I was on a visit to Norway typists, bookkeepers and personal servants who had been in my service were approached by her, and well-known Americans who are among my friends were canvassed extensively. Numerous cables of protest against preparation of the book under such circumstances were sent to the publishers and to Miss Lawton, but they were disregarded. I received a check and immediately returned it."

The book recounts numerous anecdotes of celebrities with whom Mrs. Lewis was acquainted, such as King Edward VII, former Kaiser Wilhelm and Winston Churchill.

BRITISH ARMY TO TEST LATEST WAR WEAPONS

Novel Tanks Will Be Tried and New Plans of Cooperation With Air Forces.

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP).—Army manoeuvres, the first to be held since 1913, will begin Sept. 22 in the Salisbury Plain area. Special importance is attached to them by the War Office, since they will serve as a "tryout" of new weapons and appliances evolved from the experiences of the war.

The terrain on which the "fighting" will take place is represented by a square having the towns of Reading and Devizes on the north, and Petersfield and Blandford on the south. Lord Cavan, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, will be director of the manoeuvres, with headquarters at Andover. The troops engaged will be known as the Army of Mercia and Army of Wessex.

New tanks will be tried out thoroughly for the first time, with several other new means of mechanical transport, while the highly important matter of cooperation between land and air forces will be dealt with in special experiments.

Chief umpire of the eastern force will be Lieut. Gen. Sir Charles Harrington of the northern command; the chief umpire of the western force will be Lieut. Gen. Sir Walter Braithwaite of the Scottish command.

Marshal Pétain and General Debemey, representing the French Army, are expected to be present with their staffs for a part of the manoeuvres. Field Marshal Earl Haig will be one of the chief guests of the Chief of the General Staff, and Sir Hugh Trenchard, Air Chief Marshal, will witness all the operations.

TEN-FOOT FALL BREAKS AIRPLANE LEAPER'S LEG

Parachute Carries Jersey Man Safely to Motor Truck, Which Topples Him to Injury in Road.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 23 (AP).—Lyman Ford of Lakehurst, N. J., made a half-mile parachute jump from an airplane today and landed safely atop a moving truck.

The roadbed was rough and the driver of the vehicle remained oblivious to Ford's efforts to attract his attention. Ford was bounced off and fell ten feet to the road, breaking his leg.

Ford, who is attached to the Lakehurst naval aviation base, was testing a new parachute with William Moran, who piloted the plane. Wind which deflected his course from the landing field on which he intended to alight was responsible for his unusual connection with the truck.

TWO MOLNAR PLAYS COMING

The production plans of the Charles Frohman company for the coming season, announced by Gilbert Miller yesterday, include two plays by Molnar, the Hungarian dramatist. The first of these, "The Glass Slipper," will be produced at the Guild Theatre in October, under the direction of Philip Moeller, who has also prepared the English text of the play. Theatre Guild members will be enabled to attend this play as part of their regular subscription season.

Wallace Eddinger, Roland Young and Phyllis Povah will have the leading rôles in "The Tale of the Wolf," the second Molnar play, which was done here some seasons ago in another adaptation, as "The Phantom Rival."

Further Frohman plans include the presentation of Irene Bordoni in "Naughty Cinderella," a new farce by Avery Hopwood; Marjorie Rambeau in "Antonia," by Melchior Lengyel, and Elsie Ferguson in "The Grand Duchess and the Waiter," by Alfred Savoir.

SAY BANDIT POSES AS GIRL.

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 23 (AP).—Rumors that John Troy, bandit gang leader, is slipping in and out of Worcester by automobile while disguised as a "flapper" persisted today, although police officials said they had received no positive information which would substantiate the rumors.

Troy is of slim, youthful build, and might adopt this feminine disguise with some measure of success, but the police say the young gunman would consider disguising himself beneath the "dignity" of the atmosphere which now surrounds him.

Some members of the police believe Troy is far away from Worcester while others assert he is in the city and will not leave until he has fulfilled his vow of vengeance on Patrolman Daniel J. Sullivan, who shot his pal, Walter Derosier, during a hold-up Friday morning.

Ex-Prince Joachim Leads a Band.

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 23.—The former Prince Joachim of Prussia, cousin of the former German Emperor William, appeared in a new rôle the other night. He made his début as the conductor of a band at Bad-Gastein, Salsburg, directing two of his own compositions with great success.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

An Opera Story.

SIEGFRIED, with Paul Richter, Margarete Schoen, Hanna Ralph, Theodor Loos, Hans Schlettow and others, based on the Nordic Sagas, directed by Fritz Lang; musical arrangement of Wagnerian score by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld. At the Century Theatre.

In "Siegfried," a pictorial version of the Nordic sagas which was presented before a distinguished gathering at the Century Theatre last night, there is, for the first time, more than a mere suggestion of the invasion of the sacred realm of opera. It cannot be claimed that this German production with the Wagnerian score will do much more than encourage film producers occasionally to do something more altruistic, as its method of treatment, its characters and the scenes will conflict with the opinions of those who are thoroughly familiar with the triology, who may have their own conceptions of heroic figures, gained from years of faithful attendance to opera. Nevertheless "Siegfried" is a worthy effort, remarkable in many ways and an achievement one should not criticize with flippancy. The story, as taken from "Valkyrie," "Götterdämmerung" and "Siegfried" is a serious and enviable accomplishment. One might anticipate that it would be dull, but though much of its contents is artificial—as the whole of this picture was virtually produced within the gates of the Ufa studio—the narrative itself creates a steady interest, and at times it is absolutely fascinating.

In a measure it is produced with a technique that belongs to old legends, and on this ground its failings may be overlooked. It matters not whether the characters are sufficiently convincing, as there is so much that is weird throughout this pictorial effort. But to take it as a narrative there are some entrancing incidents which are unfolded with a certain grace, aided greatly by the wizardry of the camera. There are some robust scenes pictured with artistic originality, and there are others where one is inclined to think that the narrative slips from the sublime to the ridiculous.

No trees deemed large enough could ever be found for the photographic effects in this strange story, so Fritz Lang, the director of "Siegfried" had to build nature by having gigantic sets built, which are quite impressive. Ogres, dwarfs and their ilk are beheld dwelling in a cave beneath the roots of one of these mammoth trees. There is the frightful Mime, the crafty blacksmith, jealously watching as Siegfried forges his true blade of steel. This creature of unkempt hair, ape-like features and repulsive mouth, decides to test the newly forged sword. He plucks a feather from the breast of a pheasant and blows it into the air and as it slowly descends he holds out the sharp blade; the feather falls on it and is cut in half.

Few of those who see this picture will ever forget the sequence in which Siegfried attacks the dragon in Woden Wood. The huge animal is anything but real. It moves its tail and it is supposed to drink. Its ugly feet are without life-like movement. Yet this monster gradually grows on you as you watch the unfolding of the film. Siegfried slashes at the dragon with his sword and, unlike St. George, this blond son of a king attacks the animal afoot. Once Siegfried's steel pierces the eye and the side of the beast, a miniature Niagara of blood spurts into the pool where the fiery dragon had been drinking.

After he has slain the monster Siegfried touches his lips with the blood, and he suddenly discovers that he can understand the language of birds and beasts. He hears from a bird that if he bathes in the dragon's blood he will be rendered invulnerable to any enemy's weapons. He lets the blood run over his body, and as he does so an olive leaf floats down and alights on his back, preventing that spot from being covered in the sanguinary bath, which is the keynote of the story.

Brünnehilde, the Amazonian Queen of Iceland, the termagant woman who eagerly arranged contests for her wooers, is at times a woman of striking stature and in other scenes she is only of a natural height. She looks almost too modern, with her shorn tresses, but, again, she lends her share of interest to the narrative. One wonders what will be the outcome of King Gunther's journey, and, therefore, the assistance rendered him by Siegfried's ability to cause himself to disappear is welcome to the viewer. This stretch is well filmed with double exposure of effects; these same photographic tricks enable other feats to be presented.

When Brunnhilde is about to land in Gunther's realm she and her consort walk to the shore on a gangway of shields held by thirty or forty men waistdeep in water. It is a stirring piece of work, and one which was roundly appreciated last night, a genuine applause came from the packed theatre. Another effective scene over which the audience enthused was that in which Siegfried is seen arriving at Gunther's castle. Heading his vassals—twelve kings—he waits on the drawbridge for the great gates to be thrown open. The bridge itself must have been thirty-five or forty feet high, and it had to be a structure of a certain strength to hold at least thirteen horses and thirteen men.

Kriemhilde, the graceful, fair woman, who wears her hair in two braids a little in front of each temple, is herself Junoesque, with big eyes and a straight and rather prominent nose. Margarete Schoen in this rôle is careful regarding her movements, and for that matter so are all the players. They have the tempo which goes with an effort of this type. It is to be presumed that Kriemhilde would in her day have made a valiant young heart beat, despite her inert appearance.

Paul Richter, a good-looking young man with even features and athletic body, gives a fine performance as Siegfried. He poses, but such must be the case. His postures are like those in old-time statues, and we presume that as it does not break the thread of the story it is typical of the legend. Hagen Tronge is effectively played by Hans Schlettow.

The music which for the most part was the Wagnerian score, was arranged by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, while Josiah Zuro conducted the orchestra composed of more than sixty Metropolitan musicians. It was what even the exacting and knowledgeful experts would have called a good orchestra.

Banks and Prison.

THE MAN WHO FOUND HIMSELF, with Thomas Meighan, Virginia Valli, Frank Morgan, Ralph Morgan, Charles Stevenson, Julia Hoyt, Lynn Fontanne, Mildred Ryan, Hugo Cameron, Victor Moore, Russell Griffin, Norman Trevor, John Harrington and others, adapted from a story by Booth Tarkington, directed by Alfred E. Green; "Richard Wagner," one of the Famous Music Master series; Riesenfeld's "Classical Jazz"; "An Evening On a Plantation," with the "Dixie Jubilee Singers." At the Rivoli.

Thomas Meighan's current pictorial offering, "The Man Who Found Himself," which now is on exhibition at the Rivoli, certainly is no better but perhaps no worse than his previous subject. In this new effort one is not exactly surprised to behold a temperarily unfortunate hero and a blackguard who for several years finds no obstacles in the path of his dastardly schemes. The name of Booth Tarkington is appended to this shallow story, but that author's style has been smothered in the operation of transferring this vehicle to the screen.

In the introductory sequences there is a clumsy effort to gain sympathy for Tom Macaulay's brother, Edwin, but later Tom, impersonated by Mr. Meighan, captures the heroic laurels by going to prison for a crime committed by his weak brother. Edwin is depicted behind the brass rails of a cashier's cage in a bank, and afterward Tom is pictured behind the iron bars of a prison.

Even in jail Tom turns out to be a fine character, an inmate who has the confidence of the warden. After a fling at hard work he is ordered to the gardening contingent, and eventually he has an office of his own. During the episode in the garden, one is introduced to two motely characters, who object to the thorns on the stalks of roses.

"That's what makes us appreciate them all the more," is the quick retort. One is naturally amazed at the swift action of the Bank Examiner, who, following information from Lon Morris, a rival financier, sends the inspectors to close the bank before they have discovered any shortage in the funds. Tom, who had earned some unpleasant notoriety in his quest for wealthy depositors, hears from Edwin that the brother has used the depositors' money with the hope of making a fortune on the stock market. Morris had promised to help Edwin, but he uses the information and then tells the weakling that he must get Tom's name on the note. So Tom goes to Morris to get the loan, and he in turn is trapped by the oily Morris.

Some of the scenes of prison life were pictured in Sing Sing prison, but they do not turn out to be much more interesting than the usual screen conception of prison life. Tom's eleventh hour escape to save the girl he loves from marrying Morris is by no means thrilling, and one wonders that he should have been pardoned after running away.

As usual in most of Mr. Meighan's pictures, the love theme is not especially convincing. Nora Brooks (Virginia Valli) is quick to condemn the hero, and subsequently she is married to Morris. Of course she never loved him, and only longed for Tom to be free! Getting rid of the villain is comparatively simple, as he has to go through exactly that which Tom experienced. The wily Tom, through his Sing Sing cohorts, steals a substantial sum from a bank and puts it in Morris's home. Then they pour their story into the Bank Examiner's ear. Morris, knowing that he is hoist with his own petard, essays to flee, but is shot.

So you see one can't say very much for this picture. It possesses little or no suspense, and the acting for the most part is only fair. Miss Valli has little opportunity to demonstrate her ability, as in the beginning she is glum, and in the end she is quite excited at being married one day and then seeing the hero the next. Frank Morgan is clever as the villain, and Lynn Fontanne is acceptable as Edwin's wife.

GOLDMAN HONORED AS CONCERTS CLOSE

HIS WORK IS PRAISED

Upward of 20,000 persons packed the campus of New York University last evening to say good-bye to Edwin Franko Goldman and his band at the last concert of their Summer season. No one can say exactly how many persons have enjoyed the generous gift of the Guggenheim family, but at least a million and a half must have attended throughout the Summer and many more have listened to the music of the band over the radio.

Mr. Goldman and his musicians last evening played one of his best programs, beginning with Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" and concluding with Liszt's second "Hungarian Rhapsody." The conductor was greatly applauded after every number, and was generous with his encores. Lotta Madden, the favorite soprano, won a double encore for the aria from "La Gioconda."

The moment for which everyone had been waiting came in the second part, when presentations were made to Mr. Goldman by Dr. Collins P. Bliss, director of Mechanical Engineering at New York University. Dr. Bliss praised Mr. Goldman's concerts on the Campus and their influence. He presented a set of silverware to the conductor on behalf of New York University and the public.

Francis Wright Clinton, who had offered to build a bandstand for the Goldman Band when Mount Morris Park site was considered, presented an umbrella in the name of the Harlem Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Owen Kildare gave some flowers for Mr. Goldman's mother, and the members of the Goldman Band, through Anthony Mulieri, President of the Musicians Mutual Protective Association, presented a traveling case to Mr. Goldman. A loving cup was handed to him from the music lovers of University Heights.

Mr. Goldman made a speech of thanks in which he reviewed the past season, saying how happy he had been to contribute to the enjoyment of the fine audiences that had attended his concerts throughout the Summer.

MUSIC NOTES.

The two week's season of opera at the National Theatre, Second and Houston Streets, beginning Aug. 29, is being sponsored by Cavaliere F. Acierno. The first week the operas will be: "Otello," "Rigoletto," "La Forza Del Destino," "Marta," "Traviata," "Lucia," "Masked Ball," "Carmen," "Aida," "Traviata," "Gioconda." Second week, "Lucia," "Trovatore," "Rigoletto," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Faust," "Samson and Delilah," "Martha" and "Aida."

So that everyone may have a seat so arranged that they will be able to see all parts of the stage, and to hear with ease, it has been decided to limit the sale of tickets for the Municipal Opera Company's presentation of Bizet's "Carmen" at the Polo Grounds, Sept. 2, to 10,000. Seats not directly in front of the stage will be eliminated, and no standing room will be sold.

THE WANDERER

(as narrated by Warren Nolan in The Evening Telegram)

"Ernest Torrence, William Collier, Jr., Greta Nissen, Tyrone Power, Kathlyn Williams, Wallace Beery, Kathryn Hill and George Rigas comprise the principals, with Collier as the star.

"It was he who mounted his trusty ass and hied him hence from the house of his father to the land of wild women and B. C. gold diggers. He wished to walk with kings and shake the common touch. Instead, he went for a joy ride and came back without a patch to his girdle.

"Greta Nissen, excellently and competently voluptuous throughout the picture, vamped him out of all his wealth and then cast him aside for a blustering butter and egg man from the sea, a handsome devil of a lad named Wallace Beery.

"It must have been a phenomenal feat to direct it, and even if it did not occur just that way it makes

Make Sound Investments Your Safeguard

To discriminate in favor of sound investments is not a matter of self-interest alone. It is, indeed, much more than that. It is indisputable evidence of your forethought in providing thus wisely for the future welfare of those dependent upon you.

Our experience in the investment business covers over half a century, and it is our policy, long established, to give to all investors, both private and institutional, the same degree of efficient attention.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Signs of the Times, the Stock Exchange and the Autumn Outlook.

The course of the markets during the past week has in no respect clarified the financial situation, except to define more unmistakably the character of the Stock Exchange speculation. The market has continued under the domination of professional operators who bid up stocks on no other basis than belief that they are going higher, and that any one who sells on speculation will be roughly handled. Wall Street would not be Wall Street if it did not continue to produce "rumor" and "argument" which, it is gravely alleged, were the real basis for a day's 5-point or 10-point advance in a handful of speculative shares.

But the rumors have been for the most part transparently manufactured, and the argument has an increasingly perfunctory sound. The financial community is not seriously asked to believe that a violent rise in "Mack Trucks," "Cast Iron Pipe," or "Havana Electric," when seasoned investment shares are hardly moving, is the inevitable result of a word by Mr. Coolidge on Federal tax reduction or of the release of Belgium from interest payments on its war debt. Such explanations were the result of ingrained habit; no one believed that the market was really paying attention to them.

Possibly still more characteristic is the Stock Exchange's professed attitude toward the more routine financial or industrial news. Most people readily admit that the good points in the general situation outweigh the bad points, but every one of the least experience is aware of how the crop estimates, the steel-production figures and the reports on forward orders would be interpreted in the market by speculative Wall Street, if the statements had been published when a "bear movement" was under way. One does not have to turn back far in recollection to recall a state of mind on the Stock Exchange in which a 22 per cent. reduction in the wheat yield of 1925, a 26 per cent. cut in daily steel output by midsummer as compared with March, a 33 per cent. smaller total of "unfilled steel tonnage" at the end of July than at the end of February, would have been recited as convincing evidence that the decline in stocks was warranted and was certain to continue.

It is not necessary to infer from this that the present stock market ought to be falling rapidly today. The expectations regarding the Autumn trade position, entertained and expressed by serious bankers and by business men who base their impressions on something else than the yagaries of the Stock Exchange, are enough to prove that valid grounds for encouragement exist. Current earnings of the railways, and the prospect of future earnings suggested by freight loadings quite unprecedented for the period, are tangible proof of trade activity. But the stock market, which long ago, by pushing prices above the highest level reached since the armistice, had "discounted" not only these visible results but pretty much all others that the imagination could conceive, is hardly in a position to contend that one or two encouraging reports of the kind ought to be "reflected" by further and still more violent advance above the previous top prices of the season.

The financial and business outlook is in various ways perplexing; mainly, perhaps, because the familiar weather-signs of trade are themselves conflicting. The time-honored tradition that the coming of trade prosperity should be indicated simultaneously by increasing steel production, larger railway traffic, accumulating "forward orders" and a rising volume of Clearing House exchanges, is difficult to apply. On the face of the returns, half of these indications might be supposed to point in one direction and half of them in the other. Even the weekly reports of the mercantile agencies seem to bear testimony exactly opposite to the figures of railway distribution of merchandise. Current reports from districts where nearly one-fourth of the early-sown wheat crop was Winter-killed are pitched in a key, not perhaps of discouragement, but at least of hesit-tion.

Consciously or unconsciously, the real basis for hopefulness in the mind of experienced watchers is their conviction that the country's trade is getting the benefit of the windfall of agricultural good fortune which befell the West and South in the Autumn of 1924. The results of such sudden enhancement of the country's income are not always or often felt at once, and that was bound to be particularly true when the first use made of the new wealth had to be to dispose of the long overhanging agricultural debt and "frozen credits." But in due course such a community comes to realize the vital change in its own position from the seeming hopelessness of a year or two ago, and the trade of its district rises at the moment when the banks have full command of their resources, for the first time since 1920.

Exactly how much this new order of things will mean to the country's general prosperity, how far it will revive activity in industries which are just now showing little but midsummer inertia, and to what extent the result will be affected by the less favorable harvests (offset by the higher agricultural prices) are questions which will hardly be determined except through the test of the Autumn months. But the Stock Exchange's "discounting" process has unfortunately left no room for accidents or disappointments.

CLIENTS OR CUSTOMERS

The term client signifies a personal and continuing relation between buyer and seller, whereas the term customer is apt to denote a more temporary connection.

While many of our new accounts are customers, it is our constant endeavor to render that type of service which gradually changes customers into clients. It is our desire to hold the clients we now have through service rendered, and add new clients continually through the same medium.

CONJECTURE ON THE LONDON BANK RATE

GOLD TAKEN FROM THE BANK

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Last week began with confident prediction of another reduction in the Bank of England rate, mostly because of the lower open market. Wednesday's news of the withdrawal of £571,000 of gold from the Bank of England caused a revision of views concerning the bank rate, so that when the rate was posted as unchanged on Thursday little surprise was expressed. Stock Exchange bank rate prophecies are, in fact, traditionally about as reliable as the average amateur weather forecast, and although disappointed by Thursday's decision to leave the rate unchanged the market finds no difficulty in putting its favorable forecast forward a week or two.

As a consequence all investment securities keep firm as a rock, with the undertone of the markets generally satisfactory. On the other hand, however, the money market naturally is bringing closer reasoning on the bank rate situation. It knows that most of Wednesday's gold withdrawal was for the Continent, and it does not fail to note that Continental State banks are now showing a disposition to increase their own gold reserves. It is also observed that, while American exchange keeps up remarkably well, the week's further slight decline in discount rates in London is tending to undermine sterling's firmness.

American Balances on Lombard Street.

There seems to be some disposition to make arrangements for transfer of a portion of the American balances from London to New York. Thus far the reduction of the bank rate to 4½ per cent. has not produced any ill effects, but the City knows that time is needed to show what influence the lower money rates in London are actually to have on these American funds.

In monetary matters, therefore, London is still linked to New York, and a waiting attitude is looked upon as the only policy in the present rather abnormal circumstances. If the New York rate were to decline the market would expect that the Bank of England rate would be lowered to 4 per cent. But it seems to the City unlikely that American money rates will fall with the Autumn trade requirements so near at hand.

Open market discount rates here have again got out of touch with the bank rate, owing to the feeling that the Bank of England may yet see its way to a further lowering of its rate.

Reduction in Fiduciary Currency.

Currency is returning rapidly as the holiday cash requirements dwindle. The Bank of England note circulation fell last week by £1,069,535 and the currency note issue declined £3,943,677, making a total reduction in both issues in two weeks of £10,347,532. Currency notes outstanding now aggregate £297,272,408, as compared with £301,216,085 at the end of last week and £305,484,190 two weeks ago.

The figure of two weeks ago, £305,484,190, was the highest point of the year to date, the lowest having been £281,165,917 on Feb. 28. The fiduciary issue is now £239,692,605, against £247,902,549 a fortnight ago, when the fiduciary issue rose to within £242,851 of the legal maximum.

LONDON'S LOWER BANK RATE

One Market Which Ascribes Recent Reduction to Trade Depression.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—The cause and probable results of the recent reduction of its rate by the Bank of England are still discussed. In this market the reduction has been considered mostly as a concession to the unfavorable British business situation. It was made technically possible only by the influx of Dutch and Russian gold into the bank.

Those receipts were not continuous, however, the shipments from Amsterdam having been effected only with a view to making the Dutch bank's gold holdings a source of profit. They have consequently had no bearing on the exchange situation.

FALL IN GERMAN STOCKS

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—The Berlin stock market has touched a new low record. The Frankfurter Zeitung's index of prices for dividend-paying stocks as of Aug. 14 worked out at 67.8, against 69.71 a week earlier, 111.37 on Jan. 31, and 100 at the beginning of the year.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—In the generally cheerful attitude of the French financial market one distinctly unpleasant development persists. This is the rise in wholesale prices, which, contrary to the normal movement at this time of the year, has continued during the Summer months.

On the basis of 100 for the average commodity price of July, 1914, the wholesale index rose from 554 at the end of June to 569 at the end of July. It was 514 last January and 486 a year ago.

BERLIN THINKS STINNES FORTUNE IS ALL LOST

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—The conflict between the German bankers and Edmund Stinnes continues to unsettle business in such degree that even a sudden abundance of short-term money offered at low interest rates last week left the stock market practically unaffected. The banking syndicate declared positively that it will be able to carry through successfully the liquidation of the Stinnes concerns, but this is interpreted in banking circles to mean only that the concern's assets are sufficient to insure the syndicate against losses on its guarantee—not necessarily that the assets will cover all outstanding debts.

The present outlook, as seen by the banking community, is that Clara Stinnes, the widow and sole heiress of Hugo Stinnes, whose fortune in March, 1924, was estimated by Berlin bankers to be $100,000,000, will be compelled to surrender everything to the creditors of the concern. A great part of the loss is ascribed to the fact that the Stinnes crisis occurred at a moment when shares of steel, coal and engineering stocks were depreciated to less than half of their Boerse value of January.

The Socialist newspaper Vorwärts asserts somewhat maliciously that the syndicate is nervous lest it fail to secure the commission which it is charging for its intervention. But men in the heavy industry of Western Germany are also inclined to sympathize with Edmund Stinnes as against the bankers, on the alleged ground that the banks are using their "money monopoly" in order to maintain high interest rates and to bring industry into full subjection to the banking power as before the war.

INCREASING ESTIMATES OF EUROPE'S HARVESTS

France Now Hears Predictions That No Imports May Be Necessary.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—The estimates of the French cereal crops are now taking more and more satisfactory shape. At the close of the week the belief prevailed that the highest yield lately predicted may be reached, in which case France would not need to import any foreign wheat during the coming season.

Generally it is now believed that the French wheat crop will reach 324,000,000 bushels, or about the same as in 1921 and 42,000,000 to 48,000,000 in excess of the harvest of the past two years. Prices of wheat have been steadily falling, with the spot market bringing 119 to 120 francs per quintal of 3.6 bushels, as against 140 francs early in August.

High Premise From Central Europe.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Favorable crop reports continue to come in from Central Europe. The Austrian crop report is excellent. The harvest of rye will cover the whole of Austrian home consumption, whereas only 70 per cent. of it was covered by the crop of 1924. The wheat crop will cover 40 per cent., as against 30 per cent. last year.

The official report for Rumania estimates a wheat export of 59,914 tenmetric ton carloads out of 289,014 estimated for the total crop. Bulgaria's grain crop is officially estimated at 3,500,000 tons, against 1,950,000 tons last year. In Czechoslovakia the crop of sugar beets is stated to be exceptionally large, but with the lowest sugar content yield in any of the last five years.

LONDON PLEASED WITH BELGIAN SETTLEMENT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—After breaking rather badly on the reported hitch in the Belgian debt negotiations, Belgian exchange has rallied substantially on the settlement reached so promptly during the last week. This improvement reflects City opinion on the agreement. What may be termed the "human touch" in the settlement has left a pleasant impression in financial quarters; but while the same sentiment may conceivably tinge the American negotiations with France, financial London would be surprised if France were to secure anything like such satisfactory terms.

America's strictly business policy in settling war debts may, it is felt, yield to private sentiment to a considerable extent, but politically the general attitude is thought to be unchanged, and France will, it is believed, be dealt with as much on a capacity-to-pay basis as other debtors. One aspect of these settlements which is claiming attention is the eventual cumulative effect upon the monetary and exchange position by the large aggregate payments which will ultimately have to be made. This may well prove a source of inconvenience and strain to London.

FRANCE AND AMERICAN DEBT

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Since the announcement of the debt-settlement terms allowed by the American commission to Belgium, discussion of the possible arrangement for France has been revived. The estimate now made in this market is that, if the conditions granted to Belgium are applied to the French debt, its annual payment during sixty-two years would be $95,000,000 to $100,000,000, increasing from about $30,000,000 in 1926 to $100,000,000 after 1986.

If, on the other hand, the conditions arranged for the British debt were applied to France, the annuity would amount nearly to $70,000,000. The feeling is very strong that this latter sum, added to the £15,000,000 or £20,000,000 claimed by Great Britain and due for service on our foreign commercial debts, would create a very difficult burden on the French budget, even without considering the obstacles in the way of making transfers.

FLOW OF GOLD INTO GERMANY CONTINUES

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—The Reichsbank's policy of increasing its gold reserve is being steadily put into effect. The bank's return of last week, covering the position of Aug. 15, showed the addition of approximately 1,000,000 marks in gold. Dr. Kurthermann, a well-known financial expert, writes to the Berliner Tageblatt that the Reichsbank's impending requirements of gold will be so large that they can be met only through a new foreign loan.

He estimates that the circulation of all currencies in Germany will rise from the present figure of 4,808,000,000 to 6,000,000,000.

Since the Rentenbank's part of the circulation will be wholly exchanged for Reichsbank notes during the next nine months, it is figured that "gold cover" will be wanted for the full 6,000,000,000, less 1,000,000,000 marks which will be provided from coinage.

The Future Currency Reserve.

Since the minimum legal cover for outstanding Reichsbank notes is 40 per cent., the bank would under such circumstances require a reserve of 2,000,000,000 marks, or, with a margin for emergency, 2,500,000,000 marks. The present reserve of gold and exchange is about 1,700,000,000 marks; therefore the conclusion is 800,000,000 marks of new gold must be acquired. In this calculation the gold cover and the exchange cover are treated indiscriminately, because the policy of the Reichsbank President is to convert all exchange holdings into gold.

Reichsbank Director Fuchs gives me the following details of gold actually purchased abroad for the Reichsbank since the Spring of 1924, when the institution's reserve reached its lowest point: From New York 365,000,000 marks were obtained, of which 155,000,000 came from the Federal Reserve Bank and 210,000,000 was procured from the Morgans. From England 141,000,000 marks was acquired, and from Sweden 90,000,000 marks, while various smaller purchases aggregated 33,000,000 marks.

Deutsche Bank and German Market.

The past week witnessed temporary activity in the Boerse on the side of rising prices, and on Friday the market closed firm. The Deutsche Bank's monthly circular protests against the pessimism prevailing on the stock market and asserts that unfavorable factors are habitually exaggerated and favorable factors ignored. The bank comments severely on the activity of "bears" in circulating and spreading untrue rumors.

Most bankers take the ground, however, that no recovery can reasonably be effected until the Stinnes liquidation has been concluded.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—The statement of Dutch foreign trade for June, which has lately been published, shows that imports exclusive of gold, amounted to 183,000,000 guilders and exports to 124,000,000 guilders, leaving the still considerable import excess of 59,000,000 guilders. During the first six months of the year imports were 1,187,000,000 guilders and exports 842,000,000, leaving an import balance of 347,000,000 guilders as against 391,000,000 in the first half of 1924.

The excess of gold exports for the six months of 1925 were 47,000,000 guilders. There is a feeling, however, in leading commercial circles that Holland is entering upon better conditions in the field of foreign trade and that the tendency henceforth should be more favorable.

DISPUTE ON GERMAN TRADE.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—In reply to the attack of ex-Treasury Minister Gothein on the accuracy of the German trade statistics, which has given rise to widespread discussion of the foreign trade balances in the press, Director Susat of the Federal Statistical Bureau insists that the import figures are reliable and the export figures within 2 per cent. of exactitude. Critics of the statements retort, however, that while the declarations of exporters are no doubt correct as to invoices, the export totals are kept down by the widespread dumping of coal, steel and paper at less than home prices.

This system will be aggravated by the policy of the steel syndicate, which has decided to double and in some cases treble the export bounties of manufacturers and consumers of steel.

DUTCH PRICES ARE LOWER.

But Commodity Average Has Maintained Generally Stable Level.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—The movement of commodity prices in Holland has been slight during the past month or two, but shows a decline from the earlier months of the year. The latest monthly index number worked out at 153, against 151 in each of the two preceding months, and 158 and 160 in February and January respectively.

A year ago the average was 151 and the average for the whole year 1924 was 156. In 1913 the general average was 576. A decline in Dutch prices during the summer is usual, hence the general downward trend has attracted little comment.

EUROPE LOOKS ASKANCE AT OUR STOCK MARKET

LONDON, Aug. 23.—London's chief concern over the sustained speculative activity in Wall Street is not as to whether this is or is not justified by the actual business outlook, but the effect which it may have upon the money situation. It is hoped here that the apparent complacency of the American money market will not be disturbed by having to impose a check upon stock market extravagances, because our own monetary program is still framed largely upon the New York position.

Nevertheless, it is felt here that if it is cheap money, rather than a brilliant business outlook, which forms the real basis of the present exuberance of the New York stock market, then the mere indication of tightening money would probably act as a deterrent and correct a position which seems at the moment to have become risky.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—The speculation for the rise on the New York Stock Exchange is regarded by leading Dutch financiers as somewhat exaggerated. However favorable the situation in the American building trades and motor car industry may be, the steel industry and the American crop situation are possible sources of doubt, and the feeling of financial Amsterdam is, therefore, that the American market's position is more or less artificial.

This impression is emphasized by evidence that the large American export surplus during the past year was entirely counter-balanced by credits granted by the American market to foreign countries. Even at the present moment it is believed that American gold credits of $600,000,000 are outstanding in favor of England, France, Italy, Belgium, Sweden and Denmark.

SHARP RECOVERY IN THE PARIS STOCK MARKET

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Easy money prevailed at the half-monthly Bourse settlement at the beginning of last week, as a result of the heavy professional selling of stocks the week before which left plenty of available funds in the hands of traders. Early in the week a rather wide recovery occurred in the principal stocks, but this was promptly stopped by strong intervention by financial interests which were opposed to further rise in foreign securities.

Parallel movements occurred in the exchange market where sterling, after selling at 105 francs to the pound, reacted under the same intervention and went to 103½. All this indicates that the Paris market is under strong control and that few wide fluctuations are to be expected in the near future. The greater stability of the franc is also helped by decrease in commercial buying. French rentes were very quiet during the week holding close to their former level. The 5 per cents and 6 per cents, however, were more active with an upward tendency.

LONDON BANK'S RESERVE AT HIGHEST OF YEAR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The position of the Bank of England remains sufficiently satisfactory. The net outgo of gold for the week reduced the Bank's gold holdings by £224,000, but this left them at the highest figure ever reached until the end of last July, and £8,200,641 above the holdings at the end of April, when gold payments were resumed.

Furthermore, a substantial drop in the note circulation offset the loss of gold; the banking reserve increased by £845,471 to £39,598,830, the highest of the year, while the ratio of reserve to deposit liabilities rose from 30.6 per cent. to 31.2 per cent.; the latter figure being, except for two weeks in July, the highest of the period. No gold was taken in by the Bank of England last week. Withdrawals for export amounted to £636,000. Of the exports £45,000 went to the Straits Settlement, £45,000 to India and £566,000 to unstated destinations.

JULY SURPLUS REVENUE IN GERMANY $14,970,000

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—Germany's public revenue as stated for July was 882,872,100 marks and expenditure was 620,771,700, so that the surplus for the month amounts to 82,901,400 marks. The revenue does not include the July taxes pledged for reparations, but does cover those of June.

The Finance Ministry estimates the deficit for the current financial year at 385,000,000 marks. In that estimate, however, the taxation yield is put materially below what now seems the probable sum. Against the increased revenue, however, there will probably be new, although non-recurring, liabilities for compensation and other claims arising out of the war.

As for the reparation payments, it is now stated by the Railroad Corporation that its operations for the first year will fully provide interest on the reparation bonds, also a sufficient surplus to create the legally required reserve.

TERMS OF BELGIAN DEBT RELIEVE PARIS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—When the franc declined early last week the weakness was ascribed to speculative selling from Holland and Germany, on reports that Belgian negotiations over the debt were meeting with great difficulty and that, consequently, the chances for France to make a good settlement had become more doubtful than ever. News of the agreement between the United States and Belgium, together with strong support by the Bank of France, put an end to this speculative foreign selling of the franc and to purchases of sterling by Paris. It is not, however, thought likely that the franc will be pushed any higher during subscriptions to the gold coupon loan, as the Finance Minister himself appears desirous of avoiding any considerable fluctuations during this period.

It is now considered almost certain on the French market that subscriptions to the new conversion loan will be extended beyond Sept. 5, which had been originally fixed as the final subscription date. In official circles it is considered that a month's postponement of the closing of the books would be only a fair offset to the unfavorable influence thus far exerted by the bank clerk strike, which in fact appears to be nearing its end.

The only evidence regarding the success of the loan up to this time is that, despite the temporary difficulties which have affected the sale of the new bonds, the Treasury's situation is shown to be satisfactory. Maturities of the national defense bonds have not been troublesome and the renewal of the floating debt appears to be easily arranged. The latest Bank of France statement showed that the State had been able to repay 125,000,000 francs more on its debt to the bank during the week.

The agreement on the Belgian debt is regarded in the French market as a favorable incident. The market's feeling is that, although the American Debt Funding Commission felt obliged to declare that the favorable treatment of Belgium was not a precedent, but was based on "moral obligations" incurred by President Wilson, nevertheless it gave some hope that France also may be treated with consideration.

The attitude of banking circles still is that the French Government has a valid argument in the fact that the war debt, amounting in principal to $2,828,000,000, with $800,000,000 back interest, would have been arranged long ago if France had not been compelled to use all her resources for reconstruction of the war-devastated regions when Germany broke faith on reparation payments. It is also felt that since the United States and England both exerted strong pressure on France for a considerable reduction in Germany's indebtedness as regards not only interest but principal, the present negotiations cannot omit to take equal account of the French capacity for payment.

LOWER GERMAN BANK RATE NOT CONSIDERED

Reichsbank President Regards Credit Situation in Germany Still Unfavorable.

As reported by the German newspapers, the statement of Dr. Schacht to the Reichsbank explaining why it is impossible to reduce the bank rate emphasized the fact that there had been no decrease in demand for credit, the interest rate on the German market, which had declined between January and the end of April, having tended upward during the past three months. Regarding the Reichsbank's policy of restricting credit, he stated that the opposition which had been shown to that policy in the beginning had now practically disappeared.

No reduction in the bank rate, he declared, can be considered in face of the strong demand for foreign exchanges in the German market, which Dr. Schact ascribes partly to the unfavorable foreign trade balance, but largely also to the difficulties of renewing short-term credits at home. He stated that while the foreign currency reserve of the bank now exceeds its gold reserve, the relation will soon be changed through drawing of Germany's foreign gold balances.

DECLINE IN AVERAGE PRICES

Weekly "Index Number" Lowest Since June.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 23.—Professor Irving Fisher's index number of American commodity prices last week, based on 100 as the average of 1913, is 158.7, which compares with 160.6 a week ago, 161.4 two weeks ago, 160.8 three weeks ago, and 160.4 four weeks ago. This week's average is the lowest since June 20.

The highest weekly average reached this year to date was 164.4 on Jan. 31, which was also higher than any point reached in 1924; the lowest was 154.1 on May 3. Last year's high point was 156.7 on Dec. 27; its lowest 142.8 on June 29. The highest percentage since the war was 247 in May, 1920; the lowest, 130, in January, 1922.

Crump's British index number, as cabled for the past week, is 152.2, comparing with 153 the preceding week, 152.9 two weeks before, 153.7 three weeks before, and 151.9 four weeks before. The averages of 166.5 on Jan. 10 was the highest reached this year to date; the lowest was 149.6 on June 27.

Increased Czech Railway Traffic.

The monthly statement of car loadings on the railways of Czechoslovakia shows an increase as compared with the same month last year of 37,369 cars for inland traffic, against a decrease of 1,204 in traffic across the border.

TWO VIEWS OF TRADE DEPRESSION IN ENGLAND

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 23.—In relation to the British trade depression, business experts in this market hold that recovery of English trade has been retarded by a too speedy restoration of sterling to prewar parity, this being particularly true of the steel and metal branches of manufacture. France and Belgium, with their depreciated exchanges, are able to be easily underselling the British manufacturers.

Germany has herself been confronted with the same trouble, but has partly averted it through the fact that her protectionist system has enabled her to maintain high prices at home while using the profits to subsidize cheap exports.

Affected by World's Reduced Buying Power.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—Financiers in this market believe that the trade depression in Great Britain has no connection with the resumption of gold payments. The causes for the depression as seen here arise first from the difficulties of the mining industry, which have been only postponed by the Government's intervention. To Holland, the actual cause of the mining difficulties seem to be the greater use of electricity on the Continent, also better facilities of liquid fuel. The British monthly coal exports, which are now on a basis of 43,000,000 tons yearly, against 73,000,000 tons in 1913, are making a difference of £35,000,000 at the present low prices.

It is also felt that British industry is greatly affected by the reduced purchasing power of the world's market, especially for textiles, which has hurt the British cotton industry. For these reasons it is believed that the British trade depression will not be easily terminated.

LONDON MORE DOUBTFUL OVER GOLD MOVEMENT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The withdrawals of gold from the Bank of England last week were not in themselves of great importance. They have, however, served as a reminder that gold is now more likely to leave the Bank of England than to flow in. Conditions are still so far from normal that the Autumn gold movements are nowadays almost impossible to gauge. In pre-war days there was a seasonal influx and efflux, the Spring almost invariably bringing gold to London and Autumn sending it abroad again.

The City does not overlook the fact that much of the gold which has been received by the Bank of England has come quite irrespective of the exchange position, and it has already been demonstrated that gold often goes out, although not in large quantities, when exchange is "opposed" to such a movement. The actual exchange situation, therefore, is no sure guide concerning the possible or probable gold movements.

All that the market hopes for is that in those directions where the position approaches very nearly to normal, conditions will so shape themselves that gold requirements for export will be moderate. In that regard it is believed that the banking cooperation between London and New York will go a long way toward eliminating any risk of important exports of gold from London to the United States.

RUBBER MARKET STEADIER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The rubber market is steady, and the steadiness is resulting in an improved demand from consumers. This is being met freely, as the premium on spot delivery is still very attractive and the price satisfactory to producers. Speculation is more or less in abeyance, the bulk of the current orders representing actual requirements of consumers.

Stocks increased slightly last week, but still the amount is only 5,095 tons, against 50,332 a year ago. The market is rather amused at the attempt to boom activities in Liberia; attempts hitherto to produce high-class rubber in that country have notoriously been far from successful. Rubber for delivery over next year is still in very good demand around 2 shillings 3 pence.

Large manufacturers take the view that even with full production the 1926 market is unlikely to be swamped by overproduction and that 1927 will again see a scarcity.

HOPEFULNESS IN THE WEST.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Business conditions in the West show little change, and while many leading bankers and others are talking extremely optimistically regarding the outlook, they are keeping a weather eye on the corn crop, the big money yielder of the West. Insomuch as a large crop seems practically assured in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana and Ohio, the predictions are not likely to go amiss, and the high price being received for Spring wheat in the Northwest more than offsets the smaller yield of that grain there in the aggregate.

Dry goods are being taken rather freely and sales the past week were in excess of those of the previous week and were well above those of the last year.

The expected increase in the demand for steel independent of the railroads has not materialized as yet, and while there is a tendency to shade prices in some instances, this is not general, and consumption is holding up well, with an increase in the output.

Rumania's Wheat Surplus.

The Rumanian Minister of Agriculture estimates that the present wheat harvest of the country will yield a surplus of 600,000 tons available for export.

CONVERT HIGH-RATE LOANS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—The reduction of the Bank of England's discount rate on Aug. 6 has had no influence on the Dutch financial situation. The stock of gold in the Bank of Netherlands decreased 5,000,000 guilders by the last statement, offset by a decrease of the same amount in foreign bills. The Amsterdam money market has in fact been somewhat firmer, partly because of higher credits on transactions in German commodities, but also because of preliminary arrangements for financing grain importations. The note circulation last week decreased 14,000,000 guilders and the ratio of gold reserve rose to 47 per cent., or 50 per cent., if gold and silver are both included.

The stock market shows much resistance to declining tendencies. Shares of rubber companies, after their prolonged decline, have had a sharp recovery, expectations being generally hopeful. But dealings in these shares have become of minor importance, being superseded lately by the increasing demand for stocks of sugar companies, which have advanced rapidly. The Handelsvereeniging of Amsterdam rose from 496 on Aug. 13 to 545 on Aug. 20. Another stock, the Anton Jurgens Vereenigde Fabrieken, which had declined two years ago to 26, has now risen to 130, owing to better business results.

Furthermore, the attitude of the bond market is very favorable. Practically all 6 and 7 per cent. loans have now been converted into 5 per cents and The Hague has just issued a 4½ per cent. loan with much success. The mortgage rate has declined in one year from 6½ per cent. to 5.

OUTCOME OF FRENCH LOAN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 23.—The prediction is guarded here concerning the probable results of the French Government's conversion loan. In general, the amount is considered as too large to warrant expectation of complete success. On Sept. 25 more than eight billion francs of temporary indebtedness fall due for payment, and on Dec. 8 something over ten millions, which are likely to put another strain on the Treasury resources.

On the other hand, it is admitted that the guarantee of interest payments on the basis of prevailing rates for sterling exchange will act as a strong stimulant for subscriptions.

RISING COTTON ESTIMATES.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23.—If today's Government cotton report conforms to trade estimates, it will exceed the Washington forecast of a fortnight ago by more than half a million bales. The average of the dozen or more private reports issued during the week as to condition is 63 per cent., of normal and the average of the crop indications is 14,111,000 bales. The Government's estimate of Aug. 8 was 65.6 for condition and 13,566,000 for indicated yield.

That the private authorities have made the crop indication as large as they have is due entirely to the "inflated pars" prepared by the Government for the report to be based on conditions existing Aug. 16.

The use of these pars forces the working out of a crop indication much higher than the indicated crop given out by the Government in the report of two weeks ago, despite the fact that the condition averages show more or less deterioration for the period.

COTTON CONSUMPTION HIGH.

Exports Help to Offset Heavy Movements to Market.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 23.—While the statistics available show that the new cotton crop is moving to market in much larger volume than usual at this early date, they also show that consumption is keeping up at a much higher rate than last year. Even the exports since August are considerably ahead of last year, while the daily records of sales in Southern markets show that cotton is being bought freely, particularly in the Texas markets.

Despite the liberal movement of new cotton and the comparatively heavy sales there has been little hedge selling in the contract markets. Friday's advance of about twenty-five points, however, brought out rather freer hedge selling, indicating probably that the interior has been merely waiting for a proper opportunity to place the hedges to advantage.

BEEF DROPS $2 IN THE WEEK

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—A drop of 65 cents in the average price for cattle was a feature of the livestock markets the past week. The break was not entirely unexpected, as choice cuts of beef had advanced to a point where consumption was curtailed owing to the relatively low price of pork and mutton. As compared with a week ago, steers are off 50 cents to $2, while butcher stock felt the keen competition with rangers and declined 25 cents to $1.

Receipts of rangers for the week of 12,000 were the largest at this season for six years or more. Feeders are being taken on a fairly liberal scale. The average price of cattle the past week was $11.75 compared with $12.40 the previous week; $9.75 last year, and $11 two years ago.

The quality of the week's run of hogs was poorer, and the demand largely for light weights, while heavies ruled inactive, with the average weight of arrivals 240 pounds, the heaviest of the season, compared with 245 pounds the previous week, and 245 pounds last year.

The market was unsettled, with a sharp break early in the week and a recovery later, despite leading packers fighting the advance. The average price was $12.85 against $13.25 the previous week; $8.30 last year and $8.10 two years ago.

Sheep prices declined 20 cents for the week, to an average of $6.80, compared with $8.50 last year, while lambs were 10 cents lower at $14.90, but 50 cents higher than last year. Feeders continue to pay higher prices than killers.

HEAT AND BOLL PEST HALT COTTON BREAK

LARGE CROP IS FORECAST

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 23.—The past week in the cotton contract market has been one of the dullest experienced in a long while. This condition has been due partly to uncertainty as to what the next bureau report will show, but largely also to the fact that with a comparatively large crop in prospect, coupled with a liberal early movement to market, there is a disposition to expect declining prices, and the general public does not usually take hold of any commodity while on the down grade.

Despite the dullness of the market and the disposition of traders to look for a crop in the neighborhood of 14,256,000 bales, there has been very little enterprise on the part of those bearishly inclined, owing primarily to the uncertainty that always attaches to a Government report, and in the second place to the fear that because of the recent extreme heat and dry weather over a good portion of the central and eastern division of the belt there has been some fear engendered that the crop east of the Mississippi River may not turn out as favorable as seemed likely a few weeks ago.

Many sections of the central and eastern divisions have been suffering from drought for some time, and a large portion of these sections has experienced during the past week the hottest weather known in many years. In fact, the thermometer has made new high records probably for all time in many localities in the eastern belt. The heat has been great also in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas and the crop is believed to have deteriorated considerably in these States as a result. Of course, in many portions of Central and Southwestern Texas the crop was already so far gone that the heat of the past week could not do more damage than had already been done.

Although recent weekly Government weather reports have rather minimized the damage done by the boll weevil, private observers have recently reported that the insects have already taken a heavy toll in parts of Louisiana and Mississippi, and even in sections of the Atlantic Coast States. A consideration of these facts has served to discourage bearish initiative, and even to cause a good deal of short coverings.

BANKERS TO MEET SEPT. 28.

The annual convention of the American Bankers' Association will be held from Sept. 28 to Oct. 1 in Atlantic City on the Steel Pier. The Hotel Traymore will be general headquarters, where the delegates will register and receive credentials.

"The American Bankers' Association was organized in 1875," says William E. Knox, its President, in a statement issued yesterday. "There were then about 3,000 banks in the country with aggregate capital and surplus of $850,000,000 and deposits below $2,000,000,000. Today there are about 30,000 banks, with capital funds of $7,000,000,000 and deposits above $50,000,000,000. More than 22,000 of these banks are members of the association."

ASK MINIMUM SALARY LAW.

Government Employes Will Consider Demand on Congress at Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—A demand that Congress fix $1,500 as the minimum salary for Government workers will be made to the eighth general convention of the National Federation of Government Employes to be held in Boston, beginning September 7.

In connection with this demand the convention will be asked to bring pressure to persuade Congress to adjust government salaries to a point where they will be more nearly comparable with those paid in private industry. It will be pointed out as an argument that a great number of technical experts are constantly resigning from the Government service to seek far more remunerative positions with commercial concerns.

Among the questions which will come up for consideration at the convention will be the necessity for a proper administration of the Classification Act of 1923, amendment of the salary schedules contained in this act for Federal departments and independent establishments of the Government, classification of all field employes, and liberalization of the Federal retirement law.

PRICES IN STEEL CLOSE BUT FIRM

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 23.—In the structural trade it is being said that some of the business lately secured was brought to placement by the naming of particularly close prices, which makes an interesting commentary on the suggestion made in other quarters that one reason for the railroads being such light buyers of freight cars for more than four months past is that they want lower prices. Yet the steel mills are certainly willing to sell bars, shapes and plates to freight car shops at as low prices as they make to fabricating shops.

At no time was there much talk of there being anything like a general advance in finished steel prices, and at present there is practically no talk along that line. In fact, it is doubtful whether bars, shapes and plates, taking the whole distribution area into account, are altogether as high as a fortnight ago. In strictly Pittsburgh territory there is no decline.

In sheets the market is failing to record further stiffening. Something was gained recently by the elimination of extreme cut prices, but mills that refrained from following other mills in the latest price advances do not find themselves filling up rapidly. It seems that a good bit of forward business was done before the marking up of prices.

Mills are now more concerned with swelling the volume of tonnage and cutting costs than in manoeuvring for higher prices. To advance prices they need backlogs, and buyers do not care to buy ahead, finding the policy of hand to mouth buying quite satisfactory. The exception to mills being able to fill up is the lap weld department of the pipe mills, but as pipe prices have had no general decline since the advance that ended in April, 1923, the case is not in point. Advances if made should be in the products that have had such sharp declines in the past two years.

Pig iron pursues the even tenor of its way, neither yielding in price nor stiffening as a result of the stronger outlook for coke. Last week's activity in coke, produced chiefly by eastern non-metallurgical buying, influenced two furnace interests to such an extent that they hastened to cover for fourth quarter, at $3.50 and $3.75 respectively, when current contracts are in the neighborhood of $3, but in the past week the coke market has suddenly become dull again. The advanced price of $3.25 an spot furnace coke easily holds.

CORN CROP OUTDOES THAT OF LAST YEAR

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—The corn, oats, and rye markets have been holding within narrow limits for some time, with a light speculative trade. The corn crop is gradually nearing maturity and only an early frost will now damage the grain in many sections, and as the crop is regarded as one to two weeks ahead of normal over a large area, it is believed that the quality this season will be somewhat above the average.

Owing to the small yield in many States, Iowa and Illinois probably will be called on to furnish the bulk of the commercial grain this year, Oklahoma, Kansas and South Dakota having small crops, while Nebraska will have little more than is actually required. Some new grain will come from Indiana, while Ohio and Missouri usually need all they raise for home requirements.

The outlook in Illinois and Iowa is so good, however, that more than the usual quantity of new grain has been sold for shipment already, with the price around 70@75 cents per bushel to the producer at country loading stations for No. 4 grades, considerably, however, below the figures prevailing at this season last year.

The crest of the movement of the new oats crop to terminal markets has already been passed. As compared with the previous week wheat closed 3½@4¾ cents higher, corn ⅝ cent lower to ⅞ cent higher; oats ¼ cent lower to ½ cent higher, and rye ⅝@1¼ cents higher.

The greater part of the wheat belt has sufficient moisture to permit of Fall plowing and for the seeding of new Winter wheat. The latter is not general as yet, as the fly-free dates are still several weeks away. The spring wheat crop can only be damaged now by a long period of wet weather as practically all of it is in shock, and much threshing has been done.

A private report suggests a yield of 3,015,000,000 bushels of corn, or 55,000,000 in excess of the August returns, and the September figures may show even a larger gain, as the crop in the big corn belt was in a position where moisture was highly beneficial.

STEEL OUTPUT AHEAD OF THE JULY TOTAL

LAP-WELD PLANTS BUSIEST

Increase in Buying Is Outstripping the Increase in Production.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 23.—Steel production this month promises to run at least 5 per cent. above that of July, and as swings in the steel trade usually go this would presage further increases, leaving July as the low month of the year. In gauging prospects of further increases in mill activity the fact that July was not a particularly low month in production must be borne in mind. Its being 18 per cent. below the average of the first six months of the year was a reflection of the high rate obtaining during the earlier period, while it ran 6 per cent. above the average of the six post-war years, up to the present year.

The increase in steel buying exceeds the increase in steel production, for increased buying is needed to balance the exhaustion of old orders. Thus while the Steel Corporation had larger sales in July than in June its shipments decreased, as it had less old business on which shipments could be made.

Finishing mills have rather divergent operating rates, the total steel production being a composite made up of quite different elements. The pipe mills have easily the best operation, tin plate mills coming next. The rail, sheet, bar and structured mills stand near the middle, with not much difference between them, and the wire and plate mills are at the bottom of the list. Some of the plate mills have a good operation, not a few having been closed entirely for a long time.

Conditions in the pipe trade are worthy of particular note, for information, as closely as it can be gathered, indicates that in all probability the production of welded tubular goods is running at a record high rate. It is claimed that the lap weld departments of the pipe mills have been running substantially full for many weeks, and that they are well booked for a number of weeks to come, with the butt weld departments operating at about 80 per cent. This would make an average for the pipe mills as a whole of fully 90 per cent. Capacity is increased by the starting this year of the two new plants in the Chicago district, the Mark plant, independent, and the Gary plant of the Steel Corporation. The present actual capacity of the two new plants is set at about 14 per cent. of the former capacity of the pipe trade, whereby a 90 per cent. operation of the present capacity would represent, generally speaking, 105 per cent. of the old capacity. The new plants are not yet at their full prospective capacity. The demand for tubular goods has been strongest in line pipe for gas lines, material for wells coming next, followed by line pipe for oil lines, with ordinary merchant pipe bringing up the rear and showing a full average or normal demand.

Making almost as good a showing as the remarkable one in tubular goods is the fabricated structural steel trade. The fabricating shops booked, according to Department of Commerce figures, approximately 1,450,000 net tons in the first seven months of this year, about 7 per cent. gain over the same period in either of the last two years, and shipped 1,496,400 tons, so that order books stand in substantially as full a condition as at the beginning of this year, when the situation was considered fairly good. June and July bookings, taken together, were the largest in more than five years.

What Are Your Securities Worth?

Their present value is governed by prevailing market prices. But when your estate becomes subject to Inheritance Taxation, a new factor enters in, capable of forcing a serious shrinkage. Forty-five States of the Union levy Inheritance Taxes varying in rate not only according to the amount of a bequest and the specific relationship of beneficiaries but also according to the particular securities composing the estate.

We have ready for distribution a thorough analysis, in handy reference form, of the Inheritance Tax Laws of all the States. This will be furnished, without obligation, upon request. We are also prepared to answer inquiries on the subject, covering all individual problems. Your correspondence is invited.

ECONOMIST FAVORS A LOWER TARIFF

SEES EXPORTS ENDANGERED

Says Our Creditor Position Justifies Expectation of an Adverse Balance.

The post-war world has developed an absolute obsession—a fear of production, according to Benjamin M. Anderson, economist of the Chase National Bank of the City of New York. Writing in the current issue of the Chase Economic Bulletin, Mr. Anderson presents arguments in favor of lower tariff rates to permit larger imports of goods from Europe, which he says are necessary to prevent ultimate dislocation of United States foreign trade through a contraction of exports.

"Business has been good since last Autumn," says Mr. Anderson, "and the indications for the near future point to somewhat increased activity. But there are forces at work making for reaction which we ought to eliminate while there is still time. The chief of these is our excessively high protective tariff.

Laws Not Reversed, He Says.

"The predictions of economists and bankers that as a result of our new creditor position we should have an adverse trade balance have not yet been realized. But economic laws have not been reversed. Our creditor position justifies the expectation of an adverse balance. The fulfillment of that expectation has been delayed by the following facts: (a) Europe, until recently, has been paying almost nothing to our Government. (b) Europe, until recently, has been draining herself of gold to buy goods and pay private debts here. (c) Our very high tariffs have checked imports, deferring the time of the adverse balance, but making it all the greater when it finally comes. The tariff, if high enough, can even permanently check imports, but if so it will lead to a great slump in exports when the abnormal factors sustaining exports cease to operate. (d) The main influence sustaining our favorable trade balance has been the vast volume of foreign loans we have been making.

"In 1924 our new foreign loans, exclusive of refunding, amounted to $1,000,000,000. In the first six months of 1925 the figure was $443,389,000. Neither our merchants nor our bankers are disposed to repeat the errors of 1919 and 1920, when a vast export balance was sent out on loose, unfunded credits and purchases of foreign exchange. If the export balance continues, it must be done with investors' money—and investors are interested only in good foreign credits.

"Finally, by what miracle are we able so easily to make these foreign loans? Is our capital supply inexhaustible? Or, have we been mistaking an artificial excess of bank credit for real investors' capital? The latter is in fact the case. Our excess gold, the low rediscount rates of the Federal Reserve Banks, and the excessive open market purchases of the Federal Reserve Banks have all combined to inject unneeded money into the money markets, piling up reserves in the commercial banks which commerce could not use, and leading to a vast expansion in the investments and stock market loans of the commercial banks.

Sees Fear of Production.

"The post-war world has developed an absolute obsession—a fear of production. For the past century and a half power machinery and a constant succession of mechanical inventions have been bringing luxuries to the masses of men unknown to the kings of earlier generations. Consumption has kept pace with production. Our 100,000,000 people consume vastly more than the 400,000,000 people of China—because they produce more, and so can afford to consume more. And yet we fear reviving production in Europe, and fear to let Europe send us goods to pay her debts to us.

"Labor fears production. English labor systematically resists new labor-saving inventions, and holds down output on the theory that if all the work is done today there will be none to do tomorrow. It is easy for the business man to see the fallacy of this. But he may easily be carried away by the similar fear that if imports come in they will use up domestic demand, and leave just so much less demand for domestic products. Both err in failing to see that demand itself expands and grows with production and trade. Supply of one product constitutes demand for other products. Imports constitute demand for exports. Imports coming in as payment for debts do not lessen domestic demand for domestic products. Rather, they increase by an amount the buying power of the country."

PLAN TO FINANCE OPTICAL COMBINATION

Note Issue for Bifocal Concern to Be Offered This Week—New State and City Offerings.

Preparations are being made for the public offering by bankers this week of an issue of 7 per cent. serial notes of the Continental Optical Corporation, which is being formed to consolidate the One-Piece Bifocal Lens Company and three other optical companies. The financing is undertaken as a part of the merger program.

The notes will constitute the only funded debt of the new company, and will be issued under a trust agreement which provides that the corporation may not mortgage any of its property unless by the terms of such mortgage these notes are equally secured. The consolidation is expected to result in larger earnings, not only through the elimination of certain administrative and selling expenses, but also through the development of larger net business.

Two new issues in the State and municipal group are announced for today. Spitzer, Rorick & Co. offer a new issue of $150,000 St. Lucie County, Fla., Fort Pierce Inlet District 6 per cent. bonds, due July 1, 1926 to 1955, at prices to yield 5.25 per cent. R. M. Grant & Co., Inc., offer a new issue of $120,000 City of Norwalk, Conn., Second Taxing District 4½ per cent. bonds, due 1926 to 1955, at prices yielding 4.10 per cent.

Announcement is made that interim receipts of the issue of $2,500,000 Standard Milling Company first and refunding mortgage 6½ per cent. twenty-year 6% per cent. gold bonds due March 1, 1945, may now be exchanged for definitive bonds at the office of Goldman, Sachs & Co.

ANTI-BRITISH BOYCOTT EXTENDED BY CHINESE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Chinese residents in the Dutch East Indies are conducting an active anti-British propaganda there, according to reports received here. The Shanghai troubles are being used by them as a reason for seeking a boycott of British and Japanese firms.

One poster, which was removed by the Dutch East Indian police, read:

"Chinese—The men of our race are cut down like grass by the English and Japanese and thousands of them have become their victims.

"Shall we then quietly allow the English and Japanese to earn money? No. We shall boycott their goods. Chinese, beware not to neglect this warning."

HANKOW, Aug. 23 (AP).—The Anglo-Chinese negotiations, seeking the cooperation of Chinese police in the defense of the Foreign Concession, collapsed abruptly today when native officials suddenly presented a demand for $75,000 as indemnity for the killed and wounded in the riots of June 11.

It is reported that the Chinese Chamber of Commerce has been notified officially to intensify the anti-British boycott.

PEKING, Aug. 23 (AP).—China's representatives at the forthcoming conference on revision of Chinese customs and duties, which is to be held here in conjunction with other powers, including Japan, the United States, France and Great Britain, are reported to have been agreed upon by the Cabinet.

The delegation is understood to include Shen Jui-lin, Foreign Minister; Li Shih-hao, Finance Minister; Yeh Kung-ché, Minister of Communications; Admiral Tsai Ting-kai, Director of the Taxation Bureau; Dr. W. W. Yen, head of the Finance Reorganization Commission, and Dr. C. T. Wang, head of the Russo-Chinese Agreement Commission.

There will be no Chairman of the commission, and all the delegates will be held equally responsible for the engagements entered into.

Caillaux Plans to Make the Maximum Levy 50 Per Cent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—With the right of collateral inheritance in France limited by taxes almost to the point of complete extinction, it is understood that Minister Caillaux is now preparing a bill which he intends to present upon the reconvening of Parliament, providing for drastic modification of the existing taxes on inheritance.

Under the present laws fully 8 per cent. of an inheritance passes over to the Government. By invoking obscure statutes the State can even increase its share to 90 per cent.

A recent instance of the complete loss of inheritance occurred in the case of a prominent French financier, who, having inherited 2,000,000 francs from a distant relation, did not collect one centime of his legacy.

The money remaining after the taxes were paid was absorbed by lawyers' fees.

M. Caillaux's plan, it appears now, is that the Government should not demand more than 50 per cent. of an inheritance, on the condition, however, that at least one-fourth of the legacy consist of Government Treasury bonds or interest on loans guaranteed by the Government.

COMMODITY PRICES.

Most Products Move Irregularly During Past Week—Non-Ferrous Metals Generally Firm.

The movement of prices in the local cash commodities markets was irregular during the past week. Of the twenty-one products listed, eight advanced, eight declined and five were quoted unchanged for the week. Among the grains wheat and rye were up sharply, but corn and oats were lower. In the metals group, lead, copper and zinc advanced, the price for copper being the highest quoted since last January.

TRADERS IN WHEAT ARE MARKING TIME

RUSSIA IN THE BALANCE

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Few if any of the trade leaders in wheat are taking a decided stand on either side of the market at the present time. There is a large outstanding short interest in the September and December deliveries which is said to have been out at lower prices than prevailed at the close on Saturday, and a leading local operator who talked bullish for a number of days is said to have gone out of the greater part if not all of his line. In the face of this selling the market has advanced rapidly from all breaks and has shown stubborn resistance to pressure. There is no material pressure of cash wheat either in this country or Canada, and the trade cannot determine as yet whether the Spring grain movement will have a depressing effect or not. The reception given the big Spring wheat movement by millers and others is expected to largely determine the trend of values for some time to come. Country banks in many sections of the Northwest are, however, helping farmers to hold back their wheat from market, and the failure to sell heavily prevents much hedging pressure from developing this side of the international line.

There is an urgent call for red Winter, which sold at $1.82 at St. Louis on Saturday, a new high on the crop, and this within thirty days of the crest of the movement from farms. The run of Winter wheat so far has not been heavy, largely as the result of the very small crop. Almost without exception the States east of the Mississippi River do not raise sufficient wheat for home requirements, and the deficit is usually made up by purchases from Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska. The three States have approximately 100,000,000 bushels to spare this season, or about 30,000,000 bushels less than Kansas alone had last season.

The difference between the prices prevailing this year and last does not compensate the farmer for the difference in the size of the crop, but, following the big yields of last year with satisfactory returns, the loss can be borne without much hardship, and already there are indications of a marked expansion in the acreage in the greater part of the West and Southwest which is likely to result in an increase of around 5,000,000 bushels in the estimated seed requirements of the country.

As the result of the short crop in the United States and almost utter exhaustion of reserves of old grain in Canada, Argentina and Austria, Canada is placed in a position of having practically the only wheat available for the use of importing countries until the new Southern Hemisphere crop is ready, early in 1926. So, the world's market might be manipulated readily, and such a scheme has already been broached in Canada with the idea of forcing speculators to put up the price. It is generally expected that there will be a big foreign as well as American demand for Canadian grain as soon as the latter starts to move in volume, but aside from the Southern districts, where the crop ripened prematurely, due to heat, drought and rust, the harvest is not much ahead of the average. There is less than a month's requirements now afloat, and stocks on hand are at a minimum.

Russia, again the unknown quantity in the world's wheat market, is apparently getting ready to ship freely, claims of 25,000,000 bushels sold to Italy so far being made in private cables. This quantity is somewhat in excess of the figures estimated a short while ago as being available for export for the season, although later guesses have ranged upward to 75,000,000 bushels. Foreigners have so far shown no disposition to buy for forward shipment from North America, taking a position exactly the reverse of last year.

DEMILITARIZED ZONES A CONFERENCE THEME

British Delegate Will Bring It Up at Interparliamentary Union Meeting.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The subject of demilitarized zones will be considered in the sessions of the twenty-third conference of the International Parliamentary Union, which will meet here from Oct. 1 to 7.

The question will be brought up in behalf of Great Britain by Brig. Gen. E. L. Spears, an English delegate.

With the acceptance by Japan and Italy the participating nations have increased to twenty-six. Officials here expect that at least thirty-five national parliamentary groups will be in attendance. Italy will send nineteen members of Parliament, while Japan will be represented by nine from its Diet.

A summary of the views of General Spears, outlining the English attitude toward the proposal for demilitarized zones, just received here, suggests that Great Britian believes that instead of pursuing a policy of isolation her interests are more closely bound to the continent of Europe than ever before. General Spears discusses the question as follows:

"Demilitarized zones are likely to appeal to the public opinion of the world, since the principle is of universal application, merely requiring modification in particular cases owing to geographical or other local considerations. Indeed, it may well be that demilitarized zones may prove to be in the future the solution of most frontier problems.

"But the application of the principle cannot be successful unless the zones are freely accepted by the parties concerned, as a contract entered into between ourselves to avoid a conflict in the future. In other words, any such agreement would have to be reciprocal."

RAILROADS SHOW EMPLOYMENT GAIN

SOME GROUPS DECREASED

There were 1,767,292 persons employed by Class 1 railroads for the month of May, according to the Bureau of Statistics of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This was an increase of 21,649, or 1.2 per cent., over the previous month.

This net increase resulted from an increase of 30,410 in the maintenance of way and structures department, and an increase of 643 in the train and engine service group, which includes engineers, firemen, conductors, and the like. These increases were offset by decreases in other groups, notably in the maintenance of equipment and stores groups, which showed a decrease of 8,537.

The total compensation paid by Class 1 railroads in May increased $2,992,036, or 1.3 per cent., over April. This resulted principally because May is a thirty-one-day month and April a thirty-day month.

Compared with the returns for the same month last year the employment in May shows a decrease of 1.4 per cent., and the total compensation a decrease of 0.9 per cent. The average straight time earnings per hour for all employes reported on an hourly basis increased from 57.2 cents per hour to 58.2 cents from May, 1924, to May, 1925.

The number employed and their compensation for each month in the last year follows:

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Aug. 23 (AP).—A new boundary dispute has arisen between Honduras and Nicaragua. The Honduran Government points out that Nicaragua is occupying the town of Cifuentes, in the territory given to Honduras by the King of Spain's award. It is declared that in the compact of 1920 it was agreed to maintain the status quo of the territory pending decision by the American Secretary of State, and that no Honduran troops have crossed the border.

STOCKS OF COPPER DECREASED IN JULY

OUTPUT CONTINUES LARGE

Exports for Both Domestic and Foreign Account Set New Record for First Seven Months.

Surplus stocks of copper held in the United States at the close of July aggregated 88,088 tons, a drop of 3,238 tons for the month. These stocks are the smallest since the close of the World War, and account for the recent advance in price to around 15 cents a pound, at which level the majority of the copper producing companies can do business on a fairly profitable basis. There has been some curtailment of production during recent months, but despite this scaling down of operations output continues on a large scale, and shipments of the product, both for domestic and foreign account, established new high records during the first seven months of the current year.

At the current price level of 14¾ to 15 cents a pound, copper has advanced more than a cent a pound from the price quoted at the turn of the half year, when the industry looked for a revival of buying. Such buying did develop, but the opinion prevails in the trade that more activity on the part of consumers will prevail during the rest of the year, and in view of this it is probable that shipments for 1925 will again pass all previous records, especially in view of the showing to date.

The leaders in the industry state that with the copper surplus the smallest in nearly a decade and the stocks above ground the smallest since 1923, the industry is in a stronger statistical position than at any time in recent years. And with consumption during the Fall promising to be of record-breaking proportions, the profits of the copper companies for the year will be favorable, provided the price of the metal continues to hold.

It was pointed out during the past week that one of the chief factors in the turn for the better in the industry during the past few months has been the adoption of constructive policies by the copper producers. It is stated that unlike previous occasions when producers talked freely about curtailing producing activities to a point where production would be more in line with the consumption demand, only to fail to take such action, the producers this year actually curtailed production. Consequently, instead of bringing about an increase in surplus stocks, a reduction developed, and in addition no efforts were made to force buying when consumers were inclined to withdraw from the market temporarily.

According to figures compiled by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, a total of 182,653,000 pounds of copper metal were on hand July 1. This total represented a decline of 62,044,000 pounds compared with the total on April 1, and a drop of 90,218,000 pounds compared with Jan. 1, 1925. A further reduction of 6,476,000 pounds was reported in July.

These figures, according to statements made by trade authorities, reveal not only that production in recent months has been curtailed, but that it has been curtailed so sharply that it has been running far behind consumption. At no other time since the close of the World War have refined stocks recorded such a sharp drop.

Producers are much pleased with the large export business this year. Total shipments by producers in the quarter ended June 30 aggregated 736,648,000 pounds, against 683,616,000 pounds in the first quarter of the year and 726,702,000 pounds in the first quarter of 1924, which was the previous high record. Of the total shipments in the second quarter this year 388,254,000 pounds were for domestic account, against 383,542,000 pounds in the first quarter of the year, and export shipments aggregated 348,294,000 pounds in the June quarter, or the largest total for any quarter since the end of the war. The total compared with shipments of 300,074,000 in the first quarter of 1924, the record since the war.

These export figures, it is stated, leave no room for doubt that the copper consuming industries of Europe are rapidly reviving. The total exports for the first half of 1925 aggregated 648,365,000 pounds, representing an increase of 97,612,000 pounds, or about 18 per cent., compared with total export shipments of 550,753,000 pounds reported in the first half of 1924, and a gain of 276,480,000, or about 75 per cent., compared with the total of 369,888,000 pounds shipped abroad in the first six months of 1923.

It is pointed out by trade authorities that if the export shipments continue on the present scale, shipments for 1925 will probably reach the record-breaking figure of 1,300,000,000 pounds, compared with actual shipments of 1,182,790,000 pounds reported last year. Despite the sharp gain in shipments in the second quarter, it is further stated, producers expanded their production only moderately. Total production in North and South America of refined copper in the second quarter of 1925 aggregated 976,604,000 pounds, against 855,484,000 pounds in the first three months of the year. Since the beginning of the third quarter, it is stated, production has declined slightly.

LABOR SITUATION A FACTOR

Financial reports made public by the carriers so far this year and the car loading figures for the weeks not tabulated have led many responsible railroad men to predict huge earnings for 1925. It is highly probable, in the opinion of many, that the railroads will closely approach their best previous earnings, which were $1,400,000,000 in the calendar year 1916.

During the first six months of the year, Class 1 railroads, representing a total of 236,554 miles of line, earned a net operating income of $487,668,257, compared with $392,355,622 for the same period of 1923, or an increase of $43,312,635. July, it is estimated, will establish a gain of at least $26,000,000, while August should show an increase of $15,000,000 and September one of $5,000,000.

From that time on the carriers' income is expected to run about the same as for the Fall and Winter of 1924. This estimate, which is considered conservative, would, however, bring the roads $91,000,000 more profit than last year and result in a larger return on their property investment than they have earned in any year since the war.

The increase in railroad profits is regarded in financial circles as not only indicating good business conditions over the country, but as being the result of the economy and efficiency programs undertaken by the carriers in recovering from the period of Federal control. Since their release they have invested more than $3,000,000,000 in improving service.

The labor situation has also been better this year, although there is at present the possibility of an anthracite strike, which would undoubtedly check the rising earnings. It is also reported that different groups of railroad workers are preparing demands for presentation in the Fall. The general situation in respect to labor is, in fact, regarded as a cloud upon the horizon and has prevented many observers from taking a particularly optimistic view of the future.

TIE-UPS ON LONG ISLAND.

Three Train Accidents Delay Travelers—Two on Rockaway Division.

Three tie-ups on the Long Island Railroad disrupted service on two divisions for several hours yesterday afternoon and evening. Shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon a steam engine on Train 5 on the Oyster Bay line was derailed rounding a curve a short distance from the Oyster Bay terminal. No one was injured.

The passengers were taken to their destination in buses, and while the engine was being replaced on the rails buses were used to carry on service between Locust Valley and Oyster Bay. Full service was resumed at 9:10 P. M.

There were two tie-ups on the Rockaway Beach Division, and many persons bound home from the beaches were delayed. A car in a southbound electric train jumped the track near Ozone Park and blocked traffic from both directions. Traffic from the beaches was rerouted after some delay, but southbound service was tied up until the track was cleared at 11:30. There were no injuries.

Traffic between New York, Brooklyn and the Rockaways was tied up for twenty-five minutes last evening when a light train which was being moved from a siding onto the track of the main line toppled over and fell across a third rail.

There was a roar like thunder, and sparks were sent swishing in all directions. People in the vicinity of Beach 110th Street ran for safety. The wrecking crew was summoned and the power was shut off. The traffic was tied up from 6:50 to 7:15.

MEXICAN CLAIMS RUSHED.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Only one week remains for the filing of claims with the General Claims Commission, which is to settle all claims by the citizens of Mexico and this country against one or the other since 1868, with the exception of those arising from the revolutionary period of 1910 to 1920. Last minute efforts are being made to prepare and file with the commission all those presented.

More than 700 claims already have been filed by the American agent and it is expected that between 1,000 and 1,200 will be added before the end of the week.

Few Mexican claims have been presented, most of them dealing with damages due to the Vera Cruz occupation, and the killing of Mexicans in Texas and other border States. The Mexican agent may present many new cases this week.

No decisions have been handed down by the commission, which will meet here again on the first Monday in February.

The Special Claims Commission, which is considering only the settlement of claims of American citizens arising from revolutionary acts in Mexico from Nov. 20, 1910 to May 31, 1920, will hold its next meeting in Mexico City the first week in January.

PROPELLER KILLS WOMAN.

WINDSOR, Ontario, Aug. 23 (AP).—Mrs. Thelma Halman, wife of George A. Halman of Detroit, was almost cut in two this evening when she was caught in the propeller of her husband's gasoline launch while swimming in Lake St. Clair, one mile off Belle River.

Mrs. Halman made a dive and was immediately drawn toward the boat. Her husband and two of his friends on the launch failed to see her plight and her cries for help were drowned by the noise of the motor. The body was recovered.

EACH HAS PRICE PROBLEM

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP).—Along with the Summer vacationists, American automobile and oil production are traveling hand in hand to a successful season, according to joint reports about the two industries from Detroit and the southwestern oil fields.

Pa and ma and the family, paying a little less for the car, from "bus" to brougham, and paying a little more for gasoline, have helped these two industries meet their problems. The problems have been almost exactly opposite, that in the automotive field due to lowering of prices and in the oil to the contingencies accompanying higher prices.

In motors, leaders described the problem as conservatism, the purpose being to avoid overestimating. The expected increase in manufacture of passenger automobiles in the United States in the last seven months was 192,760 over the same period of the preceding year. The increase in truck manufacture for the same seven months was 58,037. Nevertheless, late in August Detroit reported business rushing to keep up with the increased demand.

A. P. Sloan Jr., President of the General Motors Corporation, said every effort was being made to get production up to sales. Several Detroit plants are working night shifts, with others running on full time, and in both classes are included some of the best known cars and some of the high-priced class.

H. Ponting, business manager of The Detroit News, said the number of men employed in Detroit was greater than during the same period of the last four years. He attributed price reduction to "economies in manufacture and more intensive engineering."

Another important automobile change this Summer is the increase in popularity of closed cars. One large Detroit organization, building many closed bodies, reported its plants were turning out 20 per cent. more bodies than they had been designed for. Mr. Sloan said that in another organization the proportion of closed bodies manufactured jumped from 43 per cent. last year to above 65 per cent. at present.

Clarence E. Eldridge, an automobile official of Chicago, said there is a possibility that ultimately closed cars might be cheaper than open, because of the quantity production of the closed variety.

One of the oil problems was whether higher prices might bring production and storage so fast as to force the facing of unsettling conditions and a price drop. The week opens with several active campaigns on for large gasoline prices, but with reports from the Southwest that the basic conditions of oil production are steady.

J. A. Pressly of Dallas, Texas, manager of the Sun Oil Company, said:

"Prospects of the industry in Texas are good now. The gross daily average Texas production in July last year was 878,365 barrels, while the daily average in July this year was 414,673. The figures for July of last year were about the average for that year, while for July this year the daily average is somewhat less than the previous months. The present price of oil is better than a year ago. Last year's average for Texas was about $1.40 a barrel, and this year about $1.85. Oil in storage in Texas declined 25 per cent. from the figures of a year ago."

The President of the National Association of Independent Oil Producers, W. H. Gray of Tulsa, Okla., said:

"There should be no pessimism, whatever as to the oil business for the remainder of the year. Great quantities of oil which have been in storage for months have been moved to the market. Virtually all stored oil will find its way to market by the end of the year. It is not improbable that in 1926 there will be 100,000,000 barrels of empty tankage east of the Rockies. This condition should guarantee the industry a prosperous year."

Are You Living In the Past or Present?

Thousands of books are written on ancient, medieval and modern history.

Thousands of instructors are employed to teach school children and college students the history of the past.

Yet with this vast effort to educate the civilized world in past events, the present is too often neglected.

A thorough knowledge of today's events and their significance in future history is vitally important to you. It is not enough to understand the past. A knowledge of developments in commercial air transportation, discoveries of a possible cancer cure, political controversies, educational changes, industrial conditions and the lives and accomplishments of prominent men and women are necessary to an intelligent understanding of our age. Such subjects are constantly discussed among business and social acquaintances.

You may keep in close touch with the world of today if you follow the month's history of all nations written each month by fourteen distinguished American historians in collaboration with the accredited Diplomatic Representatives of fifty-five nations.

AUGUST FUR SALES.

These of This Month the Best the Trade Has Experienced.

This month will go down as the best August fur month experienced since such fur sales were started a few years ago, according to I. B. Treister, Vice President of Wells-Treister Company, Inc. Retailers, in anticipation of a good month in August, he said, started to place orders early in June for immediate and short-time delivery. As a result, they were well prepared to make an excellent showing when they began their sales during the first week of the month.

"After the first few days of these feature sales," Mr. Treister continued, "retailers' stocks were appreciably depleted and reorders have been received in the fur market consistently since. Salesmen on the road have been writing and wiring for rush shipments. Muskrat coats so far have proved an outstanding feature of the season's demand.

"One of the reasons for stimulation of the demand for fur coats is the high price which must necessarily be charged for the average type of good cloth coat this season. This high price is necessary because of the large amount of fur used for collars, cuffs and trimming, which brings the price almost to the level of fur coats. In addition, the fur coat, regardless of how closely it may follow the season's style trend, has a degree of stability in it which makes it available for use for two or more seasons.

"Regardless of the large volume of fur coats being sold through the August sales, there is every indication that those stores that do not feature these merchandising events anticipate a good season. Orders have been booked for future delivery extending through September. While these orders represent considerable volume and an expected good season, they have been placed cautiously and apparently with well-laid plans. It is the general expectation that substantial reorders will follow. The increase in the price of fur skins has not been as great as might be expected in a market decidedly favorable to the seller."

AUCTION SALE SHOWS PUBLIC CONFIDENCE

The sale of the 1,438 Remington Vernam estate lots, between Rockaway Beach Boulevard and Jamaica Bay, at public auction by Joseph P. Day strongly reflected the confidence the public places in Rockaway values and the future of Rockaway realty. Mr. Day received a total of $1,565,575, or an average of $1,087 per lot.

The outstanding feature of the sale was the enormous attendance of 8,000 to 10,000 bidders at the first session of the sale, held on Saturday, Aug. 15, and the fact that at least 90 per cent. of the buyers were from Manhattan, Brooklyn, Bronx and New Jersey, while several large purchasers were from Baltimore, Indianapolis, Providence and several other towns far distant from New York. The investment of this fresh capital in Rockaway real estate speaks volume for the confidence of the public in Rockaway coast real estate and Rockaway coast values.

Mr. Day sold more than 1,100 lots in less than six hours of actual selling time. With the exception of two large purchases of entire square blocks, practically all of the purchasing was in plots of two to six lots.

BUILDERS ASK PUBLIC WHAT TO PAY LABOR

Current analysis of the New York building construction market shows the key to the near-by prosperity of the industry firmly in the hand of the public, writes Allen E. Beals in The Dow Service Daily Building Reports.

It is for the investor to say whether construction costs shall rise still further or not. The employe, asking for increases in wages effective Jan. 1, 1926, points to the fact that if the public did not approve of wage increases there would not now be an increase in plan filings in all five boroughs of New York, emphasizing that the bulk of the projects developing now cannot possibly be completed before the new wage scales take effect.

In this connection it has been the subject of more than passing notice for some time that a change has manifested itself in plan filings. If the present increase is maintained New York City will pass out of 1925 not only fully recovering the long lead 1924 had over it earlier in the year but will actually surpass it by a good margin. Week by week of late the 1924 gain has been melting before the increasingly hot pace of the last half of this year.

The Building Trades Employers Association, facing the insistent demand of the workers for more money, realizes that if in granting increases the public should finally disapprove, the reaction would affect by comparative idleness the entire building construction industry of New York City.

One individual group of contractors has flatly posted its position denying the justification of additional wage increases in the building trades. The electrical contractors of the Electrical Board of Trade, Inc., has pioneered in thus marking the line of wages beyond which "they shall not pass," whereupon, it seems, the stone setters countered with a demand for a wage scale of $14 a day.

The Building Trades Employers Association has taken action to find out whether the building public will stand another boost its construction costs. The electrical contractor group of the Electrical Board of Trade, Inc., flatly contends that the public is already tired and that when it rises to protest it will give no advance warning and its protest will be decisive.

The investor, keeping his ear close to the ground for warnings of twists in demand, begins to think that the income of the average rent payer is nearing a turn. In New England mill wages have been cut. At the same time opportunity is given to those who are industrious enough to have just as much money to spend or save as heretofore, to work an extra hour or so a day. If this is indicative of the path that business, commerce and industry are preparing to take, rent "snowballing" is due for an abrupt stop in New York City.

Whatever the source of the inspiration may have been, whether from the employe, the individual group of contractors who oppose wage increases or the investor, the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers Association met during the week just closed and voted to appoint a committee of five, with powers similar to those reposed in the famous 1921 Stabilization Committee, to find out the predominant sentiment of the organized building construction industry of New York with respect to the effect upon building in general if further increase in wages occurs.

C. G. Norman, Chairman of the Board of the Building Trades Employers Association, who is now proceeding toward the selection of the members of this committee, said:

"This committee was authorized for the purpose of studying the entire wage-increase problem, including the attitude the public will take if it comes to a question of granting an increase. It will find out from every trade group represented in this association in a heart-to-heart way what they will do. It is easy enough to say "No," but it takes lots of nerve and costs lots of money to unitedly stand behind it."

Charles L. Eidlitz, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Electrical Board of Trade, Inc., said:

"The building investing public must now be appealed to for forcible expression of its opinion on the subject of whether it is willing for building costs to continue to increase.

"The man who builded in 1917, the recent low point of construction costs, automatically increased his rents to the level his neighborhood competitor fixed, based upon 1921 building costs. When the 1917 apartment or office building builder comes into the 1926 construction market and in 1927 finds competing apartments based on the new wage scales of 1926 he will again put up his rents to the 1927 cost levels of his competitor.

"It is for the public to say when this is to stop, but the employer of labor must declare his position first."

CITY AND ENVIRONS ON BIG SCALE MAP

SENT TO THE REGIONAL PLAN

A large scale map of the New York region, made in twenty-three sections, has been delivered to the Regional Plan of New York and Its Environs by the United States Geological Survey, it was announced yesterday. The map shows the city and Long Island and extends east into Connecticut as far as Bridgeport. It goes north in New York State as far as Newburgh and west and south in New Jersey as far as Lake Hopatcong and the North Jersey coast.

The area covered by the map is more than 5,500 square miles. About 9,000,000 persons live and work in the 400 cities and towns in the area, which is the "region" of the Regional Plan. The map is on the scale of 2,000 feet to the inch.

"The scale map," said an announcement, "will be used as the base sheet of the Regional Plan. On it will be pieced together the various planning proposals and the results of the information which the staff of the plan has collected and of the studies which it has made. Airplane maps will supply details of built-up areas, which are not shown on the map. Thus the framework of the Regional Plan can be graphically completed.

"Proposals regarding circulation of vehicles and people, distribution of foods and supplies and sanitation will form one part of the plan; the proposals for utilization of land and buildings will form another. The entire planning program is based upon estimates for what will be needed ten years from now and thirty years from now if the population continues to grow at its recent rate. The plan will ultimately embody proposals regarding waterways, railways, highways, main drainage and sewage disposal, parks and other public conveniences."

In commenting on the program of presentation of the plan, Thomas Adams, Director of the Regional Plan of New York Committee, said:

"In making a Regional Plan which is greater in respect of area, population and complexity of problems than any hitherto attempted, we should consider all proposals to be put on the plan from a regional point of view, and therefore in broad outline, leaving detailed city planning to the municipal authorities. Thus, while we are indicating new railways or highways we will have to assume that the contours are approximately correct, and leave the selection of precise routes to the detailed planning which should be carried out by the different communities.

"There is no really good precedent to guide us; part of our duty is to make a precedent. A regional plan should be a guide in regard to the functional development of the region rather than an attempt to define arbitrarily the uses of different areas within it."

ASYLUM TO BE READY DEC. 1.

Three New Buildings at Middletown Nearing Completion.

Three new buildings being constructed at the Middletown State Hospital for the Insane at Middletown, N. Y., which will relieve crowding there, will be ready for occupancy on or before Dec. 1, according to a report made public yesterday by Sullivan W. Jones, State Architect. Mr. Jones investigated the buildings because of the delay in erecting them and accusations of faulty construction.

The work has become known in the State Architect's department as "the jinx," because of the difficulties which have been encountered since it was undertaken. The buildings were badly needed, as one of them is a reconstruction of the main building which was burned in October, 1921, another a new ward for chronic patients, and the third a new laundry, which already has been put into use.

The inspection by Mr. Jones was assisted by outside experts. The only defective work uncovered, he said, was being replaced or had been replaced, the cost of some of it being borne by the bonding company. Two contractors have been engaged on the work, which was to have been finished last year.

"The delay on this work," said Mr. Jones, "is the almost inescapable consequence of the method required by law under which the State awards its contracts. No intelligent individual or business corporation would entrust its important structural enterprises to a contractor who happened to be the low bidder among any or all contractors who chose to bid, irrespective of their competency or responsibility."

87TH BRIGADE NOW IN CAMP.

Special to The New York Times.

PEEKSKILL, Aug. 23.—About 2,000 troops of the 87th Infantry Brigade, New York National Guard, which includes the 165th Regiment of New York City and the 74th Regiment of Buffalo, reached the State military camp in Peekskill. They arrived a few hours after the Fourteenth Infantry of Brooklyn, under command of Colonel Fred Baldwin, and the Tenth Infantry of Albany, under Colonel Charles L. Walsh, had departed.

Colonel John J. Phelan commands the 165th, which was a part of the Rainbow Division in France, and Colonel William R. Pooley, a member of the Public Servic Commission, commands the 174th regiment. Brigadier General George R. Dyer commands the brigade. Major General Charles W. Berry, commander in chief of the Guard; Colonel Edward McLeer, chief of staff, and Colonel William R. Wright, post executive officer, greated the newly arrived officers and troops, who will train for two weeks.

Police and State troops searched for a United States Army automobile which was stolen early this morning. It was painted drab and bore the sign: "U. S. A. 201,434."

To Investigate Death From Poison.

OSSINING, Aug. 23.—Dr. Amos O. Squire of Ossining, the Westchester County medical examiner, was called to White Plains today to investigate the death of Mrs. Laura Holbrook, 46 years old, who took bichloride of mercury nine days ago. She lived nine days after swallowing the poison. The records of the White Plains hospital show that she took the poison intentionally.

Cuban Rifle Team Sails.

HAVANA, Aug. 23 (AP).—The members of the Cuban Army shooting team, headed by Captain Alberto Gandia, sailed today for New Orleans. They will proceed to Camp Perry, Ohio, to take part in the rifle contests.

20th Century Limited through the Hudson River Valley

THREE daylight hours of the journey from New York to Chicago on the 20th Century Limited are in the wonderful valley of the Hudson River—a valley rich in historical and literary traditions.

This is the valley of Hendrick Hudson and Robert Fulton, of Washington and Rochambeau, of Arnold and Andre, of Rip Van Winkle and Ichabod Crane and Captain Kidd, of the phantom ship of Rambout Van Dam and the Headless Horseman of Sleepy Hollow.

English navigators, Dutch patroons, Tappan Zee Indians, Colonial troopers, and the heroes of Irving and Cooper—they are still there in the Valley as the Century thunders through.
